WHEN LOVE IS TRUE.

BY ORELLA KEY BELL.

When love is true, no test it needs,
And from such good roots,
In confidence were sown its seeds,
And confidence the fruitage breeds,
And jealousy and doubts are weeds
That spring from different soil.

When love is true, it seeks no test,
Nay, scores to one suppose;
If ranking faces thy heart infect,
Hest thou assured thy bosom's guest
Is only love in name at best
And one of true love's subtlest foes.

When love is true, to love is right:
It is the prize of heaven
Dropp'd in the heart that makes it light,
The sieve that sifts the cool, pure white,
The God-illumined beam on light
That points the nearest road to Heaven.

FRESH FUN.

The Sharp and Witty Sayings of the Press Men.

A milk man was just getting into his wagon the other morning when a man came around the corner and called:

"Say, you—wait a minute!"

The man jumped for his seat and drove off as hard as the horse could go, while the other stood staring after him with a disgusted look, and finally said:

"Well, that's queer. I wanted to ask him if he knew of anybody who could draw me some soda."

"Be you the Milk Inspector?" asked a boy.

"Of course not."

"No relation?"

"No."

"Then you wait and I'll run up and head him off in the alley and tell him so. He'll want a quarter, though, for the way you skeart him. His collar was all limpsy before the horse had made two jumps."—Detroit Free Press.

He looked like an old snaker who wanted to get rid of a big head, and after gazing at the soda fountain for a minute or two he said:

"I see you have Congress water."

"Yes."

"Is it good?"

Highly recommended, sir."

"Named after Congress, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir."

"Congressmen all drink it, don't they?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, then, give me something else. They probably drink it to get drunk on, while I want something to sober off with. Guess I'll try some Vichy. Don't know him, but I'll take the chances of his being a sober man."—Detroit Free Press.

Caustic Griffin (the tramp)—"Madam, will you please give me a piece of that mince pie you had when I visited this part of the country last."

Housewife—"No; go away, or I'll call the dog."

Tramp—"Thanks, madam, thanks!"

Housewife—"And for what?"

Tramp (sacheting away)—"For giving me another chance to live. I called for that pie with the intention of committing suicide, but now I feel a little fonder of life. Good day, madam!"—Lawrence American.

"I find it is a good plan to lay my poems aside for a month or so. When I have almost forgotten what I wrote I take them up, criticize them carefully, and rewrite the parts that seem weak."

"I know that is a good plan, but I never can keep from reading my poems all the time while I have them about me."

"Well, why don't you send them away to some magazine, and then criticize and fix them up when you have them returned."—New York Sun.

"Mr. Digby told me he didn't enjoy his wedding tour. Queer sort of statement, wasn't it?"

"Why, no, auntie; not under the circumstances."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, you see Mrs. Digby had such a horror of people taking Digby and her for a bridal couple that she took a chaperone along."—Life.

"Mary Ann," her mistress told her, "before ironing the finer linen always try the heat of the iron on something coarse so as not to scorch the material."

"I don't need to, mum; thank hevins, I hev a nose, and I knows when the linen is scorching by the smell of it, mum."

Briggs—"It's wonderful, the amount of veneration and confidence a man's boy has in his father's wisdom."

Briggs—"It is different with my boy since I went to the ball game with him and had to have all the points explained to me."—Terre Haute Express.

A Lady—"Have you any oyster plant seeds?"

Grocer—"Yes, ma'am."

Lady—"Well, send me two or three dozen, and, mind you, I wish to raise blue points."—Detroit Free Press.

A marriage license is altogether too often a lick her license.

Advice to Mothers

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, always all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best and most reliable remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething, or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.
