BRYAN NOMINATED.

ON FIFTH BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

The nomination well received. Disappointment among friends of Bland and Boies. No selection for Vice President.

The first place on the National Democratic ticket was filled yesterday, by the convention nominating for President, William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska.

The nomination of W. J. Bryan was in the nature of a surprise, although his name has been mentioned as a presidential possibility for some time, yet the names of other candidates have been considered of late as sure winners of the nomination.

Mr. Bryan is well known as a silver man, and his eloquent speeches in favor of free coinage have given him a national reputation.

Giving the first place on its ticket to the State of Nebraska, may seem a questionable policy on the part of the Democratic party, but the party in this campaign seems to place the greatest stress upon its platform, rather than upon its nominees or the States they hail from.

Late despatches from New York indicate that Mr. Bryan is held in greater favor than any other of the candidates named, but whether his personality can affect the known money tendency of the Eastern Democracy, must be determined later on.

The failure to nominate a Vice President yesterday, and the continuation of the Convention over another night, very clearly shows that there is a hesitation upon the part of the leaders of the Party to give second place to some conservative man, in order to in a measure placate the sound money wing of the Party.

Its result will be known today, and the Democratic party will be launched upon the political waters.

The East is not recognized so far, either in the platform or nominees.

The West and South have carried out their program in full. They have controlled Convention, platform and nominations.

It is too early to predict results, but it must not be forgotten that the North and East have been and must continue to be factors in the politics of the Democratic party.

The next few days will tell whether they will be found fighting for free silver, or whether they will bolt, and be found fighting against issues which they have ever considered were undemocratic and against the best interests of the Party and the country.

That a Democratic free silver platform and its silver candidates, mean any gain from the Populists is exceedingly doubtful.

The Populists are wedded to themselves, and their leaders are not likely to give up or follow other parties, and thus lose their own personalities. They prefer rather to lead and be conspicuous over a few, than to be swallowed up and lose their identity in another party.

The Democratic party is to be congratulated that it has lived up to the ideas of its majority and intends to fight on that line. There is no confusion on that point. It clearly puts itself upon record and the people of this country will decide the rest next November.

Special. CHICAGO, July 10.—Weather is clear and warm. First business in order is to ballot for President. There seems to be some doubt as to whether a two-thirds vote of all States is required to nominate or simply two-thirds of vote given.

Best authorities say the latter and those will be used so that supposition as to the result of the last Convention which governs this says "two-thirds of vote given."

There are in all 980 votes but it is expected that a number will refrain from voting. Convention called to order at 10:37 a. m. Proceedings were opened with prayer.

Chairman Harvill, of Pennsylvania, rose and loudly cheered. He nominated Robert B. Patterson, of Pennsylvania, for President.

vote. Gen. Bragg said under instructions that the majority has absolute power in matters.

Wisconsin delegates as names were called declined to vote. Two members of delegation voted for Bryan.

Efforts were made to withstand the demonstration in favor of Bland and Bryan were not successful.

Marsou's of Louisiana appealed for revocation of rule, (excitement).

Delegates laugh and cheer. Chairman instructed sergeant at arms to restore order. Confusion and excitement continued.

Chairman appealed to delegates to assist him in keeping order.

Marsou's appeal from decision is hissed down.

Efforts were made to create a demonstration for Bryan, which was quelled by a vigorous pounding of chairman's gavel.

Excitement over. Bryan vote has increased and stopped call of roll.

Mrs. Bryan who was sitting on the platform retained her composure, while the crowd her was demonstrating in most excited manner.

Chairman announced that under rules of last convention two thirds of the votes given will nominate a candidate for President and Vice President. Convention has quitted down some.

Fifth ballot was ordered. California voted 18 for Bryan. Michigan cast her vote for Bryan. Illinois delegates returned to hall, (great excitement). New York called, refused to answer.

Chairman in casting called out 23 votes for the nominee of this convention—W. J. Bryan. (Cheers). Convention went wild again.

Ohio withdrew McLean. Great excitement.

Missouri delegates took stand it was said to withdraw Bland's name. Chairman tried to have quiet restored.

