Early risers found frost in the city yesterday morning. In the country it was quite heavy.

The weather bureau telegram yesterday said: "Fair. Frost Tuesday morning. Slightly warmer Tuesday evening."

Music is delightful and all right when given in broken doses, but a little rest on "Sweet Marie" for the present is certainly in order.

At the request of Mr. Pou, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, Gen. Battle left on Sunday to canvass the first Congressional District, beginning in Pamlico on yesterday.

Quite a number took advantage of the low rates on account of Miss's circus to go to Wilmington yesterday. The circus shows in Goldsboro to-day and the A. & N. C. R. gives the low rates of $1.50 for the round trip.

In the item of the attempted assault in Pamlico county the name of the party spoken of in the last paragraph as having a bad character, should have been given as Stanley, who was the assailant in the case spoken of.

Hotel Albert had a new coach out yesterday. It was one, which, together with the harness and had just been purchased from Mr. J. W. Stewart. Two carriages were also among Mr. Stewart's sales yesterday.

There will be Republican speaking at the court house to-night by the county candidates. Those expected to make addresses are R. P. Williams, candidate for the Legislature; W. E. Clarke, for clerk of Superior court and Jos L. Hahn, for sheriff.

The room used by our Jewish citizens as a synagogue was broken into last night but nothing taken as far as known. It was a bold piece of work as it was done before eleven o'clock and the place is in the most public part of the city. Policeman Brinson was soon on the track to ferret out the offender.

A. R. Elliot is now the champion wing shot of the world. Saturday he defeated Dr. Carver by a score of 99 to 93 in the last of a series of three matches at Kansas city two of which were won by Elliot. In this series was done the most wonderful trap shooting ever witnessed, and the scores of both stand without a parallel in the records of trap shooting at live birds.

Prospective Barrel and Crate Factory

Mr. E. D. Hines, Portsmouth, Ohio, who has been in the city since Wednesday of last week left on the steamer Newberne for Elizabeth City.

Mr. Hines is prospecting with a view to locating in Eastern North Carolina for the purpose of manufacturing improved truck packages for everything grown. Among them is what he considers the best truck barrel made, and which he assures can, despite its high excellence, be sold for a lower price than the other barrels can be made for.

Mr. Hines is well pleased with New Berne. He visited THE JOURNAL office, gathered statistics from our files about the quantities and kinds of truck shipped from New Berne, mainly relying upon the paper read by Mr. T. A. Green before the Press Association last year. There, he satisfied himself as to the plentifulness of the wood needed in the manufacturing, and went as far as he wished at this time, except as to securing a location for the business.

If Mr. Hines comes he will have two other gentlemen interested with him. In our intercourse with him we found him a very clever and business like gentleman. He and the factory would prove quite a desirable acquisition to New Berne's population and enterprise.

Died.

MEETING OF UNION VETERANS.

Committee Appointed Preparatory to the Dedication of the Connecticut Monument at New Berne.

In response to a call in this morning's "JOURNAL" a meeting was held at the office of Major Palmer at 10 o'clock. The object was to make suitable arrangements for the reception and entertainment of such visitors from the north as are expected here on the 14th of next month, to unveil and dedicate a monument recently erected in the National Cemetery to the memory of the 15th Conn. This meeting was organized by calling Maj. W. L. Palmer to the chair and requesting Edward Bull to act as Secretary.

The Evangelistic Meetings.

Sunday morning the various churches of the city had its own service. Sunday night the most of them united with the meetings in the Presbyterian church.

In this church at the morning sermon Rev. C. G. Yardell, the pastor gave a forcible and touching sermon from the text it is finished.

In the afternoon, Evangelist Gales conducted a service for men only and gave a powerful discourse on the vices of strong drink licentiousness and profanity. He said away with the idea of one set of morals for the women and another for men. The world might spurn the woman and pat the prosperous scoundrel on the back with the apologetic remark, "Young Men must sow their wild oats," but a day of equal and just reckoning would come.

He showed that to compare one's life with the life of some professor of religion would not do, that if in the whole course of his life he had sworn one oath or committed one sin of any character the wages for that sin was death, no matter how the rest of the life before and after was lived, and must be paid either by the sinner or by Christ; that unless Christ was looked to for salvation the sinner must face God on his own merits and be lost.

Sunday night the church was crowded everywhere, and Mr. Gales after reading from the 1st chapter of Isaiah proceeded to give some of God's reasons why each one should be a Christian right then. One of these reasons was Christ's gracious invitation "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." Matt. 11:28.

Mr. Gales spoke practically and logically of the folly of not casting all burdens on the Lord—not only the great burdens but the small ones, the burdens of care and of sorrow as well as the burdens of sin.

Another reason was that the wages of sin is death. He portrayed strikingly how it was death to moral character, and how it was eternal death to the soul.

The evangelist by logic and illustrations showed that the rejectors of Christ were treating him as they would treat any other friend and he made a very earnest plea to all classes of the unsaved to come and accept salvation.

Monday morning at the men's meeting in the engine room, he talked feelingly from the text: "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

In the afternoon instead of having a Bible reading he addressed those present on "Self-consecration." Showing that they must first give themselves to the Lord and then give their substance.

At the night services Mr. Gales preached about the characters of Herod the King, who promised to do, but failed to perform. The rich young man who served the Lord in all but his attachment to riches; Agrippa, who was almost persuaded to be a Christian, and the Philippian jailer who cried out "What must I go to be saved?"

