LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS

Resolution on National Finances.
Penitentiary Directors -- Committee to Investigate Oyster Commission-- Other Matters.

Special to JOURNAL.
RALEIGH, N. C., March 13.--In the Senate to-day Mitchell and Farthing were appointed a committee to examine the books of the Auditor and Treasurer.

The bill passed final reading to allow divorce when either party absents from the State two years. The absent party is not to be allowed to re-marry again.

The bill to furnish 50 convicts 100 days to work on the farms of the Deaf Mute school at Morganton passed.

Nominations for penitentiary directors were made as follows: T. E. McCaskie, J. T. B. Hoover, J. E. Bryan, H. B. Parker, H. F. Wakefield, Meyer Halin, John E. Check, Henry Dockery, R. L. Herbert. These received 29 votes.

E. D. Stanford of Yadkin, received 26 votes as State Librarian. The tellers reported that Stanford had received in House and Senate 74 votes on joint ballot.

Lieut. Gov. Doughton declared there were not enough votes to make an election--86 being required.

The Tellers reported that nominees for the penitentiary directors had received on joint ballot 77 votes. Doughton declared not enough votes had been cast to make the election.

The House concurred in the senate amendments to divorce law, one amendment provides it shall not apply to any case which occurs after passage.

The point was made after vote for penitentiary trustees that there was no quorum. The speaker said report would simply speak for itself.

A resolution was adopted to raise a committee of three to investigate matters relative to the oyster commission.

Peebles introduced a resolution in favor of the free coinage of silver and of the repeal of the law against State banks and for this Hileman, populist, offered a substitute in favor of the issue of National currency by the government. French moved to table the whole matter and this prevailed.

NEWS ADRIFT
In the City of Elms and Vicinity, Gathered in and Briefly Told.

To-day is 33d anniversary of the battle of New Berne.

A postal from Gen'l C. A. Battle states that Mrs. Battle is better than when he arrived, but is still critically ill.

We publish this morning the thrilling narrative of the northern young lady, Miss Carrie E. Cutter, who is buried in the New Berne National cemetery. It was furnished by her brother, Dr. Cutter, who leaves to-day for Cuba.

The mill at Nelson's Ferry has started up again and Guy S. Lane, of Belair, has rented the store at that place and is putting in a full stock for the Spring trade. The popular salesman Geo. S. Witcox will attend to the store at the ferry.

The well known and popular lecturer Mr. Henry W. Blount editor of the Wilmington Mirror is to deliver a lecture at Jacksonville, April 1st, for the benefit of the Baptist church there, so we learn from the Times.

On Tuesday, the 8th inst., a medium sized bear was killed in the Methodist church yard at Little Swift creek. The dogs got after the bear in the swamp near by and the bear ran to the church yard, which is on the main road, and climbed one of the trees, and there Mr. Toler of the neighborhood shot him.

Coming and Going.
Messrs. P. H. LeTetier, W. D. McIver and O. H. Guion went to Jacksonville on professional business.

Mrs. E. B. Duffy left yesterday morning to visit her daughter Mrs. W. R. Coppedge, of Graham.

Mrs. W. D. Moore of Durham who has been visiting Mrs. James W. Birdie left to visit Mrs. H. A. London Jr., of Pittsboro.

Mrs. J. W. Goodwin and family of Philadelphia, arrived last night to visit her sister Mrs. L. E. Cleve and her mother Mrs. Dancy, at The Albion.

THE NEW ORLEANS RIOTS.

Four Men Killed--A Number Wounded.
Pursuer of an English Steamer Shot-- Action of British Consul and British Ambassador About It.

The riotous proceedings on the New Orleans levees between white and colored stevedores are again renewed. There were two conflicts on the 12th. Four negroes and one white man were killed. Not only rioters but several innocent persons suffered.

Gov. Foster has called out the militia and has also received a telegram from Secretary Gresham, the contents of which he will not yet make public. No arrests have been made.

