Miss Tolbert in Charlotte.

Miss Tolbert, the unfortunate victim of the bigamist Thomas, is now living in Charlotte. She came here a few days ago with her family, and she herself has found employment as a seamstress in a clothing factory on College street. Thomas' suicide was mentioned in THE NEWS some days ago, but further particulars are given to-day. Thomas helped to survey the railroad between Charlotte and Albemarle.

A New Move for Monroe.

One of Monroe's prominent citizens was in Charlotte yesterday, buying machinery for a new industrial plant at that place. The new enterprise is to be known as the Monroe machine shops, foundry and planing mills, and the buildings are to be erected and the plant established at once. Some of the best citizens of the town have stock in the enterprise, and it is to be an extensive one, with a capacity for boiler repairing and heavy work of that kind.

Postmaster Young Seriously Sick.

Gen. Jno. A. Young, postmaster at Charlotte, who has been in a feeble state of health for several months past, yesterday afternoon suffered a relapse, and is now in a critical condition. Gen. Young was on the streets one day last week for the first time in a month or two, and was most cordially greeted by his friends. On his return home, however, he grew worse again, and yesterday he had a serious set-back, his affliction partaking of the nature of an apopleptic stroke. He rallied somewhat during the night, but his condition to-day is very grave.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon Gen. Young was resting easier, and the family felt somewhat encouraged, though his condition was undoubtedly critical.

THE BOLDEST YET.

BURGLARS RANSACK A BOARDING HOUSE.

A Boy Comes Into Collision with One of Them—They are Fired at in an Adjoining Yard While Breaking Open Trunks—Mrs. Bryan's Experience.

The burglars are still carrying a high hand in Charlotte, and to the already long list is to be added another of a most aggravated character. Two negroes went through a residence on a main street and sacked several sleeping rooms, carrying out trunks, overcoats, shoes, clothing, clocks and jewelry.

The victim of this burglary was Mrs. Cicero Bryan, a widow lady who keeps a boarding house at No. 402 West Trade street, directly opposite the United States mint building. Mrs. Bryan and her family occupy the rooms on the first floor, while the rooms on the second floor are occupied by her boarders. Her house was entered between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning, and was literally sacked. The burglars carried off two trunks containing jewelry and clothing, besides gathering up every piece of clothing belonging to Mrs. Bryan's family, with the single exception of the clothing of the youngest child, which was considerably overlooked. They took every pair of shoes the family owned, besides a lot of bed-clothing. They took the clock from the mantel in Mrs. Bryan's sleeping room and left it in the back yard, where it was found this morning, the hands indicating the hour 2 o'clock and 55 minutes. A silver watch with the name of Mrs. Bryan's son, Thomas H. Bryan, engraved in it, five overcoats belonging to the boarders, and numerous smaller articles, completed the booty of the burglars.

When the reporter called at Mrs. Bryan's house this morning, Mrs. Bryan and her six children were moving about in borrowed clothes. The eldest, an attractive young lady had on a pair of shoes loaned her by a neighbor. Tommy had on a big pair of breeches, a very tightly fitting vest, and a coat that was big enough for a man twice his size.

It was Tommie who first discovered the burglary and gave the alarm. He slept in a back room, and was awakened between 2 and 3 o'clock by a noise. He got up and started to pass from his room door to the back passage, when he walked squarely into the arms of a big burly negro. The hall light was burning brightly, and the youth saw two negroes. One was at that moment trying the door to the dining room, and the other was in the act of re-entering Tommie's room, from which a trunk had already been taken. He raised an alarm, and the two negroes fled through the back door. The boy says that he got a good view of one of the negroes. He wore a white slouch hat, and was dressed in dark clothes. He could not describe the clothing of the other negro. One of the boarders up stairs leaned over the banisters and caught sight of one of the negroes running from the house.

