PRICE—FIVE CENTS

By people passing in and out, And ground to dust without a doubt, "Oh," smiled the toad, in all things pat, I never am afraid of that. Amid the city's whirl and din To purchase here but few pass in. The reason's plain, if you but think, This merchant slumbers printer's ink."

A WINE TOAD.
A knowing toad one summer's day
Unto a fly was heard to say:
"You're pretty sure to find me here
Before this stormy year is o'er."
"But," said the fly, "it seems to me
That you demolished soon will be."

Mr. Jas. A. Bryar's thousand pound Spanish jack is a noteworthy animal. Mr. L. M. Broome of Aurora also had a very good one on exhibition.

The first strawberries of the season were in market at Tampa, Fla., on Wednesday of last week. Two days later at Curritville, Ga., a bale of cotton was brought to market on a sleigh.

The salmon shown in the Fish building came from Chihuahua river, Oregon. For this exhibit the Fair is indebted to Mr. C. H. Cone, of the N. Y. Fish commission.

The Fair can be seen today at small cost. All school children will be admitted perfectly free. Adults can enter for only 25 cents.

K. yesterday and ready for another ascension and leap.

The consolation trotting race, purse $200, for horses which have not won first or second money in any race took place yesterday. C. J. Black, riding, owned by E. J. Willey, New York city, won first money. Donatien, Harklman & Willett, second, and Biandette, Almaraz farm, third.

The running race was won by Falconette, by J. P. Alexander, Richmond, Va., Myra B., by Billy J. W. Brinslaw, Lynchburg, Va., second.

NO ACCIDENTS YESTERDAY.

One Balloon Struck a Pole and tore When Inflated.—The Other Still Lost in the Woods.

The balloon was all inflated at the usual hour Friday and Miss Nolaa was getting ready for the start, when an accident happened, the first that has occurred since Pol. Hutton has had charge of the ascensions at the Fair. The wind blew the balloon sideways to such an extent as to cause it to strike a pole used in supporting the balloon as it being filled and such a rent was made that the balloon speedily collapsed.

The tear was so large that it could not be repaired in time to ascend and the other balloon which had been used the day before and which fell in the woods across Nense river had not been recovered, so the ascension could not take place.

The reason the accident occurred was that there were certain ropes on the missing balloon which belonged to be transferred from one balloon to the other were missing.

The Southern Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

From the Insurance Herald: "The Southern Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of Atlanta, Ga., has issued its semi-annual statement for the last six months of 1894.

It had $32,117,728 at risk, and the premiums were $148,087, while the losses amounted to only $10,133, or about .7 per cent. The interest account was $22,588, which was twice as much as the losses. Its total expenses of management (except taxes, $2,419) were $28,329, and during the term it paid back dividends to policy-holders of $102,732. Its assets are now $947,876, and surplus $689,116.

Results like these are responsible for other attempts, and the Southern Stock Mutual Insurance Company, of Greensboro, N. C., which is now being organized by wealthy and leading business men there, is intended to follow the plan of the Southern Mutual in North Carolina. It will have a capital of $100,000, subscribed by twenty men, whose aggregate wealth is $5,000,000. Ten per cent. of gross premiums will be set aside as a reserve, and the profits, if any, will be returned to policy-holders.

The company has been organized with J. M. Worth as president; E. P. Wharton, vice-president, and A. W. McAlister, secretary and treasurer.

The bank But-shin, at New York from Corv, reports as follows: On February 11, at 7 a. m., a slight wreck, but down upon her, and took off ten of the crew, including the captain and wife. It proved to be the schooner Florence J. Allen of Bath, Me. from Apalachicola, Fla., for Philadelphia.

IN THE FISH DEPARTMENT.

The Good Variety.—The New Features and the Taste Displayed in Everything.

The unusually bad weather which immediately preceded the Fair kept up to the time of its holding caused the display to be late in getting in and there was not as full a display of varieties as is usually shown, but the improvements that had been made and the special attention given cause this department, as a whole to be not one whit behind any previous exhibitions. Too much cannot be said of the ingenuity displayed in getting into the newly constructed pool, a scene so true to nature.

This was a cemented reservoir of the bottom of which had been covered with shells, coral &c., while water from the water works was flowing in and out, constantly maintaining its level and keeping it pure and clear so that a good view of the fish and terrapin swimming around in its Equid depths was easy to obtain. Electric lights in the water showed them up even more prettily at night than in the day time.

The borders of the pool were likewise covered with sand neatly lined with mosses, etc., giving it the appearance of a shore with several dead young alligators of different sizes ranging from a few inches up to about 3 feet in length, a bull-frog and a snake were in natural positions around, as were also a taxidermized eagle and white heron. Two fishermen, out-both ones of figures, were also seen on the land dragging their net. The whole picture in a picture that was a gem of its kind.