In the fighting James Bane, pursuer of the British steamer Engineer, who was standing on the levee when the first attack was made received four wounds, three in the head and one in the arm. He is dangerously wounded.

SHOOTING OF THE ENGLISHMAN.
WASHINGTON, March 12.--Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, this evening received a telegram from the British Consul at New Orleans, informing him of the shooting during the riot this morning of Pursuer Bane, of the British steamer Engineer. The Consul added in his telegram that the city was in a terrible state of excitement, and the men of the Engineer were fearful that they might be attacked. He, therefore, earnestly requested that some action be taken to insure their safety.

Speaking of the matter, Sir Julian said: "You know the city of New Orleans is very much perturbed just now, but the Governor of the State, I am assured, is able to quell the disturbance. As soon as I received the telegram from Consul St. John I turned the matter over to the Secretary of State, and he informed me that he would communicate with the Governor of the State, so that the matter may be investigated."

Further than this Sir Julian refused to talk upon the matter.

OPENED IN HIS NEW STORE.
Mr. H. B. Duffy, one of New Berne's most successful merchants moves into larger and better place of business.

Mr. H. B. Duffy is now in his own store, 61 Pollock St., which has just been enlarged and remodelled and newly equipped to meet the requirements of his extensive and constantly increasing business.

His new stand is a two-story store of high pitch, ample width, 120 feet deep, well finished and newly fitted up with well planned shelves, excellent counters and every needed convenience, including a handsome office and fine burglar and fire proof safe to adapt it to the requirements of both his retail and wholesale trade. The lower floor is devoted to the former, the upper floor to the latter.

The store is so arranged that Mr. Duffy's stock shows to splendid advantage. Each part is finely adapted to the storage and display of the class of goods it is designed for and the light and ventilation in every portion is good--much better than in the majority of stores of its magnitude.

The millinery department has been placed conspicuously to the front, occupying one side for quite a good space. Three elegant upright cases for the millinery, the central one of oak, the other two of walnut occupy about thirty feet of the portion devoted to millinery. They and their contents will not fail to attract the attention of all who enter the store.

This department is presided over by the efficient lady milliner, Miss Mamie Dawson, who has thoroughly qualified herself for managing everything pertaining to it.

The store and stock throughout shows well in every particular.

Twelve years ago Mr. Duffy began business in the store now occupied by Mr. H. B. Hall, book-seller. When his increase of business demanded it, he moved into the one which he vacates for his present commodious one.

Mr. Duffy is one of New Berne's most careful and conservative business men, but he years ago reached a point where he did business on a large scale. He possesses an inherent tact for merchandising the trial could be seen manifesting itself in his even in his school-boy days and his after life has been only a history of sound and steady successes, due to his good judgment, industry and ever watchful attention to his business. We look to see the success which has always attended him heretofore follow him now in still larger measure.

THE HATTERAS LIGHTHOUSE.
Plans for the Work in an Advanced Stage of Preparation.

The Lighthouse Board is informed that the temporary structure at Diamond Shoals, North Carolina, withstood the recent stormy weather well, being but slightly damaged.

Superintendent of Construction Rettig, who made the examination, made soundings there and reports but little if any "scouring" in the sand about the structure, confirming the opinion heretofore held that the bottom is of sufficient firmness to erect upon it a lighthouse. The plans are in an advanced stage of preparation.

Hon. Wm. L. Wilson, Postmaster-General, has accepted an invitation to attend the University of Virginia alumni banquet which will be given in Richmond April 17th, and will respond to a toast.

Four Italian assassins who were coal miners, were shot on the 12th last by Colorado lynchers. They brutally murdered a deputy sheriff. They acknowledged their guilt and it was clearly proven besides at the inquest. At the close of the inquest the mob rushed for them and killed them with bullets before the sheriff and his assistants could raise a hand to protect them. A hundred or more Italians swore vengeance before morning. Both factions are arming themselves and a collision is expected at any moment.

THAT A. & N. C. R. R. AMENDMENT

And the Sensation William's Bold Speech Created.

