ELEPHANT RUNS AMUCK TODAY

(By Associated Press.)
Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 11.—Topsy, the four-ton elephant of the Hackenbeck-Wallace show which escaped from her keepers here on Monday night as she was being loaded on the train, becoming infuriated by the barking of dogs at her, and made a dash at the nagging canines, breaking through yards, right through negro tenement houses and over turning automobiles in her mad course and finally swimming the Cape Fear river and making off into the swamps.

Yesterday all day was spent by her keepers in searching for and tracking her, and finally she was captured and brought back to the city last night; but just as she was being led up to a flat car, she again became angry and again dashing off—again swimming the Cape Fear, and going on to the New Brunswick River, which she also swam, and is today roaming through the jungles of the New Brunswick swamps, while her keepers are trying to locate her.

In the meantime the circus, showing in Fayetteville yesterday, was requested to put up a $7,300 bond, as security for property damage wrought by the elephant in her mad dash, which is at present estimated at $1,400, but other damage may result before she is captured.

PEACEFUL SOLUTION ASSURED

(By Associated Press.)
London, Oct. 11.—A peaceful solution of the Near East situation has apparently been reached, based on the convention proposal of returning eastern Thrace to the Turks, with proper safeguards for preserving the neutrality of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorous straits.

Last night by Ismet Pasha and the allied generals, but doubtless due to the convention was signed at Mudros fragmentary features there has been delay in reporting it.

The Ankara government, for whom Ismet Pasha acted, has been furnishing copy of the convention in advance.

Chicago Girls Paint Their Dresses

Hand-painted dresses are the latest fad introduced by the students of dress design at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. The girls in the classes are now at work on dresses for themselves made of material on which designs have been painted by hand. Miss Ann Leichter, a student at the academy, is the originator of the idea.

Keynote Speech of Campaign By Congressional Candidate Last Night.

The opening of the county and congressional campaign occurred in this city last night, when Hon. C. L. Abernethy, democratic candidate for congress, spoke in the court house, being presented by Col. John D. Langston, and the meeting was presided over by Col. Geo. K. Freeman, democratic chairman of the county.

Mr. Abernethy was in splendid trim and made one of the best speeches ever heard here, and his audience made known their appreciation by frequent and spontaneous applause.

Dr. W. Lee Morris.

Wilmington Young Professional Man Opens Chiropractor Office Here.

Dr. W. Lee Morris, oldest son of Mrs. Mary Robinson Morris, of this city, who has given years of study to medicine, and who served in a medical hospital corps during the world war, has recently graduated from the noted Davenport Chiropractic College, and has elected to cast his professional fortunes here in Goldsboro, his home town.

Dr. Morris has opened offices for the practice of his profession in the Grant building, and the Argus extends to him the best of good wishes and bespeaks for him a full measure of patronage.

Orphan Home Benefit At Acme Theatre Tonight

Two thousand paid admissions is the goal set for the benefit performance to be given at the Acme theatre tomorrow matinee and night for the Odd Fellows orphan home. The program is one of the best ever presented. The moving picture recently made of the orphan home, its children and the Odd Fellows themselves will be presented in connection with the big feature picture "The Silent Call." Strongly featured human intelligence is featured in the photoplay. Rarely has the screen presented a picture with so many points of universe appeal as are possessed by "The Silent Call." The picture has drama galore, several thrilling punch scenes, the beautiful nature background of the high Sierras, a superlative cast of players and a remarkable dog "Strongheart" who is the real hero of the story. Paths latest news reel will also be shown.

The management requests that as many as possible come to the afternoon performance, thus assuring the concert at night which is likely to occur unless as many as possible take advantage of the afternoon shows.

Admission 40 cents including tax. Do your bit for the home and be entertained, thus being fully reimbursed for your donation.

Last Night Rotary Meet

Last night's weekly meeting of the Goldsboro Rotary was 100 per cent and it was one of the best meetings ever, by reason of the presence and talks of several distinguished visitors, including Hon. C. L. Abernethy and Rev. Sam Phillips, the latter pastor of the Presbyterian church of Greenville, N. C., and a Rotary known throughout the Rotary world for his achievements in "service above self" and his untiring efforts at building character among the boys.

