WILL COTTON
Go HIGHER?

We have made a careful study of the past history and future prospects of the Cotton trade.

This has been a matter requiring a corps of experts whose reports from the belt bring us right up to date.

We are satisfied that the present price of Cotton is a false price and that it will change greatly in the near future.

This change in price means enormous profit to speculators who know which side of the market to choose.

We will furnish this valuable information free of cost.

Our large business has been built up by only trading when we have taken every precaution against failure and when we could not afford to lose a cent.

Our record of success is unbroken and we intend to keep it so.

To succeed through us does not require any knowledge of speculation or market conditions.

Accounts opened from $10 upwards. Details of methods and fees. References furnished.

"NEWS ADRIPT."

"Picked-Up" by The Journal Which is Always in "The Swim."

Rev. R. Honeycutt of Sampson, arrived to visit his brother-in-law Mr. W. B. Royal.

Mr. W. T. Mallory, of Durham, a military known as "Old Hank" is in the city in the interest of his cigar and cheroot factory.

We publish this morning masonic resolutions of respect to the memory of Mr. James H. Watson of Idalia who was recently murdered by J. F. Bergeron.

The railroad which a large oyster company is building, connecting Stone's Bay, New river, with the W. N. & N. Railroad, is progressing finely. It takes only a few miles of being complete.

Misses Edward Clark and Dan Roberts went up near Tuscarora yesterday hunting an ant as a result brought back forty partridges last night. A good day's sport.

Joseph Daniels who resigned as Chief Clerk of the Interior Department that he might be in direct charge of his paper, the News and Observer was immediately succeeded on the 23d, inst. by Capt. Arthur Barnes, Capt. Barnes has been for many years confidential secretary to Senator Ransom, and is said to be in every way fitted for the responsible position.

The following is found in the Washington news of the News and Observer. Dr. P. Babcock, formerly of Raleigh, who is here, tells me that he will leave next week for North Carolina where he will deliver lectures in the principal towns on "Hypnotism." He will deliver his first lecture in Elizabeth City.

The baptism of Mrs. Dupree took place yesterday at the foot of Broad street at the appointed hour by Rev. D. H. Brindley. A large concourse of people gathered on the banks of the river to witness the immersion. Mr. Brindley delivered a concise and forcible discourse from various bible quotations, the contents of which we will publish in to-morrow's issue.

Indignity to Ladies.

As Misses Ray and Lena Schultz were coming out of the opera house Wednesday night, some culpably careless or extremely mean individual spelt to acco juice over the valuable seal-skin caps of the former and over the cloak of the latter.

Miss Ray is rather inclined to believe it was done wantonly. We hope not, although such conduct is but enough viewed in any light.

Such an act whether proceeding from gross carelessness or willful rudeness deserves severe condemnation.

New River Fishing and Oystering.

Mr. Thos. McGee, bridge and wharf builder of the W. N. & N. R. R., who came up last night from New River, informs us that the fishing there now is quite good. He speaks of having seen fifteen thousand trout on one steamer and another boat yesterday.

Death of Mr. Bradford E. Gatlin.

Mr. Bradford E. Gatlin died yesterday morning January 24th at ten o'clock at his home in Stonewall, Pamlico county, of pneumonia, after an illness of only four days. The illness began Sunday morning.

Mr. Gatlin was a prosperous farmer and one of the best in Pamlico county, a devout Christian, a member of the Methodist church. He was in the 44th year of his age. His wife and five children survive him. He has two sisters in New Berne, Mrs. Wm. S. Gaskins and Mrs. Mary B. Gordon. They left upon receipt of the news of his death to attend his funeral.

Successful Hunting.

The Jacksonville Times gives the following hunting item.

Messrs. Raleigh, Ireland and Gillespie of New York have been spending so many days at their lodge on New River a few miles below this place. Thus far they have succeeded in killing six five ducks and large numbers of turkeys, ducks, etc.

Last Saturday they entertained Dr. R. Ward and Mr. W. B. Merrill. The Doctor had a fine chance at two hawks that stood within a few feet of him, he fully expected to kill them both, but guns snapped occasionally and that was the end of the occasion. We extend our sympathies, Doctor.

HEALTHFULNESS OF NEW BERNE.

Always Good—Exceptionally so at This Time.—A Health and Pleasure Resort.

