THE DAILY ARGUS.

GOLDSBORO N. C., JAN. 6, 1893

WHAT WE ALL THINK.
If none were sick and none were sad,
What service could we render?
I think if we were always glad
We scarcely could be tender.
Our beloved never need
Our patient ministrations.
Earth would grow cold and miss indeed
Its sweetest consolation.
If sorrow never claimed our heart,
And every wish were granted,
Patience would die and hope depart—
Life would be disenchanted.

FRESH FUN.
THE SHARP AND WITTY SAYINGS OF THE PRESS MEN.

The clerk had just got his wheel's salary from the cashier. If it's all the same to you, he said, turning the money over in his hand, I'd a little rather have a $5 bill in place of this gold piece. What's the matter with it? asked the cashier. Nothing, only I don't want to ask the street car conductor to change a gold piece. Why not? I don't like to be looked at suspiciously, even by a street car conductor. Would he look at you suspiciously if you handed him that $5 gold coin? Of course he would. Why? Because I've got an old overcoat on.—Chicago Tribune.

The patient traveler had sat alone in the car for an hour, absorbed in his newspaper, when the brakeman opened the door and bawled out: How long are you going to wait here! All the other passengers have got out and walked to the station long ago. What's that matter! inquired the traveler, looking up from his paper. Wreck just ahead. Thirty-seven freight cars piled along the track. It'll take another two hours to clear it away. That's all right, said the lone passenger, setting himself down again to the perusal of his paper. I don't mind it. I am used to traveling on milk trains.—Chicago Tribune.

Jack. Did you lose anything on the game, Maud? Maud. No. You see Jack Holworthy promised me ten pounds of candy if they won, and George Eli promised me the same if they were victorious. It was rather risky, I know, but I won.—Harvard Lampoon.

The Village Pastor. Johnny, you tell me you have been to Sunday school. The Bad Boy. Yes sir. The Village Pastor. Bit, Johnny, your hair is wet. The Bad Boy. Yes sir; it's a Baptist Sunday school.—Ludgate.

Judge—You admit that you bribed the witness, at the other side charged? Lawyer—Yes, your honor; but—Judge—(severely)—What? Lawyer—I bribed him to tell the truth. He was going to lie for the other side.—Pack.

A woman in the western part of the State wants to have her pastor dismissed on the ground that he rides a bicycle and studied medicine in his earlier years, which suggests the story of the woman who wrote the following note to the teacher: Please don't teach my Mary Jane any physiology. I don't want her to know about her inward parts.—New York Tribune.