He was one of the speakers last night, and every Rotarian who heard him is a better Rotarian today than ever. It was an inspiration—a benediction—a call to service which cannot but result in greater undertakings and greater achievements by Goldsboro Rotary.

A GOOD MAN PASSES.

Just as the Argus was going to press yesterday afternoon the sad news was telephoned to this office of the death of Mr. J. I. Tyndall, at his home on Beech street, where he had been hopelessly ill for many weeks, and where he had received the loving ministrations of a devoted wife and children and every attention that physicians could bestow.

Mr. Tyndall came to this city some 12 years ago from Kinston and took the foremanship of the Durham Hosiery Mill, then but a small venture on a limited scale, but which under his capable work and integrity of service co-operating always loyally with the management, has grown to one of the most important plants in the Durham Hosiery Mill section, and chain of mills, and his services were highly appreciated by the management, as was shown by their doing his long period of service in many ways, as well as by constant attentions during his fatal illness.

Mr. Tyndall was an exemplary Christian, a devoted member of the Christian church, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was likewise a zealous member of the Junior Order.

He is survived by his devoted wife and five children, George, Frederick, Edwin, Annie and Elizabeth, all of his own, by his mother Mrs. A. G. Tyndall, four brothers and two sisters.

The remains will be conveyed to Kinston, his old home, this afternoon for interment, and the funeral will be conducted by Rev. L. M. Cooper, pastor of the Christian church of this city.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes are two from the Odd Fellows from the Durham Hosiery Mills and from the Portland Hosiery Council Junior Order.

Comes To See Civic Virtue

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Edith Bacon Simmons, of Sioux Falls, S. D., has come to New York to see civic virtue, the statue by Frederic Maillart, which stands in the City Hall park.

Mrs. Simmons was the daughter of Mrs. Angelina Crane, who died in 1891 in her 47th year, and had been married to her late husband, who was a member of the New York City Police Department, for 25 years.

She is a widow and has two sons, one of whom is a member of the New York City Police Department and the other is a member of the New York City Fire Department.

Mrs. Simmons feels a certain pathos in the statue. She calls it "my statue." She feels that she paid for it in her home in South Dakota. She read with interest and a feeling of sorrow, the praise and the condemnation which followed "Civic Virtue" after its installation.

Once when she was a little girl, living with her mother in New York, she told Mrs. Crane that she thought it would be a good idea to build a fountain where doves and birds and men could get a drink. Later she fell in love with Robert S. Simmons, a young physician. Her mother opposed the match, but they were married.

The Simmons' father also opposed the marriage and left most of his estate to the found Simmons' relatives at Abilene, Texas.

Mrs. Simmons says she liked the statue and has no bitterness about it. "If I could have had the $12,000 my life would have been different," she says.

CANDLER MUST COUGH UP

ATLANTA, Oct. 11.—I do not want a single penny of the Candler money, said Vis. Oran Dabney, by today, indignantly, in discussing the case, but they will have to pay and pay dearly for their combine to destroy my reputation by their lies.

"Mr. Candler must disclose the name of his slanderer or stand before the world and take the consequences upon himself."

ROME SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

Rome, Oct. 11.—An earthquake of more than ordinary violence shook this city this morning, spreading great dismay among the people.

No damage has as yet been reported.

The Woman's Christian Federation Meets.

The meeting of the Woman's Christian Federation held at the Christian Church with more than 100 members present by the theme, "Rising Victory of the Christian Army." The speaker was Mrs. G. C. Kornegay, who is chairman of this year's home service appeal said at a recent interview "I believe there is at least 100 men in Goldsboro that will give five dollars and more to this splendid cause if they were placed before them." This should make it a very easy matter in a one-day campaign to raise the $5000 needed for the maintenance of the new hospital at Greenville, S. C. She maintained such signal success in taking care of five or six of our Goldsboro girls.

The woman's Wesley Bible class of St. Paul's church also voted to support the appeal and to elect to lead the campaign and will stand by the organization.

