SELF-PROTECTION HER AIM

College Girl Proves She Has a Mind by Care She Takes to Hide the Fact.

It is time for the college girl to meet the charges heaped against her. She is called frivolous, empty-headed, and her appearance is considered wrong in every detail. Now she is driven to confess that it is all done for self-protection, writes Olga Owens, in Judge.

With a mind as valuable as hers, the college girl is not safe. In these days of constant hollips and roberies, ruthless bandits are waiting at every turn. How can she go abroad proclaiming to the world the great wealth of knowledge that is hers? Obviously, she must disguise it.

Suppose she lets her hair grow! Pinned up on a head already enlarged by so much learning, she becomes so conspicuous that she falls prey to the first intellectual crook. So she bobs it. Suppose she wears long skirts, or even a modest collegiate gown. Would it be surprising if some dark night she is held up, and at the point of a pistol made to recite the whole of Homer's "Iliad" to some desperate college professor? So to be doubly sure, she rolls her stockings. Education is a conspicuous thing, and if the student applies a little powder now and then to cover up its shining light upon her face, she should not be condemned. The desperate age in which we live has made all this necessary.

So it is with admiration and pity that we should regard her, bravely adopting the latest styles, without complaint. Not even the reformer wears his pocketbook where it can be seen. The college girl proves that she has a mind by hiding it.

MARKET REPORT

(By Associated Press.)

COTTON FUTURES

New York, Sept. 6.—Cotton futures opened barely steady; Oct. 1909; Dec. 21.19; Jan. 21.03; March 21.19, May 21.12.

There was a further decline in the cotton market today during the early trading, due to Southern renewed hedging and scattered liquidation.

The market gained a few points on trade buying.

October sold at 20.90 and December at 21.10, and these prices seemed to inspire a little more scattered buying, which was thought to be for southern mills.

WALL STREET

New York, Sept. 6.—Closing prices were irregular on the stock exchange today, but with gains outnumbering losses.

Reals were especially irregular, B. & O. and Rock Island moving to higher levels, while Northern Pacific, Mo. Pacific, Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific fell by fractions.

U. S. Steel was slightly off, but ticks in general were higher.

BACK IN LONDON IMPRESSED BY VIEWS OF U. S.

London, Sept. 6.—William Marconi, who has just returned from his American tour, is enthusiastic over the program made in wireless telegraph and telephony in the United States since his last visit. In an interview today he declared that the Americans were far ahead of the English in broadcasting and wireless development generally.

"The Americans have reached a greater perfection of detail than have the British," the famous inventor said. "The clearness of speech and the remarkable ease with which messages are received in the United States are amazing."

Mr. Marconi said the music transmitted by wireless in America was much clearer than the phonograph. "It is in fact as loud as the American brass bands and that is saying a good deal. The party on our yacht were able to dance to the music sent out by the broadcasting station in Schenectady, N. Y."

In crossing the Atlantic, Mr. Marconi was able to make numerous tests of what is called atmospheric disturbances. These tests seem to confirm the opinion that the distur-

When he was near Europe they all came from the east, or European side, whereas, when he was in mid Atlantic he found that the disturbances were very few and weak, and that they were coming from pretty near all around. On nearing America, the disturbances from the European side were very weak while those from the American side were not marked.

American Court Resumes Work

(Special Correspondent) Shanghai, Sept. 6.—Machinery of the United States Court for China, idle for nearly a year through which Judge C. S. Lobingier of the court was absent in the United States, was set in motion the latter part of July on the return of the Judge.

In the spring of 1921, charges were filed against Judge Lobingier by W. S. Fleming, senior member of a prominent law firm in Washington and after a protracted hearing which Judge Lobingier attended at Washington he was completely exonerated in and order issued by President Harding.

Due to peculiarities of existing laws it was held that no other American federal judge could be appointed to take Judge Lobingier's place through the period of his absence.

More Reason To Be Scared of T. B.

Donna was living in a two roomed cottage with his three little daughters and another family of three persons. His wife had died of tuberculosis. He himself had an advanced case of the disease. Through the juvenile court and the Welfare Department the children were removed so as to escape the danger of contagion.

