WHAT IT MEANS TO THE SOUTH.

The movement to erect a handome building in Washington, D. C., to be used as a permanent home for the industrial and commercial interests if the Southern states, as set forth by J. M. Parker, president of the Southern Commercial Congress, should appeal strongly to the business men of the South. The objects and purposes of the movement as outlined by Mr. Parker, are most commendable, and the institution which it is proposed to establish will be a great benefit to the business interests of the South as a factor in the development of this resourceful part of the country. The advantages to be derived are obvious, and there is no doubt that as an investment it will bring large returns wassy catributed throughout the South.

Think what it means to the South to have itself exploited properly in the nation's capital through this permanent home of industrial and commercial development.

The business interests of the South can well support such an enterprisfrom a standpoint of material benefits as well as from a public spirited point of view.

It is a movement that promises much to the South in a business way and it will bring much additiona capital as well as many desirable home seekers to the South.

GROWS STEADILY BRIGHTER.

Scarcely a day passes that does not bring a number of favorable signs in the way of improvement in the industrial and commercial situuntion. There is every evidence of better conditions along nearly all lines. The fact is there is a great er effort on the part of nearly everybody to contribute to the establishment of better times, and that alone is a large part of the fight. People are working harder than they have worked for a long time. The results of this are oblidged to manifest themselves in a substantial way sooner or later, and already the effects have been clearly apparent.

Business men generally take more optimistic view of the situation and the outlook is more encouraging to them than it has been for a year or more. Unless all the signs are untrustworthy this year will be one of the best for several years. It may not be so in the actual results when compared in dollars and cents, but the foundation is being laid for a permanent betterment, and there is every reason to believe that the next year and the year after will be all that the conservative business man could look for.

The modern doctors teach not only that the wages of sin are illness and death, but that overfeeding is a crime. Those who overload their stomachs invite as many disease germs as do those who are underfed and neglected. The extent of the evil of overfeeding is imperfectly understood, there being few indeed who are not guilty of spells of it. The continuous overfeeder does not live long. The occasional violator may survive a considerable time if his lapses to reasonable rules of diet are long and frequent.

The more the physicians explain the dangers of overfeeding the sooner we will rearh a low death rate, for nothing is more detrimental to macy. physical welfare and mental activity than overfeeding. The gospel of moderation should be taught on every occasion by all who have the public eas. It should be taught in the schools, in the churches in the lyceums to hear the truth and to make good use of it.

There is more Catairh in this section of the country than all other disease put together, and set if the last few years was supposed to be injurable. For agreet many years doctors procunted it a local disease and prescribed loca smalles, and by constantly falling to cure with beat creament, pronounced it incurable.
