FACTS ARE SUBBORN THINGS.

[From Tarboro Southern, July 17.]

While visiting Tarboro, on July 8th, I was requested to visit Miss Mary E. Staton, seven miles from town, who for seven weeks had been suffering excruciating agony from some blood poison, supposed to be poison oak. On last Tuesday, at her request, I went to see her, and expected to see great suffering, but was not prepared for the scene that met me. I found the patient broken out all over with an eruption which had occasioned such intense itching that during the paroxysms she was perfectly uncontrollable, and had scratched and torn herself to pieces until her agony was indescribable. During these paroxysms she would have to be held, and her screams could be heard a long distance. She would pray for death to come to her relief; her whole body was purple and raw, exuded a yellow water which saturated the bed through several thick quilts—that day she had possessed herself of a thick gutta-percha coarse comb, and before she could be prevented, had raked herself with it with such force as to breed out some of the teeth, thus adding to her agony. She was attended by some good physicians as Tarboro and her neighborhood could afford, but their treatment afforded only occasional relief by outward applications, and no permanent benefit, as the paroxysms continued to return with increasing violence. Upon viewing the condition of the patient I called the family together and told them to bear witness that I PROMISED NOTHING. I could not tell whether my Remedy would relieve or not, as I had never even imagined such suffering, but it could do no harm and might do good. I then gave her a large dose of the Bitters and as soon as the paroxysm was over, sponged her whole body with the Wash. While doing so she would call out, "Oh, that does feel so good!" I then gave her another dose of the Bitters, and she was soon in a sweet sleep. I continued this treatment, and whenever the itching would recur I would sponge the body instantly with the Wash, which in every instance allayed in the irritation or itching and ward off those violent paroxysms. She did not have an attack during the day, and by 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the disease was under perfect control. The itching would recur, but every time was allayed by the application of the Wash. I left her Wednesday evening and comfortable, with directions for the treatment to be continued during the night and as long as was necessary. I came again to see her to-day, Saturday, the 12th, and found her up and dressed and in the regular prosecution of her household duties. She is entirely relieved, although she will, of course, have to take the Bitters some time to completely eradicate the poison from her blood. During Wednesday she frequently called for the Bitters, as she craved its soothing and quieting effects, and during the day I administered a whole bottle, with the above results, thus proving, what I have always claimed, that my Remedy is an infallible antidote for all blood impurity. I am respectfully,
MRS. JOE PERSON.

This is to certify that the foregoing statement is perfectly correct in every particular, as we were eyewitnesses of Miss Mary's suffering and the wonderful relief afforded by Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy.

THE HOMELESS THOUGHTS.

Under the willow's berceuse
Black birds in eddying circles fly;
The woods their glittering robes throw
By
And plain to heaven unceasingly.

Dark to the hill-top stoops the cloud;
Bold is the blast that shakes the proud,
Now loud, now low, now to w, now loud;
The wanderer's call comes w down to me.

Like these wild squadrons tossed on high,
Scattered, confused, they know not why,
My thoughts, a comely myriad fly,
And heed the winds continue fly.

All that of nature's stamp she wore
Whose bosom housed their wings of yore,
Rotting in earth, is mine no more;
May heaven restore her soul to me!
—Dora Read Goodale in Lippincott's Magazine.

FRESH FUN.

THE SHARP AND WITTY SAYINGS OF THE PRESS MEN.

If I give you a meal, said Mrs Barlow to a tramp, of course you will chop up some kindling for me!
Madam, replied the tramp, when I was a mere child I remember that a neighbor of ours, while at work on the wood pile, was struck on the temple by a flying chip, and instantly killed. Oh! as I was, I saw the danger of such a practice as wood-chopping, and I solemnly resolved never to have anything to do with it. Of course you would not have me break my vow after keeping it so long.—Detroit Free Press.

There's one advantage in being a woman.

What is that?

Women are never at a loss for something to talk about.

That's true, but there's a disadvantage in being a woman, also.

What is it?

Life is too short to enable her to talk about all she wants to talk about.—N. Y. Press.

Mrs. Bronson (tenderly). You can't imagine, Charley, what a lovely present I'm going to enjoy it.

Mr. Bronson (hastily and with apparent irrelevance). Maria, dear, I'm going to quit smoking on the 25th of December. Er— I thought you'd like to know about it at once.—Chicago News-Record.

Men are curious beings, after all.

What's the matter now?

Smith and Jones met this morning. Smith asked Jones a question and Jones, instead of answering, asked Smith the same question. Smith didn't answer it either and they passed on.

What was the question?

How do you do!—New York Press.

Josh Hayseed. When do we eat breakfast?

Hotel Clerk. Breakfast is from 6 to 11, dinner from 12 to 6 and supper from 6 to 11.

Soth Hayseed. Great Scott! When will I find time to take in the sights!—Texas Siftings.

The Young Housewife. And then I want you to send up a peck of Irish potatoes.

Grocer.—Yes, mam.

The Young Housewife. I myself prefer United States potatoes, but we're going to have some gentlemen from Dublin to dinner, and I want everything to be in keeping.—Chicago News-Record.