When the inmates of the house were thoroughly aroused, an investigation was made, and it was found that the articles already mentioned were missing. One of the stolen trunks belonged to Engineer C. R. Fergus, and had been stolen from its place in the passage on the second floor, carried down a long flight of steps and out into the yard. It contained jewelry and clothes. This was the only loss sustained by Mrs. Bryan's boarders, though one of the up stairs rooms was entered. Miss Bryan's shoes were stolen from under the head of her bed. The clock was fringed around by bottles of all kinds, but was destructively lifted off without a single bottle being disturbed. Mrs. Bryan's loss is $300. Mr. Fergus lost about $75.

The burglars carried their booty out through Mrs. Bryan's back yard, and then rounded her house, coming out into her front yard. They placed their plunder over a dividing fence to gain the adjoining yard of Miss Alexander, trampling down a beautiful bed of hyacinths. Passing into Miss Alexander's back yard, the burglars entered her woodhouse and secured a pickaxe. They then went to her stable yard, and, with the pickaxe, broke open the locks of the trunks. It was the noise of breaking open the trunks that aroused Miss Sophia Alexander. Thinking that something was wrong, she raised a rear window and fired two pistol shots in the direction of the noise. The burglars secured their booty and escaped. Five policemen were soon on the scene. The two trunks, broken open and rifled of their contents, were found in Miss Alexander's stable yard. A shawl, a lot of collars and small articles that the thieves had dropped were found in different places. The clock had been carefully placed in the yard. The burglars had evidently not yet finished their work when the pistol shots put them to flight.

They evidently entered the house through the front door. When the inmates were aroused the doors communicating to the rooms, and the back door, were all ajar. Mrs. Bryan is a widow lady, who recently came here from Greensboro. The loss of the whole stock of clothing for herself and little ones is a serious blow to her.

TWO NEGROES IN THE HALL. Mr. Chas. Cauble, who rooms at Mr. Frank Snider's, was aroused at 3 o'clock this morning by hearing cautious footfalls in the hall, and springing up he opened his room door to find two big negro men in the hallway. He had no weapon and the negroes escaped.

The Chamber of Commerce. A very interesting meeting was held at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce last night. Mr. C. B. Lewis, the "M. Quad" of the Free Press, was present, and made a most entertaining talk to the large number of Charlotte's progressive men. He gave some good points on how to boom a town. Mr. Lewis' remarks upon the possibilities of the South were very encouraging. At the conclusion of Mr. Lewis' remarks, a discussion, participated in by several prominent gentlemen, was held as to the needs of Charlotte. Mr. E. K. P. Osborne wanted more manufacturing enterprises; Col. J. T. Anthony wanted more attention paid to side streets; Mr. Robert Haydn offered to give $100 as a starter for a fund to buy free sites for factories; Gen. Thomas F. Drayton spoke in favor of more manufacturing enterprises. Mr. Christian, of the Democrat, made an excellent and a most sensible talk. A good deal of time was consumed in these discussions.

The subject of securing the Richmond and Danville railroad shops was brought up, and a resolution offered by Mr. E. K. P. Osborne, that the city donate a free site of fifty acres for the shops and give $20,000 in cash to the company, was adopted.

A resolution of sympathy for the family of Gen. Jno. A. Young, whose serious illness was announced, was adopted on motion of Mr. M. C. Mayer.

The Marvel of Nations. Such is the title of a book of more than usual interest that is now being sold in this city and county. The way in which the subject is presented is new to nearly every one. That our great nation is the subject of prophecy is the aim of the book to establish. No fanciful theories are indulged in by the author. He proves his points by an appeal to logical principles and by competent testimony drawn from many sources. He shows that much of the prophecy has already been fulfilled and is now in process of fulfillment. He is a writer of more than ordinary ability, and has the happy faculty of making his subject plain to the common reader. The book in its last chapter deals with the National Reform Association, a large and powerful organization whose object is to ingrain upon the United States constitution religious test laws.
