LOCAL RIFFLES.

—Mr. John Bixby is improving, but Mr. John B. Rooke is still slowly sinking.

—The Social Circle entertainment will be given at the Buford Hotel tomorrow night.

—Mr. C. W. Bradley, of Kansas City, is here prospecting for an investment. He is at the Central.

—Mr. Robert Oates, Jr., will entertain the S. A. E. boys and their lady friends next Thursday evening, at his home on Trade street.

—Charlotte's reputation as a Winter resort looms up with a big black eye, lately. There's talk now of building an ice palace as an attraction.

—Mordsant Bodine, a director of the Old Dominion Steamship Co., and J. Francis Murphy, a member of the same company, were at the Central yesterday.

—Mr. Jas. R. Magill, of Kerahaw county, S. C., is visiting friends in Charlotte, the guest of his brother, Mr. T. R. Magill. He is president of the Kerahaw Alliance, and is a member of the South Carolina Legislature.

—A countryman who was starting for home last Saturday evening, was driving along Church street, when a crowd of boys began snowballing him. His mule became frightened, ran off, threw the man out and broke up his buggy. A crowd of boys with snowballs can scare a mule half to death, and the boys ought to know that.

Personal Notes.

Miss Mamie Yater left today for Henrietta Mills, to visit Mrs. S. B.
Tanner.

Judge Walter Clark is at the Buford Hotel.

Mr. Geo. N. Gray, business manager of the Mugg's Landing Company, was at the Central today, and made arrangements for his show at the opera house next Monday night.

Funeral of Mrs. Allison.

The funeral services over the body of the late Mrs. R. W. Allison, were conducted from the residence in Concord at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and were attended by a very large crowd. Rev. C. M.
Payne, pastor of the Concord Presbyterian church, conducted the services, and he was assisted by Revs.
J. H. Thornwell, of Fort Mill, S. C., and Thomas W. Smith, of Concord.
Her body was interred in the family plot in the old church yard. A number from Charlotte attended her funeral.

Farewell Sermon.

Rev. J. L. McLees, who has served the Graham street Presbyterian chapel in this city, preached his farewell sermon to his charge, last night, and will leave shortly for his new charge at Orangeburg, S.
C. Mr. McLees has done a good work in this city and has endeared himself to our people. Sunday morning he preached in the Second Presbyterian church, and Rev. J. Y.
Fair filled his pulpit at the chapel.
The Presbyterians of Orangeburg have secured a good pastor.

Judge Clark's Methods.

Judge Walter Clark, who is holding the present term of the Superior court, is strictly business. He moves things in a way that is somewhat new to our people, but altogether satisfactory to those who have business in the court. He does away with the old time court crier, and requires the witnesses to be in the court room when their names are called.
If a witness does not answer to his name, pop goes a fine of about $5.
Some jurors were late this morning, and the Judge fined five of them $5 each, but as they had good excuses to make, he remitted the fines. In instructing the sheriff to summon a special venire in case they should be needed, Judge Clark ordered him "not to summon any court house keepers." Judge Clark is a mover, and if his methods are not made into the dust it will be none of his fault.

CALLING FOR THE MAD STONE.

Butler Has a Busy Sunday—A Man From Down South and a Telegram from Catawba.

As a News reporter was on his way to Church Sunday morning, he noticed as he passed Butler's jewelry store that there was a man sitting inside with a troubled expression on his face, and a rock hanging to one of his hands. The troubled expression was caused by a mad dog bite, and the rock that was clinging to him was Butler's mad stone. The man was named S. P. Eardson, and he was from Alken county, S. C., near Augusta. He was bitten several days ago by a mad dog, and had come all the way to Charlotte to have the mad stone applied. The stone clung to his wound for forty minutes.

While the stone was still hanging to Mr. Eardson's flesh, a Western Union messenger boy came into the store with a telegram for Mr. Butler from Mr. G. C. McNeil, of Catawba, N. C., asking for the mad stone to be sent him to apply to his little boy who had been bitten by a mad dog. Mr. Eardson said that on his farm a young lady, one child, and a negro had been bitten by the same dog that bit him, and wanted to take the stone home with him to apply to their wounds. Mr. Butler, however, sent it to Mr. McNeil.
Mr. Eardson experienced great relief from the application of the stone, and went home in a happy frame of mind.

