There can be no better medium of advertising than through our columns, as our paper goes daily into the hands of its many readers, thus keeping them ever reminded of our advertising merchants; and as the chief reason for constant advertising is to have the advertisements read as often as possible, the advantage of advertising in THE DAILY ARGUS is at once evident, as our patrons will have their advertisements read afresh every day. ### LOCAL BRIEFS.

The court house is not so numerously frequented these days, as work on the civil docket is in vogue.

An "Old Folks" concert is being talked of for Goldsboro, to come off just before Lent, which, by-the-way, is but a very brief distance in the future.

There was a real old-fashioned wedding supper and reception at "Asylum Hill" Thursday night, given by Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Smith in honor of Mr. Jno. Wilson, the engineer of the Asylum, and bride, nee Miss Mittie Fennell, of Sampson. THE ARGUS wishes the happy pair long years of increasing joys and prosperity.

The large residence, near the Presbyterian church, known as the Alford house, which valuable property was recently purchased by Mr. Asher Edwards, has been moved to another portion of the lot to make room for a handsome new residence for his own occupancy which Mr. Edwards has contracted for, to be constructed at once.

The appointment of Mr. H. E. Dillon, of LaGrange, to succeed the late Dr. R. W. King, of Wilson, upon the Board of Directors of the Eastern Insane Asylum, near this city, is a wise selection on the part of His Excellency, Governor Fowle, which will meet with the cordial approval of all who know Mr. Dillon. He is a courteous, affable gentleman and competent business man and will prove a congenial conferee to the other gentleman who compose the Board.

ANOTHER large lot of horses and mules—three car loads, were received in this city yesterday by local dealers to meet the demands of the retail trade, which surpasses anything ever known in our section of the State. This is one of the surest and most cheering signs that Eastern North Carolina, and especially the wide territory that makes Goldsboro its trading centre, is all right. It is an indication that farming, which is the foundation stone of all prosperity is coming to the front throughout our section, that is peculiarly a farming section. In other words, our people have at length begun to comprehend wherein their fort lies and are beginning to "hustle."

THE Republican party in the West is almost hopelessly divided on the silver question. The Democrats have always been in favor of "hard money," which in the good old days meant both silver and gold. Both are still hard enough, to get, but silver is condemned by the Eastern monometallists, while it is enthusiastically clamored for by the Farmers' Alliance of the West. Politicians of both parties will have to skate on very thin ice until the question is settled, one way or another, especially wherever the Farmers' Alliance has come into politics. It would be a national calamity much worse than either the demonetization or the unlimited coinage of silver, if the country should be divided sectionally, West against East, on that or any other question. We can risk the possibility of bad financing, but not of bad feeling between any sections of the country.

BUSBEE-COOPER.

A Brilliant Social Event at Washington Wednesday Night.

The Washington Post of yesterday contains the following:

