THE ASCENSION.

"The rising form on Olivet
A summer shadow cast;
The hoary trees, with May-dews wet,
Drooped as the shadows past;
And as thy lessening form departed,
While stand the eleven round,
Thy blessing falls into their hearts
Like dew upon the ground.

"And still the silver cloud from Heaven,
That stooped to be thy car,
Mounts upward from the lone eleven,
Like some receding star;
And hymns come down, like whispers heard
By those who love them well,
Tones of the old prophetic word,
The voice of Israel!

"Lift up your heads, ye gates on high,
Doors of the eternal dome
Be lift, that in triumphantly
The King of glory come."

FRESH FUN.

The Sharp and Witty Sayings of the Press Men.

"That was a very foolish young woman in New York," observed Mr. Billus, laying his morning paper down for a moment and renewing the attack on his beefsteak, "that married the wrong man the other day, and blurted out her confession to that effect at the altar. The young man she didn't marry has had a lucky escape."

"Yes, she was foolish to make a fuss at such a time," assented Mrs. Billus, who was staring abstractedly at the wall. "Most women find out soon enough that they have married the wrong man, but they have sense enough to keep still about it. Have some more coffee, John!" she inquired sweetly.—Chicago Tribune.

"Ellen," the head of the house shouted from up stairs, "do you know what's become of my black-headed razor?"

"No, I don't but, our new help, Susan, was cleaning your room to-day."

"Well, ask her about it."

"I can't now, I've let her go to the colored Crab-seller's ball to-night."

"So your daughter Jennie is married?"

"Yes."

"Married well?"

"She married a man of power and influence."

"Indeed! Statesman, banker, politician, General, or Government official?"

"Neither; she married the janitor of a flat."—Boston Courier.

Recently in Switzerland during a storm a shower of live caterpillars fell in a village there. This is paralleled by a late case in Jersey where a barn was stormed by a traveling company and a shower of rats, cats and other stock fell on the stage in a perfect rain of terror.

"My lawyer ought to be here instead of me," the burglar said through his cell door to the warden.

"You robbed the house, didn't you?"

"Yes, but the lawyer's got all I took. If he's got the plunder why am I punished?"

"You remember Jones, the fellow who was always asking, 'Is it warm enough for you?'"

"Yes."

"Well, he's dead."

"Is that so? How happy he must be. He can ask that question all the year round now."—Brooklyn Life.

Miss Pussanfeather—Are you going to Saratoga next summer?

Mrs. Overgaiter—No, I think I will stay home and use ice. It will be quite as expensive, I fancy.—Yonkers Statesman.

"What! Going to see her again? I thought you had bidden each other farewell forever!"

"Oh, you see, she's a great admirer of music, and our farewells are all of a Patti character."

"I just thought I'd stop in and ask you how you were, Mrs. Sharply, and I must be going right away again."

"Oh, how kind of you, madam!"

Briggs—Tompkins is engaged to a widow, I hear.

Briggs—Yes; that's just like him. He is too lazy to do any of the courting.—Terre Haute Express.

What a vast difference it makes with the average man whether he picks up a carpet tack with his fingers or his heel.—Danville Breeze.

Two problems of the future—What shall we do with the many young woman and with the effeminate young man?—Puck.

This is just the kind of weather when it pays to borrow a new umbrella and keep it all summer.—Richmond Recorder.

The boy who hates arithmetic says that sum things annoy him more than others.—Glens Falls Gazette.

Shad roes by any other name would doubtless taste about the same.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.