This mad stone of Butler's is unquestionably a genuine one. It was found in the "light" of a deer that was killed in the mountains, and is of a very peculiar formation, being egg shaped. It is composed of porous layers. Some time ago the outside layer was broken, and it fell off like the shell of a buckeye. The stone has been applied to hundreds of bites, and good results have always followed. After it drops from a wound, it is boiled in milk, and the milk becomes green. Butler has refused an offer of $500 for it.
This stone is beginning to attract the attention of scientists and medical men. It is claimed that it will cure a snake bite without the aid of whiskey.

Hunger on the Stage.

The Theodora company had bad luck Saturday night. The company could not get away from Asheville as soon as was expected, and arrived here on the evening Air Line train, which happened to be two hours late. The members hurried from the depot to the opera house and proceeded to prepare for the play.
Their time was short and none of them had supper. Their hunger was evidenced in the gypsy scene, when the gypsy pulled out three oranges and laid them on a table.
As the curtain was going down, those on the stage scrambled for the oranges, the lion queen herself leading the race. This by-play was seen by the audience. The queen got one orange, Justinian got one and the gypsy got the third. They were mighty quick about it, for they had seized the oranges and had begun to peel them from the time the curtain commenced falling to the time it struck the stage floor, and that was about 10 seconds. The company had to give a kind of a makeshift show, and did as well as could have been expected under the circumstances.

The Superior Court.

The Spring term of the Superior court for Mecklenburg county, was and D. R. R. Co.; J. W. and J. S.

PASS IN YOUR DOLLARS.

The Man with a Glib Tongue and a Big Shirt Front, Who Took in the Crowd —Something of his Operations.

The medicine man whose operations in Charlotte were noted in Saturday's News, did up Concord for several hundred. His fraud is so patent, that hardly any sympathy can be expressed for those who get bit by him; but all the same the papers of the State ought to show him up.

He is a sleek looking customer; young, with light hair, dresses in black, with vest cut away to show nearly the whole of a "biled" shirt front, which is ornamented with fake diamonds. He hails from California, and has been having a good time in the adjoining towns for several weeks past. This young man drives a pair of horses around town and attracts attention and a crowd as he goes by throwing out nickles. When he comes to a stand, as bird hunters would say, he rises in his buggy and throws nickles right and left. In little or no time he has a big crowd around him. Then he holds up a bottle of medicine and somebody hands 25 cents for it. He hands out the medicine and not only returns the 25 cents, but gives 10 cents extra. This goes on for sometime until he hands back a larger bottle with the 50 cents and 25 cents extra.
After a little time he gets up to $1, and the crowd understand that they are to get back their dollar and $5 extra. Some of them are so eager to come in on this racket that they trample over each other in an effort to hand in their dollars. When the fake has taken in about $300, he picks up his lines and drives off, leaving a badly sold crowd behind him. In this way he got not less than $300 in Charlotte Saturday evening. He took the money in with both hands, and couldn't take it in fast enough. Just before he left, and while he was stuffing the money down his pocket, he remarked to the crowd, "Now I will give you a brick house or a barrel of sugar," and some of them believed it until he added, "If I want to."

Some parties invested as much as $5. One countryman who had come to town to get some medicine for a sick child, spent it all on the fraud, and then went around trying to borrow more money to buy the child's medicine. Some of the victims talked about having the man arrested, but they found out that they would have to catch him first.

The Cold Wave.

The predicted cold wave of last Saturday fully met with the expectations of the signal officer here.
The temperature had reached the freezing point before 12 o'clock Saturday night, and Sunday it ranged from 13 to 26 degrees during the day. There was another bad freeze last night, but the weather has moderated slightly during the day. The signal bulletin reports a general cold wave, and snow in many places.

The Charlotte Cotton Market.

The city cotton market continued firm today, with the same strong tone. The wagon receipts were 11 bales. There was no change from Saturday's quotations, as follows:
Strict Good Middling 10
Good Middling 9½
Strict Middling 9¼
Middling 9
Tinges 9½ @ 10

Saved From Consumption.

Several physicians predicted that Mr. Asa B. Rowley, druggist, of Chicago, would soon have consumption caused by an aggravated case of catarrh. Customers finally induced him to try Clarke's Extract of Flax (Papillon) Catarrh Cure. He says:
"The result was unprecedented. I commenced to get well after the first application, and am now, after a few weeks, entirely cured." It will do the same for you. Price $1.00. Try Clarke's Flax Soap for the skin and you will use no other. 25 cents.
All of Clarke's Flax remedies are for sale by R. H. Jordan & Co., druggists.