Bland's letter was read which asked to have his name withdrawn at any time when it appeared that some one else seemed to be the choice of the delegates.

Iowa withdrew name of Boies and gave vote to Bryan.

Turkey of Indiana took stand and withdrew name of Mathews and cast the vote of his State for Bryan.

Chairman declared nomination of Bryan unanimous on the fifth ballot. Convention took recess to 8 p. m.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

POPULIST LIKE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Democratic Platform Strictly Anti-Cleveland. Cuban Filibusters Cannot be Convicted in Florida. Christiana Endeavorers.

JOURNAL BUREAU, WASHINGTON, D. C. July 10th. The Populists who are in Washington decline to commit themselves at this time but it is easy to see that they like the platform much better than they do the ticket.

It seems to be conceded by most politicians that it the Populists and silver men, who are to hold conventions at St. Louis on the 22nd of this month, nominate separate tickets, instead of endorsing the Chicago ticket, it will add largely to the chances of Republican success. Silver men would have a fighting chance to win if they all voted one ticket, but not otherwise; not even if the gold Democrats should put up a ticket of their own, because the gold Democrats are mostly in States which are almost certain to go Republican anyway.

While the probable altitude of President Cleveland towards the Democratic ticket nominated by the convention which made several humiliating references to his administration, in its platform, is naturally a subject of much discussion, there is no reason to believe that it can possibly affect the result, anyway. Mr. Cleveland has not in the past turned the other cheek when struck, and it is not likely that his nature has recently undergone a change for the better.

Two planks in the Democratic platform are so distasteful to Cleveland that they would prevent his supporting the ticket, even if the plank for the free coinage of silver was not enough to have made him oppose it.

People who have noticed the regularity with which alleged Cuban filibusters have been acquitted when tried by the Florida courts will be interested in a few remarks made by Mr. Frank Clark, who is U. S. District Attorney for Florida, and who is at present visiting Washington. Cuban matters were being discussed when Mr. Clark said: "I know from personal experience how ardent is the sympathy of the American people for the Cubans. I have had several cases against people who were undoubtedly engaged in filibustering, but, although the evidence against them was strong as could be, they were invariably let off. A jury couldn't be got together in Florida that would convict any American arrested for rendering aid to the Cuban revolutionists. It is simply impossible to make a case stick on account of the universal sentiment in favor of the Cubans."

It is difficult for many of the old timers to realize the growth of staphylococcus, which is a good enough name for the almost universal worship of men who are conspicuous by reason of their wealth, political position, or, in fact, for any reason. One of these old timers—Congressman Wright of Texas, who served four terms in the house just previous to the war, is now visiting Washington. Just to show that he doesn't keep up with the staphylococcus of the period a few remarks he made to a friend are appended: "I am getting to be an old man, and yet I cherish the hope of seeing one spectacle in the Capitol of the nation ere I am summoned to depart. I want to live long enough to see a President on the 4th of March walk from the White House to the Capitol to be inducted into the great office, without any parade of military without any beating of drums, and without any of the pageantry and ostentatious glitter that usually accompany such occasions."

Some more war talk has followed the issuing of orders by the Navy Department revoking all leaves of absence, except on account of sickness, and directing all Navy officers on waiting orders to report for duty. But Secretary Herbert says there is no significance attached to the orders further than his desire to have as many of the loyal officers as possible take part in the extensive drilling programme which he has mapped out for our warships for this summer. Of course Secretary Herbert cannot help people remarking that this programme keeps the strongest squadron of war vessels this country has ever had in balling distance all the time.

Many Washingtonians are more interested in the doings of the fifteenth annual convention of the Christiana Endeavorers, now in session, than in what has been done this week by the Democratic National Convention at Chicago. The Endeavorers, some 40,000 strong, swooped down on the National Capital this week, and are now in full and peaceful possession, holding scores of meetings daily in their three big tents, which seat 25,000 people, on the White Lot, and in the city churches. Like all the people who come to Washington, they are having a good time in their own way, and it isn't costing them much money.