The glass tanks also showed off the fish in their perfect distinctness. These numerous and very beautiful specimens of gold and silver fish—many of them came from Washington City—and such fish as frequent the small streams, chubs, robins, red-fins, etc., in the larger size showed better than would have been thought. They swam around freely, seemed perfectly at home and attracted a great deal of attention.

In the room were kegs of corned fish, while on the tables were the fresh ones, and also crabs in variety, conchs, etc. Terrapins, oysters and clams in the places prepared for them, and a set of different kinds were also shown. The department, as it always does, sustained its reputation of being one of the most attractive and interesting in the whole Fair.

INDIVIDUAL EXHIBITORS.

Some of Those Who Have Specially Large or Good Exhibits at the Fair.

Quite a number of business houses are represented by exhibits at the Fair. Among the number the displays by the music houses of A. C. & Co., New Berne and Ames and Burke, Norfolk, occupy a prominent position. Mr. Cohn's price is his baby grand Mehlin piano which won a gold medal and diploma at the World's Fair. His symphony, an organ which gives forth its streams of melody from simply working the pedals and his fine Newby and Evans piano all attracted their due meed of attention and praise.

The Ames & Burke company have a very handsome piano and organ display with a number of attachments to the Ever-wood and oak and were of splendid tone. The hand-in attachment is a feature of a kind in instruments of any other make and which Messrs. Ames, Burke & Co. cannot execute only in North Carolina and several other States.

Miss Bethia Ward, the young lady musician who is with the exhibit is very clever in satisfying all inquiries of visitors and in performing very skillfully on the instruments.

J. W. Stewart makes a large and noticeable display, elegant riding vehicles on the grounds and of fine harness, robes, whips, etc., in the main building.

In the Machinery Hall are several very good displays by business houses. The Southside Manufacturing Company have samples of the carrying packages, they manufacture—truck boxes and baskets, a rolling truck barrel, fruit and berry crates, grape baskets and egg crates.

E. H. & J. A. Meadows, of New Berne make a large exhibit, shown in good shape. Samples of their fertilizers are shown in very large glass jars, seed for truck and field crops are in great variety. In their fertilizer exhibit may be seen their special gun for cotton, for cabbage, for potatoes and all crops; also dissolved lime and land plaster.

J. J. Dossway & Co. have an extraordinarily good exhibit of mill machinery—improved saws, belts, fittings and implements. It is not only a large and select display but it is arranged with pleasing effect.

L. H. Cutler has a large display of agricultural implement. Walter A. Wood's horse rakes, reapers and hay tedders and Ashton Clark's double cultivator, a grass sceder, spading and smoothing harrow and a Davis swinging chain in the lot.

The Willard Bag Manufacturing Co., have quite a variety of sacks, both cotton and tow.

The Gaskill's recently patented mattress stuffer, a New Berne invention is shown in a large model.

The New Berne Knitting Mill is represented not only by specimens of its hosiery, but by the machines and operatives actually at work making the hosiery.

In the fish department Mr. Geo. N. Ives has a large and comprehensive display from the streams and the sea.

We will notice other large exhibitors tomorrow.

A special dispatch to the Manufacturer's Record shows that the State of Mississippi has produced a surplus of corn and that for the first time in its history corn is being shipped to the West—Kansas City buyers now being in the field. The local price is reported to be 50c per bushel.

A London dispatch says with the close of business at the Stock Exchange on the 21, the United States loan was quoted at 5 1/4 premium. The purchases of the new loan have been chiefly for New York account, confirming the belief that nearly all the London scrip will go to the United States.

Oysters! Oysters! Oysters! 111 D. and E. Street has moved his restaurant to 140 Middle Street where he is ready to serve Oysters in all styles and meals at all hours to the Fair visitors and all other friends.

FAIR NOTES ON THE WING.

Picked Up and Tersely Told.

What is Thought, What Has Been Heard, and General Comment About the Grounds.

Yesterday was another beautiful day—not too cold nor too warm, not too damp nor too dry, but just right.

The attendance was probably larger for Friday, than on any previous day of the season.

The addition of the pool in the fish and game building is not only a new feature, but it has proven one of the prettiest and most attractive of any at the Fair.

Mr. J. T. James, editor of the Wilmington Review, speaks words of praise for our Fair, with special stress on the poultry display. It may not be modest in us Mr. James to second your statement but we will just the same.

"Thauma" is the greatest delusion we have yet had with us.

The restaurant on the grounds kept by our townsmen, Mr. Jay, Oeno, is a delightful retreat and well managed.

The merry-go-round has had its full share of patronage and does not fail to please the children, and some of the older ones too if to many of their recollections are not around for them to find an opportunity to "simply see how the things do ride."

