NEWS ADVERT.

In the City of Elmsland Vicinity. Gathered in and Briefly Noted. Winter has gone; spring Marches in today.

The delinquent tax list is to be published at once; those who have not yet settled can avoid having their names in the list by settling tomorrow.

The weather bureau telegram of yesterday morning reads: Unsettled weather with rain cooler tonight and Sunday.

We publish this morning, on the second page, very strong resolutions commending Judge J. B. Bryan as a presiding officer, which were passed in Union county.

Wilmington had an enthusiastic meeting Friday night and steps were taken to organize a Fair Association. A petition was filed for a charter and a subscription committee appointed to call on the citizens.

Mr. L. B. Williams, of New York, who has been attending the Fair, remains for a while at the Albert. He spent some time in the city three years ago and is most pleasantly remembered by many of our citizens.

Mr. James F. Taylor has at his place of business a remarkable ocean curiosity, an oyster growing out of an ordinary beer bottle. The ligged point of the oyster is inside of the mouth of the bottle—grows fast there, while the body is outside. The oyster is about five inches in size. Capt. Caleb Piner of Straits was the finder of the curiosity. He brought it up and gave it to Mr. Taylor.

NEWS ADVERT.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Rosenthal of Raleigh are spending a few days in the city visiting at Mr. E. W. Rosenthal's.

Miss Mary Manty left for Baltimore to visit her sister, Mrs. Wheeler.

Mrs. G. L. Wadsworth left to spend a few weeks visiting relatives in Durham.

Mr. Howard Styron is back from Morehead City.

Miss Bernice Wooten of Kinston who has been visiting Miss Maud Kinsy, left, returning home.

Mr. S. L. Adams is in the city representing the North Carolina Christian Advocate.

Judge H. R. Bryan left for Albemarle County, to hold Superior court.

Mrs. W. O. Williams and Mrs. T. G. Terrell, visitors to the Fair, left returning to their homes at Portsmouth.

Misses Menzie and Whornetta Baxter, of Snowsboro, who spent the week in the city visiting the Fair, returned to their home.

Mr. S. Browne Shepherd, of the University, is visiting his fraternity mate, Mr. John Stany Thomas.

NEWS ADVERT.

The ninth North Carolina Fair is over, the exhibitors the association has ever held.

King Sabra and Delno Fritz, the two interesting sword swallowers who were at the Fair have each been in that business over a dozen years, but they never met before they got together at our Fair last week. One was with the Clark company; the other with Frank Robbins.

There were incursions at the Fair that measured twenty-nine inches circumference.

The lady who work with her feet was considered one of the greatest wonders over at the Fair grounds. She could open a punkie and use it, thread a needle, sew and do almost any similar work as deftly with her toes as the average lady can with her hands.

NEWS ADVERT.

About twenty young girls entered the biscuit cooking contest at the store of the Sloyer Hardware Co. Saturday afternoon, the prize being the Buck's, Jr., range, a range for children, made of the best material and identical in every way with the regular sized range, a prize well worth striving for.

The biscuit were made and baked by the contestants. The decision was rendered by the judges in such a way that it was not to be perfectly impartial, because none of them knew whose biscuit they were passing judgment upon.

The committee consisted of Mrs. Reizenstein, Mrs. Cutler and Mrs. A. H. Powell. They awarded the prize to Miss Elizabeth Clarke, the eight year daughter of Mr. W. B. Clarke.

NEWS ADVERT.

Mr. J. B. Pioda, minister plenipotentiary from the Swiss Confederation to the United States of America who brought the elegant Bernese flag presented by the city of Bern, Switzerland, to our city, his daughter and name-sake, left Saturday, returning to Washington, D. C.

Many of our citizens had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Pioda while he was in the city. He is a most clever gentleman and we are pleased to learn from him that his visit throughout was a most delightful one to him.

NEWS ADVERT.

Many of our citizens, both ladies and gentlemen, called at the City Hall and viewed the elegant flag presented through Mr. Pioda from Bern to our city.