He "Hit the Fusionists Right Between the Eyes"--A Copy of the Amendment, the Remarks and the Vote Upon It.

From the Wilmington Messenger's account of the proceedings of the Legislature on Wednesday in reference to the A. & N. C. R. R. charter we take the following:

The bill to amend the charter of the Atlantic and North Carolina railway came up. Its reading was demanded.

Mr. Smith, of Gates, offered amendments. He said this was simply a political movement, and the changes proposed in the bill were made simply to give places to political favorites. The bill left the private stockholders without any protection at all, but put all the power in the hands of one man, who is even given power to sell the road. He urged the opposition to look on the matter in a business light and put themselves clear of caucus influences.

Mr. Ray said this Legislature has exhausted all the means known to men to fill offices and to create new offices, for the greedy seekers after them. But so far nothing had been done by them above the dignity of a slight of hand performance. This was the crowning act of folly. It would involve the State in a long law suit, and thousands of dollars. The charter cannot be changed. The courts say so.

The following are Mr. Smith's amendments: "Provided that no sale nor lease nor other disposition of said railway shall be consummated without the concurrence of at least nine-tenths of the entire stock of said railway company."

To make the following section 3 of the bill:

"That the directors on behalf of the State in said company as successors to the present State directors in said company shall be elected by the Legislature in like manner as said State proxy and the directors on behalf of the State elected by this Legislature shall hold office from the date of their election until their successors are duly elected or be appointed as below prescribed, and the commission of each director on the part of the State elected by this or any succeeding Legislature shall be in the same form as that hereinafter prescribed for the commission of said State proxy. In case of a vacancy caused by death or otherwise, in the office of director on the part of the State, said State proxy is hereby authorized to and directed to fill the vacancy."

Mr. French said that the fusionists had consulted counsel, and were assured that the bill is constitutional. He called on his side to vote down all amendments.

Mr. Williams of Craven, moved to table Mr. Smith's amendments, saying that it was the result of the bill, that it was an attempt to steal the property and that as this was to be made he wanted to know who the thieves were. He said he was a Republican, but would not submit to seeing the private stockholders swindled. He said that there was a ring in this business and that he had ready an amendment requiring the State proxy to give bond in double the value of the private stock. He said the bill now requires no bond, but simply puts the whole business in the hands of one man.

Mr. Williams' bold speech caused a sensation and hit the bold-faced fusionists right between the eyes.

Several Democratic members explained their votes on the motion to table and poured hot shot into the fusionists, whose professions of reform were ridiculed.

Mr. Smith of Stanley said the day of reckoning would come.

Young, of Wake, voted aye, with Mr. Williams, saying as did others, that Craven had a larger private interest in this road and hence that Mr. Williams' wishes were worthy of the consideration.

The vote was--ayes, 31; noes, 48. So the bill was not tabled.

Mr. French at once called the previous question and the amendment of Mr. Smith were voted down.

Mr. Williams' amendments were read and Mr. French tried to crowd them out, but Speaker Walser said Mr. Williams had sent them to him last night. These were just the same as those of Mr. Smith, of Gates.

Mr. Ray demanded the yeas and nays and the amendments were read.

The yeas and nays were taken, and the amendments had merit in them. The bill came up on second reading. The vote was--ayes, 47; noes, 17.

Mr. Ray after this result was announced demanded a recount.

Speaker Walser said that he wanted to protect the clerk.

Mr. Ray said that he had as high regard for the clerk as the Speaker had. He said there were errors. He was put down as voting where he had not voted.

MISS CARRIE E. CUTTER.

A Young Northern Heroine.
Buried in the New Berne National Cemetery--The Only Lady Whom the United States Has Furnished with a Soldier's Headstone.

EDITOR JOURNAL.--Having arrived in town for the purpose of visiting the National Cemetery here located, my attention was called to certain statements in the "New Berne City Directory, 1893," concerning my late sister, Miss Carrie E. Cutter, nurse, 21st Regt. Mass. Vols.

