ELECTION RETURNS.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

Taft Elected by Safe Majority—Caldwell Republican by Small Margin.

The election returns up to 10 o'clock to-night indicate election of Judge Taft by safe majority.

Rowan and Cabarrus show much reduced Democratic majority.

The Republicans carry Caldwell by majorities ranging from 25 to 100.

It is impossible to give returns from all the precincts, but enough has been gotten to make the above statement practically correct.

The State is Democratic by reduced majorities and the 10th Congressional district is in doubt.

All friends of the Public School are cordially invited to attend this meeting, and the enemies will not be turned out. Remember Nov. 7, and bring your friend.

Respectfully,

Co. Supt.

children, or an first cousin to all the rulers of Europe. You never were higher in the world than are the things you can do, and doing any one thing well fits you for doing something "higher," which means something more delicate, complex, "refined."

Continue to let "pride" keep you from doing what you can do and you starve out what little "respect" the world or you now give for yourself. And not only that, but you effectually block your own way to better things and open wide the door which leads to every crime in the catalogue.

Point in the United States.

The United States Geological Survey has just completed a line of levels through Death Valley, California, and much to the surprise of every one familiar with the region has ascertained that the height of that area is not so great as supposed. The final computations of the results have not yet been made, but the preliminary figures give for the lowest point a depth of 276 feet below the sea level. Bennett's Well, which is at this point, is 266 feet below level. These figures may be altered by two or three feet when final computations are made, but they are probably not more than three feet in error.

The Geological Survey now has elevation marks on the highest and lowest points of dry land in the United States.

It is a strange coincidence that at two extremes are both in the Southern California, and only 75 miles apart. Mt. Whitney is a foot above 12,500 feet above sea level while Death Valley, as above mentioned, is 276 feet below. Before the California Sink, also in Southern California, was flooded by the Colorado River, it contained the lowest spot of dry land in the United States—a spot 287 feet below sea level.

Sweet Child's Inspiration.

It is read that in a town in California there is a beautiful statue, a statue of stone, of a young girl. One day a poor girl was passing by it. Her face was dirty, her hair untidy, and her clothes ragged. While she stood and gazed at the beautiful statue she seemed to think of something and quickly went away.

Next day she came back and stood there again, but her face was washed, and her hair was combed, and made as neat as the hair of the girl made of stone.

Then she noticed something else, and again she went away. Next day the people who watched for her saw her come again, and all her clothes were tidy; the rents were mended, and she looked quite a different girl as she stood and looked at the statue and smiled. The girl had seemed to her so beautiful she wanted to be like her.

It is far more beautiful to be like children of God, and this can be, for he has adopted us. Think what we must wash away, what bad things, dark things that stain, if we would be what He wants. What things have to be mended—bad habits, bad ways, bad faults of all kinds. It may be hard to get rid of some of these things, but, until we do, we cannot say that we are free, we cannot really be like sons of God. The Bishop of Springfield.

The Laguna Dam on the Colorado River, which the government is building to reclaim 30,000 acres of land for settlement, weighs 600,000 tons and rests on shifting sands. The engineers could not find a solid foundation.