It has been decided to put the flag in a glass case specially prepared for it so that it will be carefully preserved and yet be viewed by those who visit the City Hall. It is a splendid idea, and our citizens will be delighted at seeing it carried out.

THE SPEECHES DELIVERED

At the Flag Presentation.

The Welcome to Mr. Pioda—His Response and the Mayor's Address—The Acceptance of the Flag.

(CONCLUDED)

Such were the words of the great-hearted father of this great country to his fellow-citizens in his farewell address:

"Observe good faith and justice towards all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all. Religion and morality enjoin this conduct; and it is the duty of every citizen to observe it. It will be worthy of a free, enlightened, and, at no distant period, a great nation, (he has been a good patriot) to give to mankind the magnanimous and noble example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence. Who can doubt, that in the course of time and things, the truths of such a plan would be recognized by every temperate and just people, which might be lost by a steady and unflinching policy does not usually obtain. THE SPEECHES DELIVERED

Noble Old City beyond the seas, surrounded by the Jura and the Alps! Thou banner the greetings which thy daughter brought to thee on thy seven hundredth birthday and the homage she rendered to thee in assuming thy colors and symbol.

Noble City, thou mayest be trustful: Thy banner is well kept and well preserved in the country where Washington's noble words are still living—words which are in harmony with thy endeavors.

Citizenry of New Berne. When the Bernese Christian Delegation, founded by your city, it was standing here as a dangerous out-post of civilization at a time when savages still held possession of the country. Your ancestors contributed to make this beautiful and great country habitable, and then you, you will be loyal to this banner if you, mindful of its and of your origin, shall keep awake the love of liberty and justice which is common to the City of Bern and to the City of New Berne, and to the country which Washington founded and which Lincoln enabled and preserved.

Mr. Mayor, citizens of New Berne: Let this banner fly under the shadow of the star spangled banner; both lead to the peaceful struggle for the welfare of mankind.

THE SPEECHES DELIVERED

In the early dawn of the 1st of March we learn through the press that there only existed in the world of the Neuse and Trent, the primitive forest inhabited by the Indians. The immigrants were exploring through this section and a small colony was located on the South bank of the Trent river about two miles from its mouth. These were Huguenots, and they spread out into what is now Onslow, Jones and Carter counties.

In far away Switzerland, there were at this time serious problems for its men of state to solve. Many were the refugees who had sought their friendly and kind protection from the hated tyranny that goaded them on to desperation, and made them leave their native land and country to seek this land of love and freedom.

The limit had been reached. The homes of Switzerland were full to overflowing; and now for relief. The fame of the New World had reached the ears of the people of the old world and many had reached in safety this haven of retreat, where they could draw in the full inspiration of love and liberty. To the relief of Switzerland then came America, and one of her noblest sons, Christopher Emmanuel DeGraffenried, came to the rescue. Leaving his home in Basel, and for England and purchased a large tract of land from the Lord's Proprietors of Carolina.

In October 1700 DeGraffenried entered into a contract with the Lord's Proprietors and sent out six hundred and fifty (650) palatine for America. These were all well provided for, both for their voyage and their stay in their new homes.

But in the storms of the sea the tolling bell of disaster rang, and those who had not died on the voyage were almost in destitution and want when they reached their destination.

DeGraffenried could not accompany this colony, so he appointed three directors, notable from North Carolina, one of whom is now Lawson, Surveyor General. They landed in Virginia and traveled by land to Col. Pollock's in Albemarle on the Chowan, thence across the sound to Bath, and thence on to the Neuse, where Lawson located them on his own lands across the Trent, and sold them a tongue of land between the Neuse and Trent rivers, which was called "Chattawka," which was then held and occupied by the Indians.

In 1710 DeGraffenried joined the Swiss colony at New Castle, England, and after a happy voyage, they were safely landed in Virginia, and the DeGraffenrieds, finally reaching the Neuse, where a sad state of things, sickness, want and desperation greeted him. His life was in danger, but with the greatest possible judgment and with his part in the work he began with all his might and main to set things right. In which, according to his own words, he most admirably succeeded, for he tells us "eighteen months they managed to build houses and make themselves comfortable. By the time the more progress in that length of time than the English inhabitants of several years." DeGraffenried bought the tongue of land from the Indian King, Taylor, and thus it was that this City was founded and named New Berne in honor of the birthplace of its founder, DeGraffenried.

