QUIET WAYS ARE BEST.

What's the use of worrying.
Of hurrying.
And scurrying.
Everybody hurrying.
And breaking up their rest!
When everyone is teaching us,
Preaching and bossing us,
To settle down and end the fuss,
For quiet ways are best.
The rain that trickles down in showers
A blessing brings to thirsty flowers;
Sweet fragrance from each brimming cup
The gentle zephyrs gather up.
There's ruin in the tempest's path;
And they alone are blest
Who early learn to dominate
Themselves and violence abate.
And prove, by their serene estate,
That quiet ways are best.
Nothings gained by worrying,
By hurrying,
And scurrying;
With fretting and with hurrying
The temper's often lost;
And in pursuit of some small prize
We rush ahead and are not wise,
And find the unwaged exercise
A fearful price has cost.
It's better far to join the throng,
That do their duty right along;
Reluctant they to raise a fuss
Or make themselves ridiculous.
Calm and serene in heart and nerve,
Their strength is always in reserve
And nobly stands each test.
And every day and all about,
By scenes within and scenes without,
We can discern, with no'er a doubt,
That quiet ways are best.

FRESH FUN.

The Sharp and Witty Sayings of the Press Men.

Stranger—"If a man falls down an open coal hole, can he sue the owner of the premises for damages?"
Lawyer—"Certainly, sir, certainly, big damages, and get them, too. Give me the particulars."
"Well, as my brother was passing your house this morning he fell through a coal hole and broke his leg."
"Hem! Did he use ordinary vigilance to prevent such accident? Did he look at his feet as he walked? Did he stop and examine the condition of the pavement before entering upon it? Answer me that, sir."
"Stop! Why, no—"
"Ah, ha! I thought so. Guilty of criminal negligence. He might have fallen on one of my own family under that coal hole—might have killed us all, sir. As it is I shall sue him for damage for musing up my coal bin.—Good News.

Prof. Simon Newcomb, of Washington, is known as a man whose scientific studies have tended to exaggerate a natural disposition to mental abstraction. The professor's friends, who are also his strong admirers, understand his peculiarity and overlook in him what might not be excused in a commonplace person. A lady of this city is very fond of telling this incident: She was at a reception given at Prof. Newcomb's house. The occasion had been made delightful by the professor and his accomplished wife and daughters. Toward the close of the evening the lady, who had enjoyed the affair greatly, approached the host and asked him with much enthusiasm:
"How often do you have these delightful reunions, professor?"
No polite prevarication delayed the reply:
"Thank God, madam, but once a year."

They were talking about the baby. Some thought he looked like his mother, and others like his papa.
"And just think," said the grandmother, "the little rascal never wants to go to sleep at night, but keeps on talking and talking."
"Isn't he like his mother!" gushed the fond father, sort of absent minded.

"Is Mollie never coming back?" asked her husband as the train moved off.
"Of course; she's only going to stay over Sunday."
"Oh! I thought from the time it took you to part you intended to say farewell forever."

"I question Solomon's wisdom very much!"
"How so?"
"Because he had a thousand wives."
"What has that to do with it?"
"Well, many a man's a fool with one, so what must the victim of ten hundred be?"

At a late convention of canned goods makers in the West some soup seventy-one years old was exhibited. Butter would have to be strong to attain an age like that, and its right to baldness would be beyond dispute.

"Is that a love letter?" asked one young lawyer of another, who was poring busily over some closely written sheets.
"Oh, no," replied the other, confusedly. "It's just a writ of attachment."—Somerville Journal.

He (languidly)—"Let's have a flirtation just for amusement." She (dreadfully)—"Let's wait a month. There's nobody here yet to talk about it."—Bostonian.

A man should not be over particular when selecting a telephone. Almost any will answer.—Yonkers Statesman.

CATARH CAN'T BE CURED

with LOCAL APPLICATION, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics now, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best now in remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Lemon Hot Drops.

For coughs and colds, take Lemon Hot Drops. For sore throat and bronchitis, take Lemon Hot Drops. For pneumonia and laryngitis, take Lemon Hot Drops. For consumption and catarrh, take Lemon Hot Drops. For all throat and lung diseases, take Lemon Hot Drops. An elegant and reliable preparation. Sold by Druggists. 25 cents per bottle. Prepared by H. Mosley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.
