Items of Interest in and Around the City.

—A Merry Christmas!

—Miss Sarah B. Michaux, a student of Randolph-Macon College, Danville, Va., is at home for the holidays.

—Dr. and Mrs. Blythe Morris, of Baltimore, arrived in the city last night, to spend Christmas with relatives here.

—Misses Nannie and Pattie Westbrook, of Mount Olive, are in the city, the guests of their cousin, Mrs. George E. Hood.

—The Presbyterian Sunday School will have their entertainment tomorrow night at seven o'clock in the Edgerton Hall—Christmas night.

—Miss Elizabeth Smith, a student of the Durham Conservatory of Music, is at home for the holidays, to the pleasure of her army of friends.

The Argus is deeply pained to chronicle the alarming illness of Mrs. W. E. Stroud, and her host of friends are in suspenseful solicitude for her recovery.

—Mr. Bernice King, who is in the service of the Atlantic Coast Line at Waycross, Ga., is in the city to spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. King.

—Miss Mary D. Ramsaur and cousin, Miss Dodson, of Milton, N. C., paid a brief visit to Goldsboro yesterday, the guests of Mrs. L. M. Michaux, on North James street.

—Messrs. Paul C. Humphrey, of New York, and Lotte W. Humphrey, of Charlotte, are in the city to spend Christmas with their mother, Mrs. Col. L. W. Humphrey.

—Mrs. Ida G. Peterson and little daughter Margaret, who have so many friends here, their old home, are in the city to spend Christmas, and are stopping at the Hotel Kennon.

—The death of Mr. E. K. Holloman, formerly of the Providence section of the county, occurred last night at 9:30 o'clock, at his home on Oak street east, after a protracted illness. The remains were borne out to Providence this afternoon for interment in the old family burying ground.

No Paper Till Tuesday.

According to an established custom with The Argus to take two full holidays at Christmas, not counting Sunday, whenever Sunday has intervened, as it does this year, there will not be another issue of this paper until Tuesday afternoon.

We wish all our readers a joyous and happy Christmas.

SOUTHERLAND-SMITH.

Quiet Home Marriage of Two Popular Young People Last Night.

Our progressive young friend and townsman Mr. J. W. Southerland, so long associated with the A. T. Griffin Manufacturing Company, and Miss Mary E. Smith, daughter of the late Mr. Titus Smith, were united in the holy bond of wedlock last night, at the home of the bride, in New Hope township, Elder Jacob F. Hill officiating.

The Argus wishes the happy young couple the fullest measure of life's joys and prosperity.