With grateful hearts and thanksgivings to God, these true and best people went about their work with a genuine and perseverant and enjoyed peace and plenty as their reward. But who can divine the future? In September 1711, taking fifteen days provision, two negroes to row—and for safety, two well known Indians, DeGraffenried started with Lawson up Neuse River for general exploration. No danger was apprehended, for no savages lived on the banks of the Neuse. The Indian, who had ridden the Baron's horse was captured and when questioned by the Indians, they became afraid. Taking the horse from him and bale him away DeGraffenried not to proceed further. It was late when this sad news was received, and they stopped over night near a spring where the party was captured and hastened through the woods until they reached King Hencock's village where forty elders and the King around a big fire and all sitting on the ground, entered into solemn council. Here they explained of abuses by the whites and especially of the surveyor General. However, after a vote, DeGraffenried and party were to be liberated on the morrow. In the mean time other of the Indians arrived, and Lawson became involved in a quarrel with one of these and the whole party was condemned to death, but before this punishment was inflicted, another council was held and DeGraffenried had implored an Indian who was dressed like a Christian and could speak English to intercede for him, which he did with such success that DeGraffenried was released after about six weeks imprisonment. Lawson was executed. During this time the Indians had pillaged all and killed many of the people who lived in New Berne, but at last a treaty was entered into, and DeGraffenried was furnished a horse and instructed to ride at all speed for two hours, which he did and kept on with all the speed his horse could make for two days, and when he arrived at his strong house, the people did not recognize him. So it was that the once bright and happy sky was darkened by the war cloud of the Indians, and the once happy and prosperous people were engulfed by their savage enemies and but a handful was left.

But peace and prosperity once more perched her banner upon this people and New Berne grew. In 1713 De Graffenried having lost his fortune, left the land which once promised to be such a haven to him and once more made his way to the land of his birth.

And so it is that tonight, we have come again to celebrate the three hundred and thirty first of our native City, and when we look back through the long years that are passed, and are reminded of the many important events that have taken place in our midst, we can assure you, Sir, that your capital City need never bow her head in shame that we claim her name as our name. The same love for liberty that dwell in the hearts of your countrymen while in the land of their birth, did not lessen on American soil. But with the land, the waters, the flowers, the forests and all nature proclaiming the free birthright of man, that love for liberty grew and expanded until at last with mighty power it burst forth and tore asunder the yoke of oppression and proclaimed themselves free men.

Such are the facts briefly told, and now Sir, as we have gathered tonight to acknowledge with grateful hearts one more act of friendship and love upon the part of your people, we beg to assure you that there will be no brighter page in our history or sweeter thought in our memory, than the remembrance of this night. To your country we are indebted for that gem of liberty loving principle that has been brought to its full fruition here. To you we are indebted for the new friendship.

And now, Mr. Minister having been requested to receive from you this "Flag" made by your people, given by your people and delivered in our name by you, the Honorable Representative of your people, I beg in the name of my people to accept it with a grateful heart, full of love and friendship for you and your people. Your colors are our colors. May they ever wave over a God-fearing and liberty loving people. I beg Sir, to assure you that the safe keeping of this emblem of a mother's love will ever be a sacred duty of our people, no danger, or peril shall be so great but that they shall be brave to keep the spoliators hands and the dust stain from this banner, that shall proudly fly from the mast head of our honor and our hearts. In our success it shall always be in the fore-front, in our defeat it shall not be allowed to trail in the dust so long as manhood can prevent it. Tell your people for us, that the patriotism, the civility, and the manhood of New Berne is pledged that your Flag and our Flag shall side by side with Old Glory, wave over the land of the free and the home of the brave."

