LOCAL BRIEFS.

WELL, here we are again.
The biggest snow since the winter of '76-7.
The "Capital Club" rooms in Raleigh were destroyed by fire early yesterday morning.
SLEIGH riding was indulged in, and apparently enjoyed, quite extensively in this city yesterday.
Mr. and Mrs. Sol Einstein, at the Hotel Kennon, are enjoying a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Loewenstein of Cincinnati.
The Christmas tree at St. John Church on Monday night was an ideal attraction for the children of that congregation. The presents were profuse and valuable.
We are requested to announce that there will be an important meeting of Goldsboro Council No. 500, Royal Arcanum, at their lodge room to-night, at which all members are expected to be present.
MARRIED, at the residence of the bride's father in this city, on Tuesday evening, 27th inst., Rev. J. H. Edwards officiating, Mr. L. O. Fournelle and Miss Annie Keaton. The best wishes of many friends accompany them.

WINSTON has had another big conflagration. Three fine residences, a livery stable and twenty horses were destroyed. One of the residences, recently completed, was that of Mr. Clement Manly, who has many friends in this city that will regret exceedingly to hear of his loss.
A MATRIMONIAL cyclone seems to have—in fact did accompany the recent blizzard that visited this city, and is still prevailing in our midst. We hardly have room in our columns this morning to chronicle the number of "happy events" that have been solemnized since the last appearance of THE ARGUS; and the end is not yet.

At the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Collins, in this city, yesterday at 1 o'clock, Mr. Edwin E. Forsythe, of Raleigh, and Miss Carrie Collins were united in the holy bond of wedlock, Rev. B. R. Hall officiating. The happy couple took the afternoon train for the groom's home, carrying with them the best wishes of many friends here.
NOTWITHSTANDING the exceedingly inclement weather Tuesday night, "The Fast Mail" company put their splendid show on the boards of the Messenger Opera House and gave the performance in its grand and thrilling entirety, and all who witnessed the show say that it was the finest scenic entertainment ever given in Goldsboro. The company deserves large boxes everywhere.

LAST night at the residence of the bride's father in this city, in the presence of a small circle of friends and relatives, Mr. J. W. T. Aldredge, the popular head clerk of the St. James Hotel, and Miss Dora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lewis, were united in the holy bond of wedlock. The Goldsboro Cornet Band was present by invitation and gave a rendition of popular melodies. The happy couple have the best wishes of a large number of friends for a prosperous voyage across the blissful sea of matrimony.

At Pine Forest church in this county Monday evening last, in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends of the contracting parties, Mr. Dai Gurley, son of our estimable countyman, Mr. N. H. Gurley, led to the Hymeneal altar Miss Phoebe, the amiable daughter of our good friend and townsman Mr. E. E. Jones, Rev. B. R. Hall, pastor of St. Paul's Church, officiating. After the wedding the bridal party were hospitably entertained at Mr. Jones' country home. THE ARGUS wishes the happy young couple the fullest meed of life's joys and prosperity.

On the first of the new year Goldsboro's superb and popular hotel, "The Kennon", will change management, Mr. F. L. Carter, its present courteous and highly esteemed proprietor retiring to enter other business, and Messrs. B. H. Griffin and S. H. Edwards assuming control, under the firm name of Griffin & Edwards. These young gentlemen are both well known at home and to the traveling public and possess the esteem and confidence and cordial good wishes of all who know them. They are fully competent to keep "The Kennon" abreast of the best hotels in the country, and they have the energy to do it—and will be content with nothing less. Success to them always.

A TIME OF RECKONING.

A Look Before and After—There is Cheer for the New Year.
The first flush of the Christmas holidays is over and during the current few days business men everywhere will be devoting themselves to balancing the books of the year soon to close and to looking for the business cheer of the future. The new year is about to be ushered in upon us with its new duties and its new opportunities, and in this age of swift advancement all progressive business men understand that he who stands still is lost in the race.
True, the year will close with a general depression in values and a somewhat unsettled condition in money circles; but the signs are unmistakable which point to a speedy restoration of confidence that must greatly improve the markets. We have been hugging the silver delusion to meet real or imaginary political necessities, until we have come in sight of the brink of grave disaster; but the halt has been called and with our beautiful crops and progressive industries, there is no danger of financial disaster.

The balancing of accounts at the close of the year embraces international balancing of trade and finance as well as the general home squaring up of accounts. We have shipped gold during the last three weeks to an unusual extent and that is always accepted as a danger-signal. It is a serious admonition when the balance of trade is against us and it is an admonition that should be respected at all times; but the present shipment of gold is obviously only temporary and is not the result of a balance of trade against the country. It is simply an admonition that American securities are shadowed with some measure of distrust because of our gradual but steady drift toward free silver. We have drifted too far for safety; the halt is called at home and abroad, and the peril will be averted.

The new year is reasonably certain to open with good business cheer notwithstanding the present depression in values. Unless all signs are at fault, there will be a steady advance in prices for securities generally early in the new year. It is not likely to take the shape of violent and fitful booms; but it is quite likely to inspire legitimate investment and bring all securities to the standard of intrinsic values. The speculator and the gambler will have less scope for their vocations, but values will advance and legitimate business of every shade will be more prosperous.

The new year will come with good business cheer. The crop of 1892 were unusually bountiful; there is every promise of plenty in the coming harvest; there is general freedom from debt among consumers, and our industries are as healthful as is possible in view of the adaptation that is now ever pressing upon them. When they learn that no business can be substantially prosperous in this country that depends upon the paternalism of the government, they will speedily reach a basis of enduring prosperity.
Taking the varied channels of production and trade throughout the country, there is everything to warrant the belief in a new year of general thrift. There is good business cheer for our holidays; let us greet it with thanksgiving and adjust ourselves to its new duties and new opportunities, with energy and unity of purpose for our common weal.