The marriage of Miss Florence Elinor Cooper to Mr. Charles Manly Busbee, of North Carolina, was solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening at the residence of the bride's relatives, Senator and Mrs. Vance, on Massachusetts avenue. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, a profusion of azalia bushes and growing plants, which filled in every available place. In the first parlor, where the ceremony was conducted, the bay window was transformed into a bower; banked with palms and white azalias against an immense mirror background, which reflected the beautiful scene presented by the wedding party. The sides of the bower were formed of white brocade curtains, while in front were portieres of smilax asparagus vines, looped back from the center, from which suspended two hearts of white carnations, under which the bride and groom stood to be married. Cardinal Gibbons, who officiated, assisted by Father Chappelle, stood just within the bower, his scarlet robe forming a fine bit of coloring. The presence of his eminence was due to his friendship with Senator Vance, with whom he was formerly intimately associated when a priest in North Carolina, which State is naturally most partial to him. The wedding party formed in the third room and passed down the aisle, formed by ribbons, on either side of which stood the guests. The two ushers, Mr. Cooper, brother of the bride, and Mr. Martin, son of Mrs. Vance, walked first, followed by Miss Justice and Miss Norris, as flower girls, in gowns of silk tulle, with ostrich tips and hats of white mousselin de soie, trimmed with clusters of ostrich tips. Then came the four bridesmaids, Miss Bowles, of Kentucky, Miss Helen Fowle, daughter of the Governor of North Carolina, and Miss Weller and Miss Ballock, of Kentucky. These young ladies wore white silk gowns, trimmed with grasses and silver passementerie. Miss Hoke, of North Carolina, as maid of honor, in a train gown of white faille, immediately preceded the bride, who entered on the arm of Senator Vance, her stepfather, Mr. Pierce, being detained at home by illness. The wedding gown was of white brocade satin, with trimming of ostrich tips across the bottom of the skirt, and about the round neck and elbow sleeves. A long tulle veil was worn, and a large bouquet of white lilacs was carried. The diamond earrings and pearl brooch worn were gifts of the groom. The groom, with Attorney-General Theodore Davidson, of North Carolina, as his best man, met the bride in the first parlor. During the ceremony the young couple stood upon a magnificent tiger-skin rug, on either side of which against the wall were ranged the wedding party.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Bill For The Female Normal and Industrial School.

RALEIGH, Jan. 22. — [SENATE].—The Senate met 11 o'clock, Lieutenant Governor Holt presiding. Prayer by Rev. Dr. Nash, of the city; the journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Several petitions were presented, many of them one asked for a change of time in the apportionment of the school fund. Large numbers of bills were reported from the committees.

The following bills were introduced: To amend the charter of the city of Newbern; To provide for the election of a State printer; To define his duties and to fix his salary; To create a new county to be named "Badger" out of portions of Franklin, Granville, Nash and Wake.

It was ordered that one thousand copies of Hon. J. L. M. Curry's speech be printed.

A bill providing where offences shall be prosecuted, where mortal wound is inflicted on the high seas or in the State passed its third reading.

The bill to establish a normal and industrial school for the white girls of North Carolina came up as a special order. There was two reports from the committee. pro and con. An amendment was offered that a majority of the directors should not be composed of any one denomination—voted down. Other amendments were lost. Several addresses were made in support of the bill. A call for the previous question was sustained and the bill passed its second reading, aye 41, nays 2. The bill passed its third reading under suspension of the rules.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Perry, of the House. There were several petitions presented, among them one from the Grand Lodge of colored Masons asking the State to establish a colored Agricultural and Mechanical College.

The following committees were announced: House branch of the joint committee on the election of trustees of the University, Long, of Warren, chairman; House branch of the joint committee on Senatorial districts, Bryan, of Wayne, chairman.

The bill to incorporate the town of New Wilkesboro was, on motion of Mr. Peebles, tabled. He stated that the disputes between the people of Old Wilkesboro and those who applied for the charter of the new town were in course of amicable settlement.

The bill to incorporate the town of Wadesboro passed its third reading.

The bill to allow J. R. Depriest, a wounded Confederate soldier, $50, he having failed to receive pension for 1890, was taken up. It was discussed at some length, and finally was referred to the committee on pensions, it being alleged in opposition to the measure that it would lead down the bars and take a great deal of money out of the treasury.

The Senate bill to change the name of the Western Insane Asylum at Morganton to the State Hospital was taken up. Its merits were forcibly presented by Mr. Skinner. He said the change of name was to soften the title of the institution, and to make it a place where inebriates and opium eaters could be treated. It is provided that the criminal insane shall when pronounced sane become amenable to and be turned over to the civil authorities.

Mr. Henry objected to the sections of the bill which permitted the use of twelve rooms for inebriates. He thought persons who were insane through disease or overwork should have precedence of drunkards who have brought on their own misfortunes.

Mr. Skinner said the bill would give room for twenty-four more insane, while making room for inebriates. The bill passed its second and third readings.
