Mrs. Ballew Dead.

Our community was much shocked this morning at the announcement of the death of Mrs. J. G. Ballew, which occurred at 2 o'clock last night. She had been in failing health for several years, suffering an attack of Grippe which was the immediate cause of her death. Her condition was not considered particularly serious until late Monday afternoon, when she began sinking and grew rapidly worse until her death. Her daughter-in-law, her husband and son Julius and Miss Fanny Jones a trained nurse were with her when the end came. No definite arrangements have been made for the funeral up to the time our forms close, as her daughter Miss Mattie May and son Gordon who are in Baltimore can not get here until to-day or to-night.

A Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

A crowd pressed after a runaway horse; horrified at the sight of breaking wood and dangling harness. The newspaper reported simply "A Runaway," and gave the details of the damage to life and limb. But a tradesman who sold "mail-order harness," along with pots and pans, and sundry other things, could have gone deeper. A flashy looking, but rotten harness, parted when the spirited animal scared at a passing engine.

The moral is plain--Always know the maker of your Harness.