New Berne has always been regarded as a remarkably healthy place and justly so, but for some time past we seem to have been specially blessed in this particular. There is, at the present time scarcely any sickness of any kind in the city. The doctors jokingly say it is "distressing healthy" that they never knew such a small amount of sickness.

New Berne is destined to increase in popularity as a health and pleasure resort especially in the winter season. Its delightful climate owing largely to its proximity to the gulf stream is a very large factor in causing this, and the good bathing, painting, sailing, etc., and near the city is also adding materially in bringing it about.

French Cafe.

Lunch Cafe, Middle street, next to Nunn & McSorley's Oysters, Hams, Entrees, Waffles, etc., served in best style and at all hours from 7 a. m. to 12 p. m. French Coffee, Tea, and Chocolate a specialty.

Families supplied and all orders promptly attended to. A. WARNER. j23 1m

The Lawson Power of Removal bill passed the New York Assembly without amendment, and goes to the Senate for concurrence. Under the Major law four months from January 1 to remove the heads of all New York city departments.

DROPPED DEAD WHILE HUNTING.

Mr. A. Baker of New Jersey Suddenly Expires Yesterday Near New Berne.

Mr. Adolphus A. Baker of Dover, New Jersey, went hunting yesterday over New river opposite New Berne leaving here about eleven o'clock with two youths, Sam Morgan and John Studly, about fourteen and fifteen years old.

Directly a ter reaching the other side, the older of the boys being still in the boat, and the other, Master Studly with the latter's rifle in his hands, and then fell helplessly forward, striking his face against a rock with such force as to cause blood to flow. He gave no signs of life and both the boys were so on at the side of their fallen companion.

They hurried him to a boat and tried to revive him by applications of water to his face but to no avail, and with difficulty they moved him to the boat and one supporting his head the other rowing they came back to the city so he could receive medical attention.

But nothing restorative could be done; it was but a lifeless body they brought back. The spirit had left its tenement of clay, and the preparation of the body for the tomb was the sad attention they require.

The relatives were taken to Mr. George Meppin, a friend of the deceased and step-father of Mr. Morgan who was with Mr. Baker when he expired, and there made ready for the grave.

The relatives of the deceased in Dover were telegraphed the sad news and the remains will be taken there for interment.

Mr. Baker was about 60 years of age. He has several grown children. Nearly a year ago he had an attack of pneumonia nearly a year ago, and his health has not been right since. He came to New Berne about three weeks ago to escape the rigors of the North Carolina climate, his sister and niece, Mrs. Emily Byram and her daughter, Miss Hattie, accompanying him to spend the remainder of the winter. At first they visited Mr. Moulton but had taken rooms at Mrs. Mary B. Gordon's and were living there.

The bereaved ones have the heartfelt sympathy of our people in their trouble.

HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS AMPLE.

For All Visitors to the East Carolina Fair—The Increase in Hotels and Boarding Houses During the Past Year.

Inquiry is sometimes made as to the Hotel accommodations for visitors to the East Carolina Fair. We can say with all confidence that they are ample. The city has met all demands of the kind in the past and is better able to do so this year than ever before, because, along with other improvements two hotels have been added during the past year. The Central Hotel, and the centrally located New-Sea, while Hotel Albert and the Fullerton House are among just the same as before.

Besides the hotels there are a large number of board ing houses. Their number likewise has increased during the year. And Lastly the citizens the day's stand ready on such occasions to cure for all that is needed.

Every year a canvass of the city is made and a list made up and printed of the places in the city that will take boarders, how many each place will accommodate, and at what price. These lists are distributed on the mails and can be obtained at the Fair grounds upon application to the Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Chas. Heizelein.

NEW BERNE SILVER CORNET BAND.

Now Hard at Work Practicing to Give Good Music at the Fair.

The New Berne Silver Cornet Band, Prof. A. W. Cook, leader, and W. B. Phillips, manager, has started out to hard work and is in a promising way to render good music during the Fair.

All the instruments have recently been sent off and put in first class order. These have always been very sweet toned—there are no better ones in the State.

The band is practicing on a good number of pieces, and they received a new supply last night. They may be expected to give good music, such as they should on such an occasion as the amount exhibition of the great East Carol Fair.

The people generally are glad to see the revival of interest on the part of the band, which at one time was given up to be the best in the State. A good band always in readiness is a great convenience—almost a necessity on many occasions, and the organization should meet with every encouragement possible.

BELLE BOYD'S LECTURE.

