Mr. T. A. Henry's store has been neatly fitted up with oak counters and shelves for his drug business, and is now putting in his show-cases and stock. He may open this week.

Mr. Benj. Higgins of Trenton, informs us that there have been several cases of hog and cattle stealing in that neighborhood lately. He himself has lost an ox. Mr. Sylvester Barber a cow or two and others hogs. Some were taken from the woods, others from fields. There is no proof on the thief yet, but it is hoped he will be detected.

The colored man who dresses almost exactly like a woman, calls himself Prince Couzi, and claims to be a native of Cape Colony, Africa, went from here to Kingston, yesterday. He and his mother have been around New Berne about a week accompanied by a young colored musician. The old apparel is doubtless simply to better catch attention, and cause thoughtless and credulous crowds to gather around them. His story is that he has been in this country since a child and is now seeking money for a collegiate education.

Music at the Chattawks. The fine Italian band will furnish music at Hotel Chattawks's 6 o'clock dinner to-day.

NORTH CAROLINA APPRECIATED.

A New Yorker Who Would Not Exchange His Home in This State for any Other Part of the Globe.

Reports from those who settle in any part of North Carolina, east or west, from the sea-coast to the mountains, indicate that no State is liked better than ours when its beauties, conditions and advantages become acquainted with. It is loved alike by the millionaire Vanderbilt and the sturdy yeoman. The Southern States magazine contains a letter which is another indication of this. It is written by W. H. Reaney who moved from Westboro, N. Y. to Cherryville, N. C., in 1881 and therefore has had ample time to become fully satisfied as to the country he has made his home. Hear what he says: "I have travelled in the West, but I would not exchange this portion of North Carolina for any other part of the globe. I live in full view of the Blue Ridge and the scenery surpasses any description that I can give. The climate is delightful, much warmer in winter and cooler in summer than New York. It is impossible for me to write all that I feel or to do justice to a description of our sunny Southern home and the warm-hearted friends we have found." The above is only a specimen of what can be found in almost every portion of the State. North Carolina offers splendid opportunities to those in quest of comfortable homes, and a hearty welcome always awaits good settlers.

MARRIED. On Wednesday, Dec. 12th, at Institute at the residence of J. M. Patrick, father of the bride, Mr. Dulus Dixon of Hookerton, to Miss Annie H. Patrick. The marriage was at 2:30 o'clock, P. M.; and directly after the ceremony the contracting parties, left for their future home in Greene county.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. J. M. Hines and Mrs. W. R. Barrington of New Berne.

Notice for Amendment of Charter. We hereby give notice that at the next session of the General Assembly of North Carolina application will be made to amend the charter of The Farmers and Merchants Bank of New Berne.

L. H. CUTLER, President. This Dec. 15, 1894. 30d

Notice of Charter. The Stinson Lumber Co., hereby gives notice that at the next session of the General Assembly of North Carolina application will be made for a charter for said company.

Z. R. FOLSOM, Manager. Dec. 15th, 1894. 30d

The North Carolinian brings out the fact that the recent conditional pardon of Lou Paris with the hope of her entire restoration was brought about by the Rescue Circle of King's Daughters of Raleigh who secured the place for the unfortunate girl in the Good Shepherd's Reformatory in Baltimore.

"NEW BERNE ON THE LIVE JUMP."

A HUNDRED BUILDINGS A YEAR.

Over 400 Erected in Four Years—25 of Them Brick Structures and 12 Iron—50 New Stores and Offices, 6 Warehouses and Manufactories, two Hotels, etc.—A Solid Growth to be Proud of.

LETTER FROM SAM SLOCUM.

EDITOR JOURNAL: Five years ago, when Sam Slocum first dropped down here among your people to attend the New Berne Fish and Oyster Fair, he did not look pretty. Sam remembered what New Berne had been before the war, when it held high social and commercial position, and it broke his heart to see the lackadaisical, shiftless way in which things were going on. He knew that there was the making of a beautiful and busy town right here, and he told the people that they ought to brace up and get a move on themselves. Some couldn't stand the pinch and wanted to run Sam off for speaking out plain. Others went to thinking, and they to night right much. Yes, indeed!

