LOCAL RIPPLES.

—Easter comes next Sunday.
 —The State Sunday School convention meets in Charlotte tomorrow.
 —The opening of spring bonnets and millinery takes place at Query's tomorrow.
 —"Running Wild," a first rate play, will be presented at the Charlotte opera house on the 11th.
 —Rev. A. G. McManaway will leave on the 2nd for New York, where he will embark in the Nebraska for Europe.
 —The board of aldermen met this afternoon, but no business of importance was transacted up to the time that THE NEWS went to press.
 —Half a dozen or more parties were arranged before the mayor this morning on charge of drunkenness. The fines amounted to about $20.
 —The reduced rates over the Richmond & Danville, for the New York Centennial, have been amended so as to read "for military in parties of 25 or more."
 —The board of county commissioners met in regular monthly session to-day, but the time was mainly occupied in examining bills against the county.

—The Central treated its guests yesterday and to-day on strawberries, snap beans, fresh tomatoes and green peas, the first of the season in Charlotte.
 —There will be a special meeting of Phalanx Lodge, No. 31, A. F. & A. M., tonight at the Masonic Temple. Brethren are requested to be promptly on hand at 7:30.
 —The Pigs in the Clover have got a firm grip on the town. Ross & Adams' second supply, ordered by telegraph, came in to-day. Everybody's running the pigs.

—The Sunday passenger train on the A., T. & O. Road has been discontinued. The conductor and crew leaving here on Saturday afternoon now have to lay over at Taylorsville until Monday morning.

—The young ladies and gentlemen, representing the musical talent of Concord, are getting up the cantata of Ruth, which they will present at an early day. They may expect a good audience from Charlotte.

—It was cloudy and rainy, but warm in Charlotte today. Up at Portland, Me., it was snowing, with the mercury as low as 28 degrees. It was cold in New York. Snow was also reported at points out west.

—Hon. Simon Wolf was tendered an informal reception by the Israelites of the city last night, at the hall of the I. O. B. B. Lodge. Mr. Wolf will lecture at the Y. M. C. A. hall to-night, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

—It is a show to see the tomato plants at Elmwood cemetery. Dr. Searr has 3,000 plants in pots, one plant to a pot, and they are sold at 30 cents per dozen. The fine chrysanthemum plants are sold at $1 per dozen. The proceeds of these sales go to the cemetery fund.

Death of Mrs. Harriet Shipp.

A telegram received in the city late Saturday afternoon announced the sudden death, at Lincoln, of Mrs. Harriet Shipp, the wife of Mr. Wm. Shipp, and aunt of Mr. Latta C. Johnston, of Charlotte. Mrs. Shipp died at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon from an attack of heart disease, and her death was a great shock to her relatives and friends, as she had been in apparently very good health. Mrs. Shipp was 59 years old. Her body was buried yesterday at Goshen church-yard.

Mrs. Shipp was the mother of Mr. Robert Shipp, and the sister of Col. Wm. Johnston, of Charlotte. She was one of a family of twelve children, who were all living up to twenty years ago. Her brother, Mr. Rufus M. Johnston, was the first member of the family to die, and since then all have departed except three—Mrs. Col. Rankin, Miss Mary E. Davidson and Col. Wm. Johnston.

THE FUNERAL OF GEN. YOUNG.

An Impressive Service at the First Presbyterian Church—The Body Interred in Elmwood and Followed to the Grave by a Great Throng.

The funeral services over the body of the late Gen. Jno. A. Young, were conducted from the First Presbyterian church, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, Rev. Dr. A. W. Miller officiating. It was a most impressive occasion, for the funeral was that of a man who had not only been prominent in the history of Charlotte, but who had for 33 years, honored the First Presbyterian church in his career as ruling elder. The interior of the church was tastefully decorated. Folds of black drapery were suspended from the great arch in rear of the pulpit, and folds of the same material were looped around the pulpit, and entwined around the pillars supporting the galleries. In front of the pulpit was a profusion of ferns and lilies arranged in a most attractive manner. The casket, covered with the purest white flowers, arranged around floral designs in the shape of crosses, crowns and anchors, was brought into the church by the pallbearers, Capt. A. G. Brenizer, Capt. John Wilkes, Dr. E. Nye Hutchison, Mr. James H. Carson, Mr. R. M. Miller, Sr., Mr. C. Scott, Mr. J. C. Burroughs and Col. J. E. Brown.

The services were opened with the singing of the hymn,

Rock of Ages, chelt for us.