And the Added Attraction, the Appearance of Miss "Belle Swainston."

When Belle Boyd, the noted Confederate spy was here some months ago, her intensely interesting lecture was the only feature of the evening. This time, her two daughters Misses Belle and Beryl, Hammond will both be at the Opera House and the latter will sing and recite Belle Boyd, as our readers know is Mrs. Nat R. High, but for perfectly obvious reasons, to the world at large, she still remains "Belle Boyd" the name under which she achieves a fame by her dramatic and vaudeville services to the Confederacy.

For similar reasons, her daughter whose real name is Miss Beryl Swainston Hammond, has a special stage name, Miss "Belle Swainston," to identify herself with her mother's early days and war career.

Belle Boyd's narrative is a thrilling one and those who hear it will have not only a pleasant evening's enjoyment but will depart with a letter to the senses and incident and recollections of the war that they had before it. It is instructive as well as highly entertaining.

War on the Social Clubs in Roanoke.

Roanoke seems determined to rid herself of the social-club evil. The proprietors are being fined to such an extent in the police and hunting courts that most of the clubs have closed their doors.

In the hunting court on the 20th the Belmont Social club was fined $110 for selling liquor without a license and on Sunday, said Frederick Cooper, who is its proprietor, was fined an additional $120.

REMINISCENCES OF MANGUM.

THE GREAT NORTH CAROLINIAN Whose Biography Prof. Stephen B. Weeks is Now Preparing to Write—By Sheriff W. B. Lane, a Class-Mate of His Son.

Seeing in the News and Observer an article headed "A Forgotten Statesman," as applied to Wylie P. Mangum, brings to memory a very pleasant visit I made to his hospitable home in Orange county, soon after his retirement from the Senate and from public life.

I was at that time a student at South Lowell, then a flourishing school, situated eight or ten miles from the Senator's home. His only son, William Preston Mangum, was my room mate, and I was to be the most talented boy I ever knew and a born orator. But after I got his State he had down his young life with all its possibilities, at the first battle of Manassas, together with his Colonel, the gallant Fisher of the 6th N. C. regiment.

But to return to our school days, William Preston went home every Friday afternoon to remain until Monday morning and after frequent invitations from him and his very accomplished sister, Miss Hattie, I went out to go home with him one Friday and remain until the following Monday. The water I approached my destination, the more nervous I felt, for I was a young, unpolished boy, and I was going in the presence of the great Judge Mangum, of whose greatness I had heard so much, for indeed his own and the adjoining counties glorified him, and never believed that he ever had a peer as a statesman, orator or gentleman.

However, Miss Hattie and the genial old Judge soon dispersed all my nervousness with that tact that no one could not be assumed.

I have often thought since, how lonely the most have felt in this quiet country home after having spent nearly half a century in Washington society in companionship of the greatest men of America.

His portrait, painted when he was forty years old hung in the parlor and showed him to have been a very handsome man. On the wall opposite was a life size portrait of John Randolph, the great Virginia statesman, in a full cap and knee breeches, said to be an excellent likeness for anything but purposes of science.

The Judge was an admirable talker, and I had an opportunity to hear him for several days. He gave me a description of his first race for Congress, with Jacob C. Gentry, a Baptist preacher, as his opponent. He said that Mr. C. Gentry had all the distinguished men of America speak and vote for him, but never heard of an opponent equalled as an orator. He has more capacity than any man I ever met in debate, and unless on the stump and away from the manual. So great was his magnetism, with me he could have taken the crowd from me any time had he been so disposed. He always had an appointment ahead to preach Sunday, and the crowd which came out to hear him looked like a mass meeting. And such success I have never listened to before or since. I would be a lawyer by his side, his address in mind I would think "he is making hundreds of votes."

I do not remember that he told me what counties composed the Congressional district but I do remember the National politics, and I would ask him various questions that interested him and broke the tedium of his eloquence.

I do not remember that he told me what counties composed the Congressional district but I do remember the National politics, and I would ask him various questions that interested him and broke the tedium of his eloquence.

"We were approaching a territory strongly Democratic, and I knew that Cudapp was getting very tired of the canvass for he had lately married a beautiful wife and I knew he was more anxious to see her every day, so I said, "Cudapp, I am getting very tired of this canvass, let me draw up an agreement not to attend another public meeting or make another public speech until after the election."

