A DIVIDEND DECLARED.

Meeting of the Directors of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Road Today—Vacancy Filled.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Road was held at the office of the company in Columbia today.
 Among the Directors present were A. B. Davidson, Z. B. Springs, M.
 T. Pegram, and LeRoy Springs, of Charlotte. There was a large attendance of the Board.

The reports of the President as to the condition of the road-bed and rolling-stock, and the financial condition of the road, was most satisfactory.

The recent earnings were such as to assure to the stockholders a regular dividend of at least four per cent., if not more, upon the capital stock for the future. The Directors at the meeting today declared a quarterly dividend of one dollar per share, payable on March 1st. This action of the Directors is very encouraging to the stockholders and shows that the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta affairs are picking up.

Dr. John H. McAden, of Charlotte, was elected a Director in place of the late Rufus Y. McAden.

LOCAL RIPPLES.

—Senator Vance's friends here will be glad to read in our Washington letter, that he was able to resume his place in the Senate last Saturday.

—The Woman's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church will meet at the residence of Judge Shipp on Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

—Capt. R. P. Waring, assayer of the Charlotte mint, leaves this afternoon for Philadelphia, to act as one of the members of the government committee.

—Mr. Gen. H. Brockenbrough was called by telegraph to Richmond last Saturday afternoon to attend the bedside of his mother, who is dangerously sick at her home there.

—The Criminal court attracted an unusually large crowd to the court house today, but most of the men were hanging around to see what luck the jury lottery would bring them; and in each case it was either stay, or go home.

—The sympathies of our community will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Stewart in the death of their little son Jessie, which occurred yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock.
 The little boy was fifteen months old. The funeral was conducted from the residence, 306 West Seventh street, at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

—The Richmond & Danville Railroad Company was accused of enticing the negroes to emigrate from Goldsboro, so as to get their fares.
 In consequence of this, that company has withdrawn the special rates and the negroes who want to leave through that road, no matter in how large a party, have to pay regular passenger fare.

Fires at Bryce Cochran's.

Mr. Bryce Cochrane, a farmer of Mallard Creek township, met with a serious loss by fire, last Thursday.
 His old horse power gin house was burned, and with it 35 loads of hay, a lot of fodder, one mowing machine, a lot of ploughs and other farming implements. The fire was accidental.
 A farm hand was engaged near by in burning brush; the wind carried the fire to a tree top, and from the tree top it was blown to the gin house.
 No ginning was done in this building, Mr. Cochrane having recently erected a gin near his mill.

Dead from a Congestive Chill.

Mr. R. A. Flannigan, a lawyer and a farmer, died at his home in Cabarrus county at 2 o'clock this morning. Mr. Flannigan lived in the neighborhood of Mr. Robert Wallace, and parties who were in town from that section today tell us that his death was sudden and unexpected, and was caused by a congestive chill. Mr. Flannigan was about 25 years old, and was unmar-

CHARLES REYNOLDS JONES.

Another Charlotte Editor Gone to Join the Great Majority.

Col. Chas. R. Jones is dead and his body is at rest in Elmwood Cemetery. His low condition was mentioned in Saturday's NEWS, and his speedy dissolution was foreshadowed, but the paper had scarcely been run through the press when word was received that the end had come. Col. Jones died at his home at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, surrounded by the members of his family. It was his second attack of sickness in the past few months, and it had confined him to his bed just one week. His constitution had been broken down and he fell an easy prey to the disease.
 The immediate cause of his death was paralysis of the brain. His last conscious moments were on last Thursday afternoon, when he talked rationally with this writer, and even called him back when he rose to leave, but shortly afterwards his mind became clouded, and he lapsed into a comatose state from which he never rallied. Col. Jones was 48 years old, and leaves a wife and family of children.

