JAPS TO BE HONORED.

Will Receive Consideration at Yale's Bicentennial.

One of the distinguished features of the Yale bicentennial celebration will be the first public appearance of the Japanese students, says a dispatch from New Haven, Conn.

Bankers, merchants, shipbuilders or breakers in their native land, they have been at Yale plain students. This is to be their debut as members of the university. There are an even two dozen at Yale, more than at any American university. Committees have been appointed and arrangements made for a huge Japanese float to be a part of the torchlight procession of Monday night. Beside it will march the Japanese students, garbed in pink caps and gowns. Each will wear a huge yellow chrysanthemum.

Transparencies will be painted by Naryoshi Nishiki, a prominent Koto banker, who has studied art in Japan and proposes to use it in honor of the bicentennial. Uncle Sam will be portrayed shaking hands with a coy Japanese. A national flag will be a red rising sun on a white ground, and real Japanese lanterns will make the illumination complete. The Japanese guests of honor will be Marquis Ito, ex-premier of Japan, Kazuo Hatoyama, now lecturing at Yale on the "Japanese Civil Code," and Professor Nakashima of Tokyo university.

Yale has offered a degree of LL. D. to Marquis Ito, and one of his four attendants was here the other day conferring with the university authorities concerning his visit.

Mr. Hatoyama will also receive the degree of LL. D. Ki Kihara and Professor H. Muraki, who were invited to the celebration, both from Tokyo university, will not be present. One of the unique characters among the Japanese colony at Yale this year is a Buddhist priest who has come here to represent his sect in the study of ethics. He is Yamazaki, a graduate of the University of Keioji "Ku, in northern Japan. He is the first Buddhist priest to visit an American university.

Of the Japs at Yale three are divinity students, two law students, one a medical student and the remainder in the graduate school. Mr. Yamazaki is among the latter list.

WHY ENGLAND IS BEATEN.

Our Manufacturers Produce Cheaper and Get Better Railway Rates.

Some of the reasons why American manufacturers beat us in our own markets, says the London Express, were very clearly pointed out by Mr. Sheriff Lawrence, M. P., speaking at a meeting of the Newport chamber of commerce called recently to consider the best means of furthering the trade of the Welsh port.

During his recent visit to the States, said Mr. Lawrence, Mr. Schwab, the president of the steel trust, told him that they could deliver steel billets in England at $16.50 per ton, while the lowest price at which English steel-makers could deliver was $19. He added that the $19.50 included $3 for ocean freight; but that when they had perfected their present arrangement the price would be lower still. Mr. Schwab also said that at the Pittsburgh steel works and elsewhere they paid their men double the wages the same class of men got in England, but the cost of producing was only one-third of what it was in England.

The cheap cost of transport in America largely contributed to its growing manufacturing supremacy. Iron ore was carried 150 miles for 53 cents per gross ton, or one-third of a cent per ton per mile. This rate was very profitable on the railways, as the cost of haulage was only 30 cents, including interest on capital. It was noteworthy that the cost of carriage from Pittsburgh to New York—450 miles—was less than from Liverpool to Birmingham, one-fourth of the distance. In America cheapness of production in staple industries was greatly aided by knowing the prime cost of transport. English railways followed no principle of prime cost and regard was only paid to what the traffic would bear.

SOFT COAL COMBINE.

Plans For Operating in Chesapeake and Ohio District.

A combination among some of the large soft coal operators in the New river district of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, says a Cincinnati dispatch, is being formed with the view of competing with the Pocahontas Coal and Coke company, which was incorporated in Trenton, N. J., with a capital of $40,000,000.

The combination, it is said, is headed by the McKee Coal and Coke company of West Virginia, large miners of coal and owners of land in the New river district. The annual output of this company alone is estimated at something over 1,000,000 tons. The company owns some 25,000 acres of coal land and has under its control some 40,000 acres more, which is considered more than one-half of all the available coal land along the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad.

In conjunction with the McKee mines are those under control of the Chesapeake and Ohio Coal and Coke company, of which C. J. Wittenberg of New York city is president. This combination has been made possible through the expiring of certain options which heretofore have been in force.

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is the healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks MOTHER'S FRIEND is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."

Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the mental distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. MOTHER'S FRIEND takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.