After which the funeral discourse was delivered by Dr. Miller. The sermon, impressive in itself, was delivered in a feeling manner and the parting tribute of the pastor to one who had been for so long a time a devoted member and a useful officer of his church, was indeed a beautiful one. It was full of consolation to the bereaved, and was an inspiration for all to follow the example of the one who had just gone to his glorious home, and build wisely, as he had done, on a solid foundation. Dr. Miller's remarks were listened to with deep attention by one of the largest congregations ever assembled in the First church, the main body being filled and a large crowd in the galleries. Among the latter were a number of colored people. At the conclusion of the services at the church, the body was borne to Elmwood, where it was interred in the presence of a great throng of people who had gathered to pay their last respects to the honored dead. When the grave was filled, the newly made mound was completely hidden under a profusion of floral offerings, and nearly every one in the great crowd remained about until an opportunity offered to pass by the grave and get a view of it.

Sick at Huntersville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Reid, of Steel Creek township, passed through the city early this morning, on their way to Huntersville, in response to a telegram from Dr. H. J. Walker, summoning them to the bedside of their daughter, Miss M. Ellie Reid. Miss Reid is a teacher in the primary department of the Huntersville High School, and is seriously sick with erysipelas in her face. Information received from Miss Reid today is to the effect that she is much better and Dr. Walker thinks that she will soon be out of danger. Miss Reid has been connected with the Huntersville school for three years past, and is very popular with all connected with the school.

Death of a Prominent Baptist Divine.

Mr. J. K. Purfoy received a telegram Saturday announcing the death of his father, the Rev. Dr. J. S. Purfoy, at his home at Wake Forest College. Dr. Purfoy was more than eighty years of age, and more than half a century has been spent in active ministerial work. He has held many important places of trust in his church, and was one of the best known Baptist ministers in the State. In his South Wake Forest College home one of his warmest friends, whose place it will be hard to fill. He was buried at Wake Forest yesterday.

MRS. STONEWALL JACKSON.

Harrison and Wamamaker Offer Her a Postoffice, but She Declines.

An Associated Press dispatch sent out from Richmond last Friday has been published in some of the papers, stating that Mrs. Gen. Stonewall Jackson has been offered the position of postmistress at Lexington, Va. The dispatch says: "Recently the assurance was conveyed to the widow of Stonewall Jackson, at the request of one who represented that he spoke for the President and Postmaster General Wamamaker, that they desired her to accept an appointment as postmistress at Lexington, Va. Mrs. Jackson has not been a resident of Lexington for many years, and is now living in Lincoln county, N. C. Her reply to a friend, who wrote her that she was informed that she had only to signify her willingness to accept to receive the appointment, was that, while sensible of the kindness that prompted the move, she would be unable to give an affirmative answer, but, indeed, must positively decline."

Mrs. Jackson is at present at her father's home in Lincoln county. A News reporter to-day saw her son-in-law, Mr. Christian, editor of the Charlotte Democrat, in regard to the matter, and while not speaking positively, he thought that there was some foundation for the report as telegraphed to the papers from Richmond.

The Richmond papers intimate that Harrison is so anxious to honor Mrs. Jackson that she will probably be tendered the Richmond post office. The salary of this office is $10,000. If Mrs. Jackson is to have any office at all, that's the kind that should be given her.

Rev. J. Y. Fair.

A congregational meeting was held at the Second Presbyterian church last night, when the pastor, Rev. J. Y. Fair, formally requested his congregation to unite with him in requesting Presbytery to dissolve his pastoral relations. Mr. Fair made a brief but affecting address, in which he assured his congregation that he had prayerfully considered the call to Richmond, and found it his duty to accept. The congregation then joined with him in the request, though there were some members who attested their strong devotion to their pastor and their reluctance to lose him by remaining silent spectators.

Presbytery meets at Matthew's Station on April 10th, when action will be taken in the matter. Mr. Fair expects to leave for Richmond in May.

Matches on the Platform.

Recent events about the cotton platform have served to strengthen the suspicion that the late fires were of incendiary origin. Last Saturday a truck hand was rolling a bale of cotton along the platform, when he heard a sound like the popping of a percussion cap, and a bunch of cotton over which a truck wheel had rolled burst into flames. One tramp of the truckman's brogan mashed the fire out of existence. A match had been concealed in the cotton. The cotton platform men spent the greater part of Saturday in looking for matches, and found nearly a dozen heads. The match heads had been cut off and scattered along the platform in the route of the trucks. They were all little red-headed matches, and were too numerous to have been dropped by accident.

Delegates to the Sunday School Convention.

The delegates to the Sunday School convention are beginning to arrive. Rev. T. M. Listaker, of Wilkesboro, is at the Central, and Mrs. J. B. Pomeroy and Miss Ella Tate, of Graham, are at the Buford. A number of delegates will come in on the Carolina Central train at 9:30 o'clock tonight, and those to whose homes they have been assigned are expected to watch for them.
