BROWNING.

Among the wondrous ways of men and time, He went as one that ever found and sought, And bore in mind the insipid spirit of thought. To illumine with instance of its fire sublime To dusk of many a cloud-like age and clime, No spirit in shape of light and darkness wrought. No faith, no fear, no dream, no rapture, That blossoms in wisdom, taught that burns in crime. No virtuous girl and armed and hoimed with light, No love more lovely than the snows are white, No serpent sleeping in some dead soul's tomb, No song bird singing from some live soul's height. But he might hear, interpret, or illumine With some invasive as the dawn of doom. —Algeron Charles Swinburne in the Partridge Review.

FRESH FUN.

The Sharp and Witty Sayings of the Press Men

A certain young lady with sweet brown eyes, and a certain youth with a broad Byronic forehead, sat down in close proximity to concoct a joke for Life. One of them proposed the following:

Reginald—I hope you do not take me for a fool.

Beatrice—I would not take you if you were.

The other moved to amend as follows:

Reginald—I hope you do not take me for a fool.

Beatrice—I would not take you unless you were.

Now, the question at issue is: Which of them proposed the first and which the second—the lady or the youth?—Life.

"You are a duck, Ivy."

"But my name is not Ivy!" hastily interrupted the fair creature, in surprise and unblocking her arms from his neck.

"No—that is—of course—you know—"

he began, hysterically and getting fearfully red in his face, "But—I—I had a sort of poetical reference to the tightness with which you cling. Ha! ha!" and the villain fairly laughed as he got out of his terrible mistake.

"Some curious results from the license law in this State, ain't there?"

"Yes, in many ways, but still I think them good, generally."

"Maybe, but you never see any men full in saloons now, and I notice the beer-glasses are never full either, almost half froth."

The car porter presented himself before his intended victim, brush in one hand and the other in the usual threatening position.

"But," said the passenger, "I am a cashier on a hasty trip to Canada."

"Shake! We never charges the profesh." And they embraced as brothers.

A Liberal Corporation.—Grateful citizen—"I was delighted to read in the papers that you had refused to raise the price of ice." President ice company—"That is true; we shall make no change in the price. The only change will be in the lumps."—New York Weekly.

A Georgia editor says that a man who would cheat a country editor out of a year's subscription would give a nickel with a hole in it in the foreign missionary fund and sigh because the hole was not bigger than the nickel.—New York Sun.

"That's your new terrier, is it? She's a beauty!"

"She ought to be at the price. Come here, Di!"

"Di!—What do you call her, Diana?"

"No, Diamond; because she's such a dear little thing."

"We've just caught a lunatic," said the Chicago officer to the house sergeant; "he says he comes from St. Louis."

"Let him go, he can't be much of a lunatic if he had sense enough to leave that God-forsaken village."

Judge to the prisoner—"If you can say anything exculpatory you are at liberty to speak."

"Thank you, sir. It's the first time I've ever had the privilege and I've been married thirty years."

"I don't believe in raising children on silver dishes and golden spoons."

"Well, it isn't altogether wise to raise them by the ears or on the toes of boots, either."

An exchange discusses "The Future of the African." We know, without reading the article, that his future will be dark.—Norristown Herald.

"Long idleness has made Shirley desperate."

"What does he propose to do?"

"Go to work."—Chicago Globe.

What a darling world it would be if everybody were as polite as a candidate! —Courier-Journal.

OPACARH CAN'T BE CURED

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Opacarah is a blood-purifying constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Its "starb" cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. It's "starb" Cure is a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonic known, combined with the best blood purifier, acting directly on the mucous surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Opacarah. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 15 cents.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Footing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Lemon Hot Drops.

For coughs and colds, take Lemon Hot Drops. For sore throat and bronchitis, take Lemon Hot Drops. For pneumonia and laryngitis, take Lemon Hot Drops. For consumption and catarrh, take Lemon Hot Drops. For all throat and lung diseases, take Lemon Hot Drops. An elegant and reliable preparation. Sold by druggists, 25 cents per bottle. Prepared by H. Mosley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.