Now, when New Berne has come on to thinking, they are like old Sam Shingle in the play; they can't stop. Why, Mr. Man, your own townspeople don't half realize what they have accomplished within the last four years! Only yesterday Sam Slocum drove around town with the President of the Gas Works and counted every one of the new buildings which had been put up since four years ago, and all the houses that had been fresh painted. He counted every one that he didn't miss. There were so many that he had to figure them out to go around! You won't believe it your own selves unless you have an itemized statement, and here it is in summary:

Brick buildings 25
Iron clads 12
Wood buildings, all 100d, 267
Total erections 404
This is an average of over 100 buildings a year. Besides new structures, there were 276 houses fresh painted. In the language of the immortal Patrick Henry, what a flourishing city was there, my countrymen! Of these new buildings, 25 were new buildings, 60 were stores and offices, 6 warehouses and manufactories, two hotels, two livery stables, one church, one school house and one public hall. Included in the number are 48 stores which followed the fires at the Five Corners and the foot of Middle street, the depot, warehouse, round house and wharf of the W. N. & N. R. R., the depot of the A. & N. C. R. R., the freight sheds, wood, warehouse and office of the E. C. D. transportation line, the saw mill, office, and store of the Scheely Co., the Standard Oil Co. warehouse, the office of the City Water Works, the Fair Ground Buildings, the Hotel Chattawks and Hotel J. News, the Old Fellows Hall, the pump house and iron tower of the Water Works, Grady's addition to Iron Works and foundry, Mr. Reizenstein's very important addition, and the two stables of Stewart and Hahoe. The enumeration does not include the thirty-five poultry houses belonging to the Riverside Pet Stock and Poultry Farm.

Who will deny that New Berne on the live jump? While most localities in the State are at a stand-still or retrograding, New Berne is moving on. We challenge comparison with other cities, North, East or West. We are proud of our Fair Grounds, our Pet Stock and Poultry Farm, our gas works, our Hotel Chattawks, our artesian water, our Water Works and Sewers, our streets, sidewalks and shell rock boulevard, our livery stables and their stock, our cemetery addition and improvements—all accomplished within four years, and more a coming! Sam sniffs the odor of prosperity in the air. If our people are not quietly prospering, how can we explain the erection of no less than 33 handsome villa residences of which any city in the land might be proud? Indeed! Sam Slocum has come to stay. He has opened his shop and is now prepared to resume business at the old stand.

N. B. Warts removed from Otacities and pucker extracted from green persimmons at moderate cost. Also houses painted with neatness and dispatch and colors warranted to stick. No ker-sene. SAM SLOCUM.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

State Boards of Health.—House at Work.—Tammany and Hill.—Dr. Gleason Sues for Divorce.—Capt. Alexander Secures Favorable Report on Mint Park Bill.

The State Boards of Health which have been in session here this week at the Ed-ward House adjourned to-day. Dr. Thomas of Wilmington and Dr. Richard Lewis represented North Carolina. An able paper was read by Dr. Lewis. Dr. Thomas has gone to Baltimore.

The House has gone to work in dead earnest. Three appropriation bills have passed that body. Mr. Henderson says the Post-office bill is ready to report to the full committee. It has been drafted by Mr. Henderson.

A Tammany man in the city said to-day of Senator Hill: "They won't understand David for a while. They are always expecting him to do some 'bum' to hit somebody. Well, he won't do it. Somebody hits him. But he ain't asleep. Mr. Hill of Danbury is still at the bar. Only just now, he ain't looking for heads. But he will have his shabby in hand ready for use when he sees a head and don't like it."

Hon. Sid. Alexander has secured a favorable report on the Charlotte Mint Park Bill.

The question is asked who will be the speaker of the next house? Zeb Vance, Walter of Davidson county, will most probably be the man. He already has enough votes pledged to secure his election. He has served several terms and is bright and popular.