W. H. & L. S. Tucker's Fine Display.

One of the best business exhibits at the Fair was that of the widely known firm of W. H. & L. S. Tucker, Raleigh. They occupied one entire end of one of the large rooms of the main building and made an elegant display.

The railing in front of their space was decorated with the colors of Bern and New Berne—black and red.

The walls were covered with handsome lines of German and eastern rug, &c., shown at the World's Fair.

They exhibited also Arabian carpets, portiere curtains, beautiful and stylish imported cabinets, desks and fancy pieces of parlor furniture.

Also a beautiful line of pottery showing pretty pieces of delft, royal Worcester, jardinières, &c., in vases, plaques, &c.

They also showed a nice line of ladies and gentlemen's bicyclic suits and sweaters.

There was a French organdie dress displayed on a very pretty and life like figure of a lady showing the new fifteen-gore skirt. There were also several fancy silk waists and with them a pretty line of Arabian bhadinade trimming on Mouseline de Sy. A few lines of patterns in silks were shown, also fancy sofa pillows.

Fine tapestry paintings, the work of noted artists to be used as panels in dining rooms, also formed a part of the exhibit.

The exhibit was in charge of Mr. W. B. Wise, and his arrangement of the display was most artistic.

The great establishment making this exhibit has a good trade in New Berne and it is increasing. They inform us that they can supply their patrons with anything in their line that can be found in the United States and that they can compete in prices with the largest establishments of the country.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 7, 1895.

Robt. Porter Brewing Co.

Replying to yours of recent date, am pleased to give you a most satisfactory report. The Hoffman is an excellent beer and I predict for it a ready sale here. The desirable elements seem to be properly put together, rendering it an acceptable, all round beverage for the sick and the well.

Yours truly,

S. WESTRAY BATTLE.

THE BANQUET AND RECEPTION.

Given by Hon. James A. Bryan to the Swiss Minister, His Excellency, J. B. Pioda.

At the elegant and largely attended banquet given at his palatial residence by our leading fellow townsman, Hon. James A. Bryan, to His Excellency, J. B. Pioda, the Swiss Minister, Mr. Bryan, during the course of the evening offered a toast to his distinguished guest, in which he alluded handsomely and feelingly to the ties which bound New Berne to old Bern and assured him of the affection and esteem of the daughter for the mother, in which sentiments, the guest, all expressed hearty and heart-true concurrence.

In conclusion, Mr. Bryan read the beautiful poem which follows, written for the occasion by that lovely and gifted daughter of New Berne, Miss Leah Jones, to which feast and poem, Mr. Pioda most cordially and graciously responded.

Among the other toasts was one at the ladies of Bern and New Berne. It was most ably and frequently responded to by the Hon. F. M. Simons.

The highly enjoyable occasion was most happily extended until the "sweet snares" called for the dispersal of the congenial and delighted participants.

The poem was as follows:

Welcome, Welcome, Sir Pioda,
Messenger from o'er the sea,
Bringing with thee loving token,
From the free-born to the free.

Yes, Thou bringst a mother's greeting,
And we, each and every one,
Sons and daughters of her daughter,
Gladly welcome Thee, her son.

We have not thy lakes and mountains,
Water-born and Forest-dweller,
But broad rivers, plains and fountains
These, and warm friends are all here to see.

And methinks, when our forefathers
Fur across the seas did roam,
To the land of Piscaroras,
Seeking out a distant home.

Where they might, by Gods' hand guided,
Found a city whose pure fame
Should, through all the future ages,
Such new lustre on its name;

That the fir and beech and pine tree,
Made them think of those afar
And the Neuse and Trent's fair waters
Somehow intoned them of Ann.

All along adown the ages
Thou hast brought the flag of Switzerland,
Land of beauty, land of freedom,
Land, Yes land of William Tell.

Flag, far famed in song and story,
Ever proudly aloft thou wave,
For when stormy war clouds threaten,
The men of truth, still shall save.

We accept this glorious token
Of Bern's love—and here we swear
That o'er this banner flag and freedom,
We will ever "out watch the Bear."