The meeting on Sunday and Monday resulted in fifteen more professions—seven on Sunday and eight last night.

There will be as usual Men's services in the New Berne Fire company room this morning at 10 a. m. and church services in the Presbyterian church at 8:30 and 7:30 p. m. and a cottage prayer meeting will be held at Maj. Dennis's, Mr. E. K. Bryan's and Mr. S. B. Ball's at 11 a. m.

Democratic Ex. Committee.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Onslow County at the office of the chairman, February, Oct. 19th at 11 o'clock. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will come before the meeting.
S. R. STRAZAR, Chairman.
J. W. RIDGEL, Sec'y.

CLUE TO THE TRAIN ROBBERS.

Developments Point to Carter as the Leader—Some False Trials—Pinker-ton Men on the Ground—Crutchfield's Description of the Looter.

From the Washington Post of yesterday we take the following which is the latest in reference to the immense and daring Virginia train robbery.

The theory of the authorities of Stafford county that the leader of the Aquia Creek train robbers was an ex-convict named George Carter was strengthened yesterday when it became known that Carter was in Alexandria last week. He is well known in that city, Policeman William E. Grady being among those who could identify him on sight. Carter was seen in Weadon Brothers' hardware and sporting goods store looking at some revolvers. The man who saw him did not remain to see whether Carter made a purchase and the proprietors did not know their customer. Carter's movements after he left the store are not known.

The Alexandria police think they have another clue to the robbers. When the 10:40 Richmond train reached there Saturday night three shabbily dressed men carrying bundles alighted, and going into an outbuilding, made an entire change of clothing, leaving behind them the suits they had taken off. This suspicious occurrence was reported at police headquarters about midnight, but the police were unable to trace the three men beyond where they were last seen by the depot employes.

George Turner who claimed that he was one of the robbers, and who was locked up at the First precinct police station turned out to be a robber in his imagination only. As stated in yesterday's Post, the police had very little faith in his assertions, but they concluded to hold him until he was sober enough to be questioned by the Adams Express people, and interviewed by Messenger Crutchfield.

After having disposed of the self-confessed train robber by changing the charge against him from suspicion to vagrancy, the Washington police yesterday ran another clue to earth. They got what was considered a good tip about a suspicious craft. She was boarded but was found to be deserted.

After a careful investigation of the neighborhood and after learning that the schooner had not left its moorings for weeks, the harbor boat steamed back to the city with its crew of robber-hunters, and landed them at the wharf, cold, hungry and tired.

DETECTIVES AT AQUIA CREEK.

It is understood that the task of running down the robbers has been given into the hands of the Philadelphia branch of the Adams Express company and that Pinkerton men are on the trail. A number of detectives reached Aquia Creek early yesterday morning, and started out for a complete search of the locality. Several New York Pinkerton men are also on the scene, and will work in conjunction with the Philadelphia detectives. J. O. A. Herring, general manager of the Adams Express company, visited Aquia Creek yesterday afternoon, and had a long talk with the officers.

Messenger Crutchfield, who was in Washington all day yesterday, gave the Pinkerton men a description of the robber who entered the express car. Crutchfield has a hard time keeping out of the way of the newspaper reporters. He is a Virginian, long and thin, and will quiet words about him. He is thirty-five years old and has been in the employ of the Adams Express company for a number of years. It is understood that Crutchfield has described the bandit who entered the car as a man about five feet nine inches tall, weighing about 170 pounds. He had a red handkerchief tied over his face from the eyes down, with the ends tucked in his vest. All of the other robbers had handkerchiefs over their entire faces, with holes for eyes and mouth. The robber had a slouch hat pulled down over his head so that the messenger could not see his hair. The man's hands were small and his clothing rough, but was not that of the tramp or cheap crook. His voice was deep, but he spoke rapidly and distinctly. He did not seem to be the leader of the gang or to pay any attention to anything except the taking of the money out of the safe.

He had a revolver in one hand, occasionally he shifted it to the other. When he wanted to cut the mail pouch he drew a knife from his trousers pocket, slipping the revolver for a moment into his coat pocket with the handle sticking out.

Crutchfield acknowledges that both he and the assistant messenger were so badly frightened that they could not have made much of an attack upon the bandit if at any time he had let himself unguarded. Besides, the door which had been shattered with dynamite was standing wide open, and a robber with a Winchester was standing there for the evident purpose of protecting the inside worker.

The man who did the talking on the

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

About three hundred million feet of lumber are cut annually in Alabama.

The stockholders of the News and Observer have decided to increase the capital stock to $300,000 and to put in two type setting machines.

In Dexter, Mo., it is against the law for boys under sixteen to be found on the streets after 9 o'clock. They are promptly locked up if caught and the morning a fine of $5 is imposed.

The church to which Brockbridge belonged has suspended him until February 1st. They accept his penitence as genuine, but say the great publicity of the sin demanded public notice. Brockbridge confessed his sin and asked the prayers and love of his brethren by leading a Christian life.

Everybody knows I am a Democrat, and I want to say here that the Alliance has nothing to say here. The Republican party. It has always been an ally of Wall street and English gold. I would like to see it smothered in the cesspool of corruption that not one bubble would rise to mark the spot where it lay.—Harry Skinner at Charlotte in 1892.