All the adjoining counties are well represented in attendance considering the distance to be traveled over the heavy roads. Taking into consideration distance and the inconvenience of getting here, the fair in our county is well represented, with interest close on.

To view the culinary department is only to realize the wonderful ingenuity and taste that woman has. By no means is it an easy task to arrange the articles that compose this class so that they will show up prettily, but this time it has been done most admirably. Our ladies first, last and all the time.

No better move could have been made than that of placing the agricultural exhibits on such a high basis. It shows what our soil and enterprising plant is doing.

The stock exhibit registers well. There are a number of fine blooded animals.

The order on the grounds has been most excellent and the police force almost ever vig but to the duties as far as heart home.

The race track is pronounced by many as among the prettiest ever seen, but not large enough for very fast time.

Where are the fakes? Where are the quacks? and where are the general "hang around crowd" that usually fill up Fairs to practice their impositions on the public? Echo answers where, be it said to the credit of the Fair management this New Berne is a living example that Exhibitors can give and prosper without catering to the baser elements for support.

Too great praise cannot be bestowed upon the fish and game displays, especially when it is known under what difficulties fish and oysters could be procured through the cold spell. These smooth glass tanks is by no means the best ever seen before, with its greater variety of fishes and clear pure water from the city water works.

In the ladies' fancy work department are many articles made by little girls and young ladies that speak well for them. These beautiful specimens of handiwork is not only an honor to their skill and industry, but they are also doing their part in helping to keep the Fair up to its high standard of art in this line.

The home-made incubator at work with the newly hatched chickens running around gave all visitors a good opportunity of seeing how setting hens can be dispensed with.

Hunting Bros. open air trap performance twice a day between the races was a new and greatly appreciated feature. Instead of tiresome waiting it was a very agreeable change from one pleasure to another.

Chick's Company "gets there." It is a good show in itself and its change of programme is a big thing to its favor. The feats of skill and strength by the ladies are wonderful.

Dr. Allen scoops in the dimes at a lively rate. His King of the Fire enters is considerably above the general run of such performers, and the gun manipulators are dexterous in a marvellous degree.

Mr. Sapp, the ossified man is thought by some of the visitors to be the greatest living wonder they ever saw.

A poet appeared in the office of a Charleston paper the other day and presented this effusion: "Corn in the crib, fat on the ribs, Cotton alone, skin and bone." Though this production is not of a high standard, it was recognized as singularly good. The poem was accepted with thanks and given a place next day on the editorial page.

The appropriation for higher white education in North Carolina is $66,000, while the same appropriation in Virginia is $129,500, and $107,500 in South Carolina. Yet our University, State Normal and Industrial for women at Greensboro and A. & M. College at Raleigh will compare favorably with higher educational institutions in any State.

TEXTILE MFG. DEVELOPMENT.

The Progress it is Making in the South.—Specimens of N. C. Make at the Fair.—They Should Serve as an Incentive to Greater Progress.

At the Fair can be seen some pretty wool blankets and some other goods, cotton and woolen, of North Carolina make and there is a knitting factory at work on the grounds. There is no reason why our State should not manufacture all of this class of goods and the incentive that is given to increased effort along such lines is one of the good results that flow from such exhibitions as that now in progress.

Mr. Wm. C. Lovring, president of the Arkwright club, which represents all of the large New England textile manufacturers was invited some months ago, after returning from a visit of investigation to the South, to deliver an address before the New England Textile club on cotton manufacturing in the South. This address, which has never before been made public, was given out a few days ago and published in the Manufacturer's Record. In this address, which is a very full and comprehensive study of the whole subject, Mr. Lovring says:

"The time has passed when New England manufacturers need to give but little attention to cotton manufacture in the South. We have come to realize that the South has entered the race in earnest and to stay. Henceforth it must be the survival of the fittest. The old mills in the South, with their antiquated machinery, have been succeeded by first class mills with the best equipment, and we find mills in the South today that will compare favorably with our New England mills, built in every respect to do their work in the cheapest and most improved manner. While it has long been conceded that in certain lines of coarse goods the advantages are in favor of the South, northern manufacturers have comforted themselves with the statement that the manufacture of the finest goods could remain with them, and that the South could not make such goods. In this we are mistaken. There is an actual increase in the production of finer goods in the South, and where manufacturing is once firmly established, it is only a matter of a short time when the labor employed will improve in skill and adapt itself to the finer work. There seems to be no reason why as fine yarns may not be spun in the South as in any other section of our country."

The South is coming rapidly to the front as a manufacturing country; in cotton manufacturing it is developing faster than any other section and North Carolina is doing more along this particular line than any other section. Let the good work continue and manufacturing along some line or other will along as many lines as possible be developed in every community.
