LOCAL BRIEFS.

WHAT was the matter with "Hannerh" at the Congressional Convention at Clinton?

LET'S see: isn't it in order for Col. Wharton J. Green to write another letter? Well, let-ter-go.

HIS numerous friends all over the State are glad to know that Congressman Bunn has been renominated from the "Metropolitan" district.

IT is the business of THE ARGUS to "mind its own business"—and its business is pretty latitudinous, but we know where to draw the line and how to "tote fair."

WE are having a surfeit of rain hereabouts just now; but they are still having dry times in Saulston township, where they have not had rain for weeks, and crops are suffering greatly.

WHILE loading logs on board a flat car for the Enterprise Lumber Company, on the line of the A. & N. C. R. R., yesterday, a colored man was seriously injured, if not fatally, by a log slipping, and rolling over him with great force. Medical aid was rendered him in this city, where he was brought for treatment, and he is doing as well as possible.

WE notice quite a number of the soldier boys returning already from the State Guard Encampment at Wrightsville. It is no longer a widespread individual objection, but it is now an open and general antipathy on the part of the military of the State to Wrightsville as the place for holding the annual State Guard Encampment. The boys, during every day in military circles for a change of venue, so to speak.

THE news is reported to THE ARGUS that in Pikeville township last week, while plowing in his field, Mr. Asa B. Collier unearthed sixteen young rattle-snake's pilots, measuring about ten inches each in length. It is said that Asa moved right lively around there for a while in search of a fence rail or stick, and when he was armed for the work of death he succeeded in killing the whole sixteen reptiles, and fairly thirsted for more—more snakes, we mean, for Asa is not a drinking man, and never thirsts for the "ardent," and those snakes were real, live, sure-enough snakes—and he killed them.

ONE of the pleasantest musical entertainments it has been the good fortune of the Goldsboro people to attend was that given under the management of the ladies of the Baptist church at the Messenger Opera House on Thursday evening last. The program consisted of instrumental and vocal music and recitations and was enthusiastically received by the audience, every piece being encored. To attempt to say what pieces were best, or to mention any one piece as being especially worthy of praise, would be, among so much that was excellent, a very difficult task. Yet we feel that the audience would fully agree with us in saying that Misses Dugger and Robbins surpassed themselves and fully deserved their repeated encores. The flute playing of Mr. Wiley T. Johnson was also well received.

THE genial and thoroughly good humored John C. Green, of Newbern, than whom there is not a better fireman in the State, read in a Goldsboro paper that the knitting mill was ready to begin operations, and so this morning dropped in to see how the thing worked, intending to start one of his own in Newbern. Well, John found the building just receiving its plastering and, instead of standing around watching the delicate thread go round and round the knitting machine, he had to amuse himself elsewhere. He gave our pleasant streets and nice houses a very fair canvass and finally "pulled up" at the depot, where he fell into the clutches of an ARGUS man. Parties who were around thought that it was a sight good for sore eyes to see "John C." and the quill-driver engaged in a dissertation upon those large locomotives which are accustomed to roll by on the A. C. L. It was Newbern vs. Goldsboro and was "nip and tuck" between them, till finally they made it "even Stephen." John was inclined to think that the immense steamers which run to his home could surpass in carrying power and beauty of engineering anything we could show, and was just entering into an elaborate statement defending his position, when a heavily laden fruit train, a regular ground shaker, came rumbbling along. John's experience was something like the deacon's—"First a tremor and then a thrill." He quickly stepped back to "give the thing more room," but as he saw after car loaded with inviting melons pass him he subsided into his wonted self—he had seen something he was acquainted with. And then, well, that's enough. Come again, Johnnie, and don't be selfish next time; bring some of those genial Newbern fellows with you, and drop in to see us. Our latch string is always on the outside.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Jas. M. Howard, of Newbern, was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. A. G. Craton returned home yesterday from Wrightsville.

Mrs. J. F. Oliver, of Mt. Olive, passed through the city yesterday on her way to LaGrange.

Little Misses Evaline and Helen Privett left yesterday on a visit to relatives in Lenoir county.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hall, who have been visiting relatives in Louisville, returned home yesterday.

Miss Cora Leiberman, of Raleigh, who has a wide circle of admiring friends in this city, is visiting Mrs. I. Fuchler.

Miss Lizzie Dortch, much to the pleasure of her many friends here, returned home yesterday from visiting friends in Tapscott.

Mr. W. F. Aycock, of Paris, Tenn., a relative of the Aycock family of this county, and a very prepossessing young gentleman indeed, was in this city yesterday, and he found himself at once among friends.

Miss Mamie Simmons, of Newbern, is spending a few days with her grandfather Col. L. W. Humphrey, in this city, who, we are glad to know, is thought to be convalescing.

ANOTHER SILVER BILL.

Is Introduced in the Senate by Senator Morgan—The Senate Takes Up the Indian Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—[SENATE.]—Senator Morgan introduced a silver bill which was read and referred to the finance committee. The bill is the same as the one passed by the Senate not long ago. He said he had introduced it because he was convinced that, in the rapid advance of the price of silver bullion in the markets of the world, the time was not far distant when silver and gold bullion would be on a par with each other. When that time did arrive the law as it now stood would not permit our government to buy silver bullion if there was any shade of depreciation in its price beyond the price of gold; and there was no provision of law for the coinage of any silver, except that purchased before silver had reached that point.

