TUBERCULOSIS SUNDAY.

November 29 will be Tuberculosis Sunday in this State. On that day the ministers have been asked to preach sermons on the relation of the church to physical suffering and its consequences.

It is eminently fitting that the ministers should be called upon to take a lead in such work. They are generally among the best educated men in the community and are leaders in uplifting movements. They are naturally looked up to by the other people of the community and in this position they are able to do invaluable service in furthering the cause of prevention of disease. That the minister will gladly do this service there is no doubt; they are in many cases already doing work along this line. The true minister does not confine his activities to saving souls alone but to other good causes in the community and this work in question is one of the most vital in any community.

The State Board of Health is doing a great work in this cause. It has started others in the work and now a general movement toward prevention of such diseases is in force and is getting results and all the while gaining force.

It is being realized more and more that the good health of a community is one of its most valuable assets and is an asset which can be easily conserved. Many plans have been suggested and offered to aid this work of conservation and some of them are succeeding remarkably. There is probably no person who has not heard about the Red Cross Seals and understands what they are for. Every seal sold in this State helps some person afflicted with this dread disease and aids in the fight for prevention. Then we have the State Sanatorium for the treatment of people who have tuberculosis which is at present doing a great amount of good.

But a campaign in which everybody may help will do very much more than any of the above mentioned things and that is just what the last Sunday in this month has been set apart for and will observe all over the State if desired. We feel sure that calling the attention of our people to this cause will result in a material aid for the good work.

NEW INDUSTRY.

A recent dispatch says an American firm has, since the war, begun the manufacture of chemical porcelain and that present indications are that this firm has a splendid chance to secure and hold all of the American trade. Formerly all of this ware was imported from Germany and they had a monopoly in this country. It was thought there was no clay here adapted to this purpose but a clay has been found that gives results that are up to the standard and already a good business is being done.

There is no doubt but that there are plenty of cases just like this one. The Americans are inclined to buy rather than to go to the trouble to make what they need. If this war will free this country from its dependence on other countries it will be a great benefit to us. We ought to make all of our supplies in this country and if more Americans were like Edison we would already be making all of our supplies. Edison had been importing his carbonic acid but when this was stopped by the war he began to make his own acid at once and will continue to make it hereafter. This is a lesson for us and the sooner advantage is taken of it the better.

Columbia, South Carolina's Capital is in the throes of a movement of blue law enforcement. Last week people were so uncertain as to what they would be allowed to do on Sunday they even had extra meals cooked so the cooks would not have to work if the laws so said. And now a Greensboro paper blamed it on Presbyterians. The enforcement of laws is right, if they are not meant to be enforced they should not have been passed. When a law is passed its enforcement must necessarily follow.

MAKE A BANK DEPOSIT MONDAY

Next Monday, 16th, is the day set for the beginning of the new currency system inaugurated by the government through the regional banks. All sections of the country are looking forward to this to mark a relief in the financial depression that has existed since the European war scare came on and it gives a general impetus to increased business activity. A good way to celebrate the occasion would be for every one who has been hoarding money to loosen up on that day, take the money out of its hiding places and make a liberal deposit with his bank. Then if he owes any debts give the fellow he owes a draft for at least a part of it and let him also have something to deposit. It is time for everybody to have confidence now, and the best way to show it is to put money in circulation.

Wilmington is having its annual corn show with good exhibits and entries.

The visitors who will be here this week to the Farmers' Union will see and remember things in Greenville. How about putting the town in gala dress for the occasion. Put up "Welcome" banners, flags, bunting or any thing to decorate the town. These people come from all over the State and they will certainly report what they saw. Other cities have decorated for them and Greenville should do the same.

England reported two losses lately—the death of Lord Roberts, one of the greatest soldiers of the day, and the other the blowing up of the British dreadnaught, Andacious. Lord Roberts died of pneumonia and it is not known how the Andacious was lost.

That old gag about Friday the 13th being unlucky did not get in its work here last week. The entire day passed off without a break, in fact the celebration was highly successful.

Accounts of small children being burned are occurring with great frequency. A few dollars spent in the purchase of a fender will perhaps save the lives of your children.

Those people who voted against the amendments should now remember that by defeating the amendments they caused the State to have a bill of $50,000 for which there is nothing to show.

Estimates of this year's corn crop give it the figure of 2,635,702,000 bushels. This huge amount of corn makes us feel like there is no danger of a food famine in this country this year. Improved methods are responsible for this result.

The hunting fever has struck this part of the country. Everybody caters to the hunter, even the cartoonists are giving him attention. The usual hunting and fishing tales will start their rounds once the happy hunter gets in his work.

The idea of a public defender is gaining ground rapidly and if it continues there will soon be another officeholder to draw his pay. It will also deprive a lot of young lawyers of their appointment to defend criminals.

That rumor about the sinking of the North Carolina, which has at last been reported untrue, certainly created a lot of excitement.

Those who can take care of the visiting farmers next week are urgently requested to communicate with those in charge of the entertainment. A notice appears in another column.

"Watchful Waiting" seems to be the thing to do in the cotton situation. All of the plans suggested have about lost out but the price is rising.

If broad daylight were suddenly to dispel the darkness almost any night some people would certainly be caught in an awkward position which no amount of explanation would straighten out.

ACTIVE COTTON PICKER AT AGE OF NINETY-SIX

Mrs. Clemmie Allen of Pitt County, who unveiled the Confederate monument at Pitt county the other day on the court house square at Greenville, aided by her daughter, this fall picked the seed cotton from which a 550-pound bale was ginned. She is ninety-six years of age and is in fairly good health. She had the honor of unveiling the monument dedicated to the memory of the Confederate soldiers of Pitt county November 13, on the court house square at Greenville, N. C.

In a letter telling of Mrs. Allen's remarkable achievement Mr. J. H. Cobb of R. F. D. No. 1, Greenville says: "On November 12, 1914, I ginned a bale of cotton for a widow, Mrs. Clemmie Allen, that weighed 550 pounds, and which she and her daughter, M. S. Hart, picked from their field. Mrs. Allen is 96 years old and is in fairly good health. She had the honor of unveiling the monument dedicated to the memory of the Confederate soldiers of Pitt county November 13, on the court house square at Greenville, N. C."
