THE DAILY ARGUS.

GOLDSBORO N. C., MAY 12, 1893

THE DRUNKARD'S LAMENT.

I have been to the funeral of all my hopes, And entombed them one by one; Not a word was said, Not a tear was shed, When the mournful task was done.

Slowly and sadly I turned me 'round And sought my silent room, And there alone By the cold hearthstone I woo'd the midnight gloom.

And as the night wind's deepening shade Lowered above my brow, I wept o'er days When manhood's rays Were brighter far than now.

The dying embers on the hearth Gave out their flickering light, As if to say This is the way Thy life shall close in night.

I wept aloud in anguish sore O'er the blight of prospects fair, While demons laughed And eagerly quaffed My tears like nectar rare.

Through hell's red hall an echo rang, An echo loud and long, As in the bowl I plunged my soul In the night of madness strong.

And there within that sparkling glass I knew the cause to lie, This all men own, From zinc to zinc; Yet millions drink and die.

FRESH FUN

THE SHARP AND WITTY SAYINGS OF THE PRESS MEN.

Well, said the intelligence man, as a hangy waitress invaded his office, what brought you back a noon? Weren't the boards high-toned enough?

Boards are all right—it's the mis-er. Why, she actily ordered me to take off my jewelry when I went into the dining-room.

Well, did you? Not much, I didn't. The ideal! All the jewelry I had on was a watch and chain, an' a few stick-pins, an' my ear-rings, an' gold glasses, an' the ornaments in my hair, an' four engagement rings, an' a pair of gold bracelets, an' one breast-pin. S'pose I'd been rigged out with jewelry like some of the boarder! Sakes alive! I'm just crushed!—Detroit Free Press.

A schoolmaster in a board school was endeavoring to make clear to his young pupils the meaning of the word 'slowly.' He walked across the room in the manner the word indicates. Now, children, tell me how I walked.

One little fellow who sat near the front of the room almost paralyzed him by blustering out: B-w legged.—Tid-Bits.

Featherstone—There's Rasher, who has just been married. He tells me his wife makes him a Welsh rarebit every night.

Ringway (proudly)—I wonder if he knows that it is I who gave her a wedding present of the chaffing dish she makes it in.

Featherstone—For Heaven's sake, o'd fellow, keep still! He may hear you.—Truth.

Mike—Shure, Pat, health is a good thing to have.

Pat—Yis, Mike, especially when yiz is sick.—Truth.

HOW A BEAUTIFUL FLOWER WAS NAMED.

An old legend tells of two lovers, walking by the river Rhine. The lady begged her suitor to pluck a little pale-blue flower, growing on the bank. In doing so, he fell into the water, and was drowned; but, while sinking, he threw the flower to her, and cried: "Forget me not!" Thousands of women will never forget what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for them. It is prepared especially to cure those diseases from which they alone suffer, and often in silence, rather than consult a physician—as periodical pains, weak back, prolapsus, and all uterine troubles. Purely vegetable, and guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded.