The father soon died. The oldest child was taken by an aunt, and after a while succumbed to the disease.

The youngest one of the children has now been found to have tuberculosis also. She has just been taken to Sanatorium, the State hospital for the treatment of the disease.

The thoughtful observer can but think how different might have been the fate of this family if the first case of tuberculosis had been taken in hand at once, isolated and cured and prevented from carrying contagion to the others.

The earliest feature of this case is its commonness. Every day young prominent children are contracting the disease through poverty, ignorance, or lack of care on the part of their parents.

Over 11 per cent of all the deaths in Wayne County last year were due to tuberculosis.

ANOTHER GOLDSBORO CASE

It proves that there is a way out for many suffering Goldsboro folks.

Just another report of a case of Goldsboro. Another typical case. Kidney ailments relieved in Goldsboro with Dean's Kidney Pills.

A Green, 607 1/2 N. William St., says: "My kidneys were out a while five years ago and I had to cross across my back. There was a steady ache in my kidneys most all the time and this had to be played out. My kidneys were weak and disordered and I believe the trouble came from them. I had to get up at night to pass the kidney secretions, which burned in passing. I heard about Dean's Kidney Pills and began to use them. In a short time, Dean's reached my case and cured me. I haven't had a bit of kidney trouble since."

SUCCESS OF "SILENT NINE"

By Its Use Airplane Passengers Are Enabled Freely to Converse With Each Other.

A silent airplane engine has at last been invented. In a recent test the deafening roar of the engine and exhaust was completely eliminated when fitted with the "Silent Nine," as the new invention is called.

Passengers will now be able to converse with ease while in the air, and not be forced to shout at the top of their voices.

The "Silent Nine" is very simple in construction and in principle, says London Answers. It consists of an expansion chamber fitted to the end of a long exhaust pipe, and arranged in such a way that the gases from the engine are cooled immediately they leave the red-hot exhaust hole. This is the secret of engine silence.

The inventor is Major Grant, the superintendent of the Croydon air-drome depot. "The 'Silent Nine' can be sold at a profit for less than $10 ($50), and already there is a great demand for it."

Damascening Art Revived. To the father of Zuloaga, the Spanish painter, the world is indebted for the revival of the Moorish art of damascening, according to an article in Comment, a British magazine of popular science.

Senior Zuloaga himself made many fine pieces and inspired other workers in this beautiful craft. "Toledo damascening," as it is often called, is a process of interesting gold upon steel. Fine lines are cut upon a blackened steel plate, and into these lines thin gold wire is beaten with pointed tools.

The shining gold produces a brilliant effect against the background of dark steel, and when skillfully wrought into the flowers, beasts, birds, and scrolls in which the Spanish artist delights, the result is said to be extremely beautiful, and examples of the ware are highly prized by collectors.—From the Outlook.

Weaving and Spinning.

It is likely that the art of weaving, in its most elementary form, was practiced long before men abandoned the use of animal skins for clothing, or perhaps even before they adopted clothing at all. No doubt it began with the first crude attempts of primitive women to weave twigs into some kind of object. After they had succeeded in making baskets and similar articles, it probably occurred to some bright cave woman that clothing might be made by weaving some soft material like wool, says a writer, according to the Detroit News. To do this it would be necessary to twist tufts of wool into long strands. Thus the beginning of spinning. And as the strands of wool were not stiff like twigs, it would be necessary to have a certain number of them taut between poles or something in order to weave the fabric. Thus the first loom.

The Modern Vamp.

The modern "vamp" is a colloquial contraction of the term "vampire," used in the sense of the "rag and bone and the hank of hair" type of woman, "who did not care," described by Rudyard Kipling in his famous poem of that name. This word is being used as a verb, meaning to exact money or other valuable articles from; also, to flirt with.

Prize for Engine.

A prize of one million francs has been offered by the administrative council of the committee for aeronautical propaganda in France, for an airplane engine which will give satisfaction in severe tests of durability, reliability, swift dismantling, erecting, etc. Tests will begin in June, 1923. Competition is open to the world.