Lloyd George Not to Quit Cabinet

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Lloyd George has clearly no intention of resigning office at the orders of his numerous critics. On the contrary, he determined to fight them and at a meeting Saturday, is expected to make a vigorous reply to those critics and to send his own political policy, that of the Madonia program, as stated. He said there is a new crisis in the air, and this may result in a change in his plans.

He well informed circles it is also stated that there is no question of the dissolution of parliament at the present time and therefore the prime minister's speech will be the outcome of an election matter. At the same time there is extraordinary activity in all political circles, and it is expected that the prime minister may have some new political program concerning internal reforms to be proposed.

A meeting in the night, which was held at 8 o'clock, at the Hotel Bedford, where a large number of the cabinet members were present, was held in connection with the campaign against the attack on the premier.

Miss Dorette Oettinger Dies

Miss Dorette Oettinger, 35 years of age, died at her home in Goldsboro, N. C., this afternoon.

She was the daughter of Mrs. John Oettinger, of Goldsboro, N. C.

She is survived by her mother and several other relatives.

WILHELM GALLI CURLI

"I triumphed in Madrid and in South America where she sits with a gun and bluff, Galli Curli is a man of letters and a writer of the highest order." Her debut with the magazine "L'Espresso" was such a success that she has been permitted to publish a new volume, smaller than the first, but equally successful. She will join her mother and her father in New York City.

She is a member of the "Wilde" club, and her husband, who is a member of the "Wilde" club, is a member of the "Wilde" club.

BRITISH TO PAY INTEREST MONDAY

(By Associated Press.)
London, Oct. 11.—Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the Exchequer, stated today that he was going to the United States at the head of the British financial commission, despite rumors to the contrary.

The British government is proceeding with its plans to pay to the million pounds sterling on its way back.

Brown's Drug Store.

What It Typifies to the Trading Public Who Favor Goldsboro With Their Patronage.

Some years ago Mr. Henry C. Brown, then hardly more than a mere youth, whose only capital was character, confidence in himself, industry in service, determination to succeed, and ability for development, came to Goldsboro and took a position in a local drug store, and gave his leisure hours to the study of pharmacy. In due course of time he passed with credit the state board of pharmacy and was duly licensed into the profession, and during the intervening years he has built up and enjoys an enviable reputation with the city and county medical profession as a capable and careful compounding of prescriptions entrusted to him.

In the meantime, Mr. Brown married and by industry and frugal foresight, by building and loan investment, and intuitive mutual purpose, they now have their own cozy home on Walnut street east, and children to make it a haven of happiness and a trysting place of enjoyment as only the laughter of children in the home can.

In the course of his service as a prescription clerk opportunity came to Mr. Brown to engage in business for himself, and from the very inception of his own business venture he was favored with a liberal patronage from all sections of Goldsboro's far-reaching trade territory, which has steadily increased in volume with the passing years until today Brown's Drug Store is known far and wide as one of the established institutions of our city.

It is not only this, but it is now one of the handsomest drug stores in the city, and this means in the state, for the drug stores of Goldsboro are all as handsome as to be found anywhere.

Brown's Drug Store, as all Argus readers know, is now occupying, under a long term lease, the newly remodeled Shirago building, second door from the corner on Walnut street, where a magnificent new stock tonnage and all modern equipment and features of an up-to-date drug store have been installed.

A MAN THAT IS A MAN

(By Associated Press.)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—Wilbur Leggett, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., now living here, said today that he was a traveling salesman in 1919, when the charge brought by Asa G. Chandler against Mrs. DeBouché is alleged to have happened. "The story is a lie—a slanderous fabrication against one of the finest and best of women."

The Catholic Mission.

Father Reginald—The Passionist Monk—is An Earnest and Forceful Preacher.

The suddenness with which death comes to most men was the theme of the mission sermon preached by Father Reginald at St. Mary's Church last night. "You will note," he said, "that Christ speaks often of death and it is invariably this aspect of unexpectedness. He stresses as expressed in this evening's text: 'He who is ready for at what hour you think not, the Son of Man will come.'" (Luke 12-40).

