THE DAILY ARGUS.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., JUNE, 25 1890

THE SONG OF THE SEA. HARRIET WHITNEY.

Their world was a world of enchantment;
A wonder of luminous light
Came out with a flaring of carmine,
From all the black spaces of night;
The music of morn was as blithesome
And cheery as masic could be;
But all through the dawn and the daybreak
I mourned for the song of the sea.

They showed me the marvellons flowers
And fruits of their sun-beaten lands:
They said, "Here are vine-tangled valleys;
Forget ye the barron white sands;
For a weariness unto the spirit
The dash of the breakers must be;
Se dwell ye beside our blue waters;
Forget the sad song of the sea."

and I wrapped me about in the sunlight. On the marge of a dimpling stream, And there in a tangle of lilles, I wove me a wonderful dream: And a song from my dreamland went floating Far up where the angles must be. But deep in its under victations I heard the sweet song of the sea.

With the dew in his locks all a-glitter.
The Prince of the Day time lay dead;
F r the silver-white lance of the twilight
Smote off the gold crown from his head;
And the Princess of Night came to see him, Her light all about him to hang; and a nightingale screened in the thicket His song to the slumberer sang.

And the stream from the tangle of lilies
Came winding its way through the sedge;
And a silvery necturne it rippled
Among the tall flags on its edge;
But its babble I fain would have given
For the sleep wooing sea voices, luli,
And the nightingale's song would have bartered
For a desolate cry of a gull.

Their world was a world of enchantment; And they laughed with the laughter *fscorn, When I turned me away from its beauty In the light of the luminous morn; But I heard a grand voice in the distance Insistently calling to me,
And I rose with a jubilant spirit to me,
And followed the song of the sea.

The Sharp and Witty Sayings of the Press Men.

"Will you give me your nam- ?" asked the census taker.

"I had much rather you would let me take yours," answered the ancient maiden, with a courage born of despair. But the government minion was a married man, and the deal was off .-Terre Haute Express,

"What name, please?" asked the census taker.

"How long will it be before your old book is out !" "What's that got to do with it ?"

"A good deal. At present it's Mrs Green, widow; but if I know anything, in less than a month it's going to be Mrs. something else. That's the difference it makes."

"The S. P. C. A. ought to look after that man," said Mr. Jabrock to his wife, as they passed a carter who was working his horse towards a water trough.

"What for? I don't see anything cruel in his treatment.

"You don't? Why, he's driving his brute to drink."

"My husband has been gone nearly three hours from the house, and I can't for the life of me imagine what has become of him,"

"Perhaps he has gone fishing." "Oh! no, he hasn't gone fishing, for Through trading with people who claim to undersell us.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little chorub awake as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, aliays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best gown remedy for diarrhoss, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.