The House bill to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Savannah river was taken from the calendar and passed without amendments.

The Senate resumed consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, the pending question being upon the insertion of the item of $10,000 for the prosecution of the suit in North Carolina to enforce certain rights of the Cherokee Indians in that State. Senator Dawes, after consultation with Senator Ransom, modified the amendment so as merely to appropriate $5,000 to pay legal expenses already incurred in the suit, and it was agreed to.

The next amendment to provoke discussion was one increasing the appropriation of $100,000 for the support of Indian schools to $150,000, including the construction of a school building at the Blackfeet agency in Montana.

Senator Vest opposed the amendment as the introduction of a system intended to abolish denominational education among the Indians. He spoke of the official visit which he had made to the Indian agency and his observation of the work of the Catholic Church in educating Indians. The school building, which had been erected there by the Catholic Church was then standing unoccupied.

Senator Vest explained his position to be that if the Catholics were doing better in educating Indians than other denominations, he was in favor of the Catholics and that if the Presbyterians or Baptists were doing better it was because the agent would not permit Jesuits to teach any Indian children. His opinions on the subject were fixed. The Jesuits had succeeded better than any other people living in the education of Indians. Whatever prejudice, if that was the proper word, he might have against the society of Jesus, he had to say that much, as an educated Protestant.

Senator Davis also opposed the amendment and spoke of the efforts of the Catholic missionaries at the Blackfeet agency. These good people, he said, had applied to the philanthropic Misses Drexell, of Philadelphia, and had obtained $20,000 which they had expended in a school building, recently completed. He was convinced that these Catholics were far more efficient among the Indians than any Protestant denomination could be. No other denomination could take their place because the Indians, like all other people emerging from barbarism, had received religious impressions that were paramount. He did not care whether it might be called religion or superstition.

The amendment was adopted, as were several others upon which debate upon the question of government aid to the denominational schools was brought up. At 2 o'clock the tariff bill came up as "unfinished business," and was laid aside. The Indian appropriation bill was again taken up. The next amendments taken up were to strike out the items of $8,330 for the support of sixty Indian pupils at St. Joseph's Normal school at Rensselaer, Ind., and $12,500 for the support of one hundred Indian pupils at the Holy Family school at the Blackfeet agency. These amendments caused a long discussion on the subject of Church and State aid to denominational schools. Finally a vote was taken and the amendments were rejected—yeas 16, nays 27, so the items for Rensselaer, Ind., and Blackfeet agency, Montana, were retained in the bill.

There being no further amendments reported by the committee the reading of the bill was continued to its close without any discussion. The bill was then reported to the Senate and all the amendments agreed to by the committee of the whole were concurred in and the bill was passed. Senator Voorhees, by request of the Labor Alliance, introduced a bill to secure the constitutional right and freedom of trade and speech and the press within the limits of the Republic; and he asked, in view of the respectable source from which it emanated, that it should be printed in full in the Record. Senator Sherman objected to printing it in the Record as being unusual. Senator Voorhees—The Alliance will take notice of the objection and where it came from. The tariff bill was laid before the Senate as unfinished business, and after a short executive session the Senate at 5:40, adjourned till tomorrow at 11 a. m.

REPUBLICAN BOLLERS.

Brower's Nomination Too Much For Them—The Alliance Meeting at Greensboro.

GREENSBORO, N. C., July 24.—There was a regular stampede of disgraced Republican bollers yesterday when Brower's renomination was made known. After the ballot was taken it was some time before the crowd caught on to the fact that Brower was renominated. There was an awkward pause, and the delegates began to look about as if to say, "what next?" When at length the fact dawned upon the assembly, there was an explosion by the Brower men, and when a motion was made that the nomination be unanimous, a number of the disgruntled delegates grabbed hats and bolted for the door. Mr. Brower sat in the convention, and was speedily called out, to which he promptly responded. There was no waste of time or words.

He began at once to explain his congressional record, and touched a few only of the prominent facts. There was suppressed fire and energy in every sentence, and he at once defiantly threw down the gauntlet in defiance of Mr. Williams. He says he knows his man and is going to make things hot, a result that no one would doubt who heard and saw him. He held his own party responsible for most of the adverse criticism that had pulverized his record.

"Baldy" is here shaking hands with his friends, and occupied a seat on the stand yesterday at the Alliance rally.

Capt. S. B. Alexander and President Holladay of the A. and M. College addressed the clans yesterday afternoon. The red badge fraternity are here in such crowds as to remind the observer of Robinson's circus. There must have been between three and four thousand in attendance yesterday.

NOW WE HAVE IT! SOMETHING NICE!

Have you seen the new SNOW FLAKE HOMINY? It is a new brand, made by a new process, and is by all odds the nicest thing of the kind on the market. The grain of corn is crushed instead of being ground into small pieces and has a white, flakey appearance. It cooks very quickly, and is much nicer than the old kind. We have just received a large invoice and sent samples to a few friends on trial. THEY ALL SAY IT IS FINE! Come in and try it for yourself. We sell it in sacks and two pound cartons. Don't forget that we keep all kinds of Groceries and sell them at lowest prices. We are now selling the very best 5 cent cigar to be had in the city.