Late Foreign News.

PARIS, Dec. 27.—In the greater excitement of the proceedings in the Chamber of Deputies, and the relations comprising so many prominent men in the Panama Canal Scandal, eight has been lost to a certain extent, of the autopsy of Baron De Reinach, whose mysterious death has been attributed to various causes—apoplexy, suicide and murder. The Government having charge of the examination, it is consequently slow and is attended with great secrecy. Figaro to day states that it has information to the effect that Dr. Brandard, who had charge of the post mortem examination, has reported to the Government that apoplexy was not the cause of the baron's death, but that he was poisoned and that the poison was taken into his stomach eight hours before death. Figaro also states that the family of De Reinach are aware of the contents of the report and have demanded that a judicial inquiry be held to prove that the baron did not commit suicide.

It is more than likely that Baron Reinach was put out of the way by those who feared that his evidence might implicate them in the scandal. If it is true that the poison was in his stomach eight hours before death, there would be good reason to believe that this charge against certain men is true, for on the night of baron's death, he, together with Rouvier and Comenecan, attempted to secure a cessation of the newspaper attacks that were being made upon him. It is not at all probable that had Reinach contemplated suicide he would have gone to the trouble to attempt to stop the attack that in a few hours would have been nothing to him, and neither would have displayed such deep feeling as to the result of the attacks. Horrible as it may seem, there is no denying the fact that some of those implicated in the scandal would have felt greatly relieved if Reinach was dead and beyond giving evidence that would besmirch their heretofore good names.

The fact that the baron's death was linked to the sudden and mysterious deaths of two other men who were cognizant of the bribing of legislators, gives added strength to the demands of the baron's family that an inquiry be held to place the responsibility on his death where it belongs.

La Gaulis had an interview today with Andrieux, former Prefect of Police. He associated Reinach's death with the attempt made two years since to poison Dr. Herz. These articles have awakened interest in the matter, and an official report of the result of the autopsy is eagerly awaited.

The officials of the Government Toxological Bureau deny the truth of the Figaro's story about the death of Baron De Reinach. They say that the examination of the organ removed from the baron's body will require another fortnight at least.

HAMBURG, Dec. 27.—Four more cases of cholera and two more deaths were reported to the health authorities in this city to-day. Besides these seven persons suspected of having the disease were sent to the detention hospital. The mail steamer Hungaria, from the Black Sea is detained at Cuxhaven on account of existence of suspicious illness among the crew.

The Mississippi Frozen Over.

St. Louis, Dec. 27.—The Mississippi river at this place is covered with ice from shore to shore. Navigation is suspended and boats are tied up with no prospect of resuming traffic in the near future.

The Rev. Dr. Deems Stricken. At the Age of Seventy-Three He is The Victim of Paralysis.

The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems, pastor of the church of the Strangers in Mercer street, is to be taken to the Danville Sanitarium, either to-morrow or next day for treatment. The venerable divine is a victim to nervous prostration brought on by excessive labor. He also suffers from a partial paralysis of the right hand, with which he has written so many able sermons as well as contributions for the press. Dr. Deems is just a few weeks over seventy-three years old.

Notwithstanding his advanced age he rarely failed to preach his usual Sunday morning sermon until yesterday. On Wednesday night, the 14th inst., the doctor opened the fair at Hope Chapel, in East Fourth street. During the same week he delivered a speech on prohibition, attended two or three fairs and made addresses, and by Friday was thoroughly worn out. Mrs. Deems begged him to take a rest, but he insisted upon preparing his sermon for the next Sunday. He had hardly taken up his pen when he discovered that his fingers refused to perform their functions. Dr. LeFevre, the family physician, was summoned. He pronounced it a case of sympathetic paralysis, induced by bodily exhaustion, and urged Dr. Deems to give up his pastoral work for a time at least. Still the doctor begged to be permitted to deliver another sermon to his congregation, and following Sunday evening he addressed it for the last time in perhaps many months. He was so weak that, as he spoke, he was compelled to sit in a chair. Those who heard the sermon declare it to have been one of the most eloquent and powerful ever delivered by him.

Since that night the doctor has implicitly obeyed the orders of his physician, and last night he was reported to be a little improved. When a World reporter called at the New York hotel to see the doctor he sent word that he was sorry to say "no," but that Mrs. Deems would speak for him. Mrs. Deems is a motherly little woman, with gray hair and an exceedingly sweet face. "My husband," said she; "is a little improved to-day, but I fear it will be some time before he can resume his pastoral labors. We shall go to Danville the coming week. Old as he is, he seems to think he can perform as much brain and physical labor as when he first entered the ministry.

During the doctor's absence his pulpit will be filled by clergymen selected by the Church committee. Dr. Deems was the originator of the American Institute of Christ and Philosophy and edited the Watchman and Christian Thought. He was once president of the Greensboro Female College, N. C. The doctor came to this city in 1865, and for a while preached in the chapel of the University building. So large did the congregation finally become that Commodore Vanderbilt opened his heart and purse and presented Dr. Deems with the beautiful church edifice in Mercer St. The present congregation is one of the largest in the city.—New York World of Monday

Fough Weather At Sea.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Over more than twenty steamships due or over due, only four have reached port up to one o'clock to day and there bare striking evidence of the rough weather and intense cold experienced, with ventilators demolished or twisted out of shape, life-boats smashed and everything on deck in a demoralized condition, it is gratifying to find that nothing serious happened to passengers and crew of the incoming steamers. Each steamer was completely coated with ice.

Mrs. Della Jones, Granville, N. Y. writes: "I have the highest praise to give to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. We have used it in our family for five years with the best effect."