Miss Carrie E. Cutter, daughter of Surgeon Calvin Cutter, author of Cutter's School Physiologies, was born in New Hampshure, July 28th, 1843. She was educated at Prof. Russell's Private Seminary at Lancaster, Mass., at Mount Holyoke Female Seminary, Mass., and at a Private German School in Pennsylvania. In April, 1861, she was on the eve of her departure for three years' tour and study in Europe when the outbreak of the civil war wrecked her plans. The writer's most vivid remembrance of her was, as she distributed New Testament to the volunteers drawn up on the railway platform of his native town on the morning of their departure for camp. She was thin, well formed, fine featured with grey eyes and light-brown hair. A few weeks later her father was commissioned as Surgeon of the 21st Regt. Mass. Vols., going into camp in July, 1861.

In the month of October, 1861, at her earnest, repeated requests she was permitted to join her father in camp at the Naval Academy, Annapolis. When the Burnside Expedition was ready to start, her father's only companion, Mrs. Stanley, decided not to go forward. Miss Carrie was permitted to proceed with the officers of the 21st Regt., on the S. S. "Northamer." She witnessed the horrors of those severe wintry gales of Hatteras where so many found watery graves.

During the action at Roanoke Island, Feb. 8th, she was on board the "Northamer" caring for a dying soldier a man who enlisted from her home town, Charles Plummer Todd. This soldier had lived in my father's family from 1840 to the time of his enlistment in the 21st Regt. in July, 1861. Todd's fiancée lived in Kansas. My mother has often told me that my sister was never engaged to Plummer Todd. The romance about Charles E. Colledge, as given in the New Berne City Directory, has no foundation in fact. Plummer Todd died and was buried at Annapolis Harbor. My sister was unable to be present at the interment.

After the action at Roanoke Island, Miss Carrie went ashore and labored untiringly in the care of the sick and the wounded. Being able to use the German language she had special charge of three young Germans, who in their delirium had forgotten the English language. As the result of her exertions, her privations and the climate of Hatteras, she was indisposed when she sailed on the "Northamer" for the month of the New Berne. While the battle of New Berne was being fought she was on an adjoining steamer. Her father was unable to reach her until the 19th. When he hoped to recover she was buried in the National Cemetery at New Berne. Her name is inscribed in enduring bronze on the soldier's monument erected in her home town, Warren, Massachusetts. The United States has furnished her with a soldier's headstone--this being the only instance in which it has been given.

PRESENT WORK ON THE FARMS.
The Crops Just Planted and Condition of the Growing Ones--Up with the Season but Behind the Calendar.

The trucking and general interests surrounding New Berne are of such importance that crop prospects never fail to be an interesting topic. Mr. Daniel Lane in the following article furnished the JOURNAL gives a fair idea of the condition now existing. He says:

"The past two weeks have been filled with busy work putting in the potato crop, sowing oats, &c. We hear of a few rotting that were planted on ground too wet, or put too much in contact with the fertilizer in the drill.

It takes a large amount of fertilizer directed by a great amount of brain to plan, and secure a remunerative truck crop every year, but it can be done.

"Cabbages have died in some places very much, a sample of dead plants has been sent to the Experiment station at Raleigh to learn the cause and remedy if possible, and when we know what it is we will let all who are concerned know.

"Some say here it was cold that killed the cabbage plants, but in some places this is not the case we know, for in one patch of cabbage that followed peas and cress very few died, while another not far from it, which followed fall potatoes, died badly, though the latter was better protected than the former from cold.

"Peas are coming up, and those planted two weeks ago are nearly even with those planted two months ago, some have rotted in the ground.

"If protracted rains do not hinder plowing from now on, perhaps the farmers about here, are about up with the seasons, if behind the calendar."

President Dole has slightly modified the sentence of ex-Queen Lat, of Hawaii, by remitting the hard labor feature of it. Her sentence is for five years and she will for the present be confined in the Executive building. Lately active native royalists having been defeated in restoring the monarchy are now seeking the annexation of Hawaii to the United States. They have formed a league for the purpose and the movement is gaining considerable strength.
