HUMOR OF THE HOUR

He Told the Truth. It happened in Manitowoc. John Johnson, a Swede, was in town buying his groceries. He had left his horse outside while he was in the store making his purchases, when a little fat German came by and seemed to be greatly struck by its appearance.

"Vaal," said Johnson, "I tank so." "How mooch?" asked the German.

"Vaal," replied Johnson, "no less dan a hundred an twenty-five, but I don't tank he look very good."

"Oh," he said, surveying it critically, "I think he looks pooty good."

"Vaal," said Johnson, "gav' me the money, an I gav' you the horse, but I don't tank he looks very good."

"Vaal, didn't I tol' you," said Johnson, "dot he didn't look very good?"—Chicago News.

A Family Skeleton. "Where have you been?" asked the Boston boy's father.

"Up in your library."

"Haven't I told you not to disturb those books without my permission?"

"Yes. And I now perceive the reason of your caution. You were afraid I would discover that you devoted to 'Robinson Crusoe' and 'The Arabian Nights' those precious hours of youth which ought to have been applied to Plato and Euripides."—Washington Star.

Well Founded. "I hope I am not superstitious," said Mr. Upjohn, throwing himself gloomily on the lounge.

"I hope it's nothing that's going to happen to the family," said Mrs. Upjohn. "I want to have the house repapered from top to bottom week after next."

"Then it's true!" he groaned.—Chicago Tribune.

Sharp Kid.

Mother (after administering a whipping)—You know, Eva, it hurts me just as much as it does you.

Eva—Yes, mother, but not in the same place.

Coincidence. "I ain't making any insinuations," said the corn fed philosopher.

"I have noticed that the man that sees the first blizzard every year is the same man that once owned the fastest horse in the country and had the smartest dog and the prettiest wife and all that sort of thing."—Indianapolis Press.

Worth Knowing. Mr. Van Braam—Your friend Spiffins is married again, I hear?

Mr. Dinwiddie—Yes, married a widow. "Kentucky lady, I suppose?"

"Yes, blue grass widow."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"Practical" Art. Critic—Not a bad stretch of landscape, but haven't you laid out more than enough of it in water?

Artist—Not a bit of it. The picture is for a client who made his money in stock watering operations.—Boston Transcript.

The Old Man's Idea. Papa—What on earth do Bessie and that young man find to talk about?

Mamma—Oh, questions of the hour, I suppose.

Papa—I'll bet they haven't the remotest idea what the hour is.—Detroit Journal.

Campaign Manager—Here's a bill of $200 from one of your speechmakers during the campaign.

Candidate—Very well. Put it into the drawer marked "Gas bills."—Ohio State Journal.

Innocent. The Father—My daughter, sir, must have the same amount of money after she is married that she had before.

The Sultor—I wouldn't deprive her of it for anything.—Brooklyn Life.

Forgot Himself. Old Lady—My poor man, what does this letter say? I haven't my glasses.

Trump—Please, mum, it says I am deaf and dumb, and if yer kin give me a few cents.—Exchange.

Rapid Transit. "Rather a large boy for half fare, isn't he, sir?"

"Yes, he is now, but he was a small beg when we started."—Moonshine.
