But still this is a mighty tide; half a million persons within a year secking homes in New World.

This movement of population has a significance which contemporaries do not understand; history will read in it a condition and an influence which we fail to grasp.

Hungry and poverty, social onpression, military service, a longing for something better; for the new generation-all these feelings work together to induce men to abandon home and kindred a: d do violence to inherited instincts and try the unknown, Motives such as these affect the multitude now as they did two and three hundred years ago.

Bat other motives moye the ignorant and the vicions, and so the multitude seek, as by one will, the land of promise in America.

THE tariff is due to high wages, instead of high wages being due to the tariff. As the tariff is the cause of high wages, the reduction or the abolition of the tariff would neither reduce nor abolish wages.

A SURPRISINGLY beautiful and tender thought was that expressed by Blaine on the death of Garfield. He said; "Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning. which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that, in the silence of the receding world, he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore and felt already, upon his wasted brow, the breath of the eternal morning.