Next day we were to speak at M. Lane's and I told my friends about the agreement made to withdraw, told them to appear quite indignant and say that I was putting my election in peril, and that that day I was very careful not to ask a single question to irritate him, and he was one of his happiest moods.

After dinner he came to me and said he had consented to accede to my proposition and that he would get Mr. Melane and give me the privilege of choosing some one and the two should draw up the agreement. I refused to sign it, he selected some one else and the agreement was drawn up. We signed it and returned to our homes to await the result of the election.

I remember correctly, Mangum's majority did not exceed a hundred, and he said if they had gone on through the campaign he (Mangum) would have been badly beaten.

(No returning boards in those good old days.)

I think like the people of Orange, that North Carol never produced a greater man than Fear-Bernston.

He was in the Senate with Clay, Caldwell and Webster, but no man of his day was his superior. An old gentleman once told me that for true native eloquence he had never heard his surpass and he had heard the great Henry Clay.

I have often heard the story of how the Judge was the cousin of his wife's father to marry her by his eloquence and with his narration I still close. She was a Miss Charity Cain, whose father was very wealthy, being a large real estate owner, and he was passing many negroes and colored to an alliance of his daughter with the rising young lawyer, whose principles and character was a brilliant intellect well cultivated.

However, on one occasion he defended a man on trial for his life and an old man present said that no such speech had ever been made in the old Hillsboro court house as young Mangum made that day.

The man was acquitted, and as he left the court house he was met at the door by Mr. Cain who told him that after hearing that speech he freely gave him his daughter's hand. W. B. L.

Ex-Secretary of War Atkins was on the 23d elected U. S. Senator for West Virginia, to succeed J. N. Cauden, the Democratic incumbent.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS.

Principal New Bills Introduced and Others that Passed—Still Pending Democrats.

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL. RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 24. In the Senate the principal new bills were as follows: To improve public roads of the State by convict labor, to prevent any such charter of insurance companies from doing business in this State, to award public printing and binding to the lowest bidder. Bills passed repealing the New Hanover stock law and incorporating the bank of E. Linton.

Petitions for the establishment of the State reformatory for youthful criminals were received by the House.

Principal new bills were: To equalize taxation, to encourage the study of Civil Government in public schools, to limit the punishment of petty larceny and to abolish days of grace.

There was three hours debate, quite heated on the Gravelly county contested election case. The Fusionists all voted to ratify Crows, Fusionist, while Democrats voted in favor of Lyon. For Crows, 25; for Lyon, 28. Crows was sworn in. He is the fourth Democrat elected in the House.

WHERE, ETC., AT MOORE'S EDG.

Just Finished by the W. N. & N. R. R. For the Use of its New River Steamer.

The wharf and warehouse which Mr. Thos. McGee, of the W. N. & N. R. R., has been at work upon at Moore's Landing, New river was finished yesterday. The wharf is a splendid sub-stantial one, 632 feet long, and the warehouse ample for every requirement.

It is for the use of the steamer Geo. M. Parley and is the one recently built at Marine's. The Parley, it will be remembered, is the serviceable freight and passenger steamer which belongs to and plies New river in connection with the railroad.

A Wonderful Marksman. Mr. J. W. Barrett, of Durham, N. C., representing manufacturers of the Burgess repeating shotgun, a distinguished member of the Gun Club, with his successful skill in shooting at clay pigeons on the grounds of the Great Hill in Durham, Washington, D. C., on the 18th inst.

One of his boys was backing live clay, all through the day, at one time he was throwing a clay into the air, turning a hand-spring, and hitting the mark from a distance of 100 feet, the clay being in the air for 10 seconds before it reached the mark. Among the boys who shot and hit the mark were: Wil. Star.

Evangelist, Person schooling from this meeting in the university chapel at Chapel Hill. Services will be held there about ten days.

Peter Jackson has accepted of the Marshall's challenge on condition that the fight will take place at the National Sporting Club, London, and the stake is £1,000 pounds a side.

Mr. M. B. Brown, of Washington, N. C., president of the King's Daughters of this State her home. The place is a handsome one. The Legislature is to be asked to appropriate $1,000 annually for the maintenance of a King Daughters' orphanage for tubercle children. O. Pass, there are 4,000.

The North Carolina Baptist sees that there is a healthy, strong rivalry between the Tabernacle Sunday school, Raleigh, and the Sunday school of the First Baptist church, Asheville. Each one has nearly 1,000 attendants and are pulling a race that match. The Tabernacle yet has the better.