Col. Jones was a journalist of peculiar abilities, and as editor of the Charlotte Observer he gained a reputation that was not confined to North Carolina alone, but that extended throughout the South. He earned his success by the sweat of his brow, and built up a paper that is even now spoken of as the best Charlotte ever knew, where all before him had failed. He came to Charlotte from Statesville sixteen years ago and took charge of the daily Observer. He worked day and night, and for sometime, as he often related, slept on a bench in the office at night. Success came to him gradually and steadily, and within the course of a few years the Observer had grown into a successful and influential paper. The good that he did for Charlotte can scarcely be estimated, but looking back over his years of toil in the interests of this city, our people see a great work to remember him by—a work that should cause his name to be mentioned always gratefully.

Col. Jones and the Observer are both memories of the past, but they will not soon be forgotten. The one will be remembered as a generous, affable, open-hearted man; and the other as one of the best friends Charlotte ever knew. The later years of Col. Jones' life were full of the trials incident to business reverses, through which he struggled with his characteristic energy; but his trials are over. There are no more struggles for him "where the weary are at rest."

The funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon from St.
 Peter's Episcopal Church. Rev. Jos.
 Blount Cheshire, Jr., the rector, officiated, and the throng in the church was so dense that many people had to remain standing in the aisles. At the conclusion of the impressive burial service, the body was escorted to Elmwood Cemetery and interred with Masonic honors, the Knights of Honor also attending in a body. The crowd around the grave was one of the largest ever assembled in Elmwood Cemetery on any occasion. Col. Jones belonged to the highest order of Masons in Charlotte, and each branch of the order was represented in the pall bearers, as follows: Messrs. H. G. Springs, John W.
 Wadsworth, Geo. H. King, and J.
 H. McAden, representing the Royal Arch Chapter, and Messrs. S. H.
 Hilton, S. Landecker, and John Newcomb, the Blue Lodge. The burial was under the immediate supervision of Excelsior Lodge, of which the deceased was a past-master.

Thus has passed away one of the most prominent figures of Charlotte, a man who leaves behind him much good work as a monument to his memory. May he rest in peace!

—Skipped by the Light of the Moon—will be here Thursday.

DONE UP BY CONDUCTORS.

One Thief Threshed, Another Shot, and Still Another Kidnapped—Lively Times at the Junction.

Thieves have been making it lively for the Richmond & Danville freight conductors, in the vicinity of the Air Line junction at this city, and last Friday night the conductors turned the tables and made it lively for the thieves. One rogue was given an old time flogging, another was shot, and still another was abducted and carried to Salisbury where he was jailed.

The conductors had suffered from the depredations of these rascals until they had become thoroughly exasperated. The junction is the place where the long freight trains for the North are made up, and while the shifting is going on, the caboose cars are necessarily left standing alone on the side tracks. A certain set of thieves became aware of these facts, and for weeks past have made almost nightly raids on the cabs. A few nights ago they made a complete haul, taking a new suit of clothes and everything the conductor had in his cab, including half a dozen photographs of the robbed conductor. Things went on this way until Friday night, when the conductors routed the enemy. While the cars were being shifted, a conductor lay in ambush, and pretty soon he saw a negro break into the cab. The conductor started for him but stumbled and fell over a confederate who was crouching in the dark just outside the car, on the watch. As the negro bolted from the car, the conductor opened fire on him and popped three times.
 The negro fell at the first and third shots, and the last time he remained on the ground two or three minutes, when he again got up and moved slowly off. The conductor did not follow him, but a call is expected to be made for coroner Cathey at any time. Another of the thieves was caught, and while the train hands held him, the conductor gave him a threshing that would have made the old time whipping post blush. A third thief was kidnapped and carried to Salisbury, where he was jailed. He will be brought back here for trial. No more train robberies have been reported in the locality of the junction.

 quite sick.

Messrs. John Pharr and T. L.
 Alexander returned home Saturday afternoon from their Florida trip.

Mr. L. J. Walker, who accompanied them, remained at Ocala. Mr. Pharr says Florida is a great country, but ty for that whole State.

Mr. Joe Baruch arrived home today.

Mr. C. E. Frick, of the Shelby
 New Era, is at the Buford.

 NEWS, died the same day, at his was one of the most prominent men well known in Charlotte, where he has relatives. His death was due to apoplexy.