That departed souls continue to love those left behind was insisted upon. Such a love has become purified and concerns the salvation of the souls of friends and relatives still remaining on earth. The message from the dead silently addressed to the living by grave and tombstone is a reminder of the necessity of preparation for the thief like coming of death. Father Reginald urged his hearers not to postpone this preparation until an advanced age which may never be reached, but to make every day of life a preparation for death through prayer and works of penance, through the observance of the divine commandments in their fullness and through the performance of the duties demanded by religion. It is by molding their lives along such lines that men may ever reach to meet death and face it hopeful of the rewards reserved by God for the future life of the soul's immortality.

At the close of the service the missionary made a brief explanation of the Catholic doctrine of the Real Presence of Christ in the Holy Eucharist. He gave information, too, as to the confessional, the veneration of the saints, and the form of prayer known as the rosary. Tonight's sermon will be an answer to the question, "What happens to the soul after death?," as taught by Catholic theology.

Did Then.

"Barlow is very selfish. I've never known him to show an attachment for anyone but himself in his life."

"I have."

"When?"

"When he was serving his term as sheriff."

She Is.

"How do you and your wife get along so nicely, Joe?"

"I always let her think she is having her own way."

"But how do you manage to delude her?"

"I don't."

Couldn't Understand It.

"Doctor—I'm sorry to say that your husband has pleurisy in its worst form."

Mrs. Newrich—I can't understand that. We are certainly rich enough to afford the best there is.

COAL COMMISSION NAMED BY PRES.

Washington, Oct. 11.—President Harding has announced the personnel of the commission which is authorized by an act of Congress to make an exhaustive investigation into both the bituminous and anthracite coal fields with a view to recommending legislation designed to bring tranquility to this industry.

John Hays Hammond, of Washington, an internationally known mining engineer, heads the list. The other members are former Vice President Marshall, Judge Samuel Alshuler, of Chicago; Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution; George Otis Smith, director of the United States geological survey; Dr. Edward T. Devine, New York City; and Charles T. Neill, manager of the bureau of information of the southeastern railroads.

The commission will meet in Washington within 10 days for the purpose of organizing, it was stated at the White House. It was expected to hold hearings both in this city and in the various coal fields and is required under the Borah-Winslow act to make its first report to the President and Congress not later than next January 15. This report would deal with the bituminous industry but a separate report of the anthracite industry would be required on or before next July 1.

Among other things the commission will inquire into will be the ownership and title of mines, the prices of coal, organizations and persons connected with the industry both in production and distribution, profits of producers and distributors for the last 10 years, labor conditions, wages, waste contracts, waste and irregular production and the causes of labor disturbances in the coal fields.

Also the commission is to inquire into and recommend regarding the standardization of the mines with the possible closing of those unable to maintain that standard, standardization of the cost of living and living conditions among miners and the advisability of legislation having to do with government or private ownership, regulations and control.

The commission is expected to divide itself into sub-committees, which would conduct simultaneous inquiries in the several principal coal fields of the southern districts, the western districts and the anthracite district. A fund of $200,000 has been appropriated for the inquiry which is designed to be the most exhaustive ever conducted by any agency of the federal government. The commissioners will receive a salary of $7,500 a year each.

MAIL SLOT OR RECEPTACLE REQUIRED."

"On account of the delays caused to carriers at dwelling houses where no door-slot or mail receptacle is provided, and the fact that a large majority of dwellings are thus equipped already, it seems timely, within a reasonable period, to require all who receive mail by street carriers at their dwellings to provide such accommodations, the expense of the same being small. Postmasters are therefore thus instructed.

"It is not the department's desire, of course, that any shall be deprived of delivery by this requirement, but rather it is earnestly hoped that all will see the reasonableness of it and its advantages to themselves as well as to the carriers. But if it finally becomes necessary mail delivery will be discontinued where no door-slots or mail receptacles are provided."

Received from Department.
Sincerely,
E. A. SIMKINS,
Postmaster,
Goldsboro, N. C.

If We Could Persuade

every person in this community to take ten per cent of his salary every pay day and put it in an interest-bearing account, we would revolutionize the habits of those whose carelessness is depriving them of prosperity.

Many people, however, will go on saving just what little is left at the end of the month, or nothing at all. But perhaps you will be one of those who will profit by the suggestion to pay yourself first.

One dollar will start your prosperity account at this bank.
