No sinners were arraigned before His Honor, Mayor Ellis, yesterday. The temperature was 98 degrees at Bradham's Pharmacy yesterday. At the Western Union Telegraph Company's office the mercury stood at 96 degrees.

Set on Fire.

Tuesday morning, at 9 o'clock, the barn and stable, with supply of feed, of C. R. McCleese, at Pamlico, was destroyed by fire, unquestionably the work of an incendiary.

It is a Fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier, has proved over and over again, that it has power to cure, even when other medicines fail to do any good.

A Hot Question.

"Is it hot enough for you," seems to be the fool question of these horrid or torrid July days. And do you answer it gently and calmly, or does it make you hotter? Well, never mind answering now, wait until November when the days are really cool and nothing excites one.

Of course the fortunates, we stay-at-homes, call them unfortunates, who can go up to Black Mountain, or to Ocracoke to bathe in the salt waves, look towards New Berne when they read the JOURNAL and see what it says about the temperature being 95, 100 or 105 degrees, and exclaim, "oh, how those poor-stay-at-homes are suffering," and then they take a drink, at their own expense.

But seriously, New Berne during these hot July days is not so fearfully uncomfortable, as our friends in the mountains or by the sea waves, may think it is.

The Doctor, Allie or Tom still deal out "gold stuff" for us, and we sit in the shade of the brick building, who's "gold bag" owner furnishes chairs for the weary, and again and again discuss "16 to 1," "Sometimes we tire of this discussion, and then we discuss a cold melon, at some other fellow's expense. Then the delightful cool of the

Mrs. Nancy Sterling, who lives at King and East Front streets, had the side of her house opened yesterday and secured a good supply of honey.

For about two years, Mrs. Sterling has noticed the bees going through a knot-hole in the weather boarding of the house, but has not disturbed them, until yesterday.

The bees laid their honey between the plastering and the weather boarding of the house, and yesterday some forty or fifty pounds were taken out.

Apocalliptic Club Meeting. The Apocalliptic Club met at the home of Miss Clem. Whitford, last night, and in spite of the exceeding warmth of the weather it was a delightful occasion.

What other games of cards were played, and those who were not of the card playing character found enjoyment in chatting in sequestered corners and on the porch.

Owing to the absence of a great many members from the city, the attendance was not so large as usual but those who were present declared it to be one of the most pleasant meetings they had ever attended.

At eleven o'clock cool and delightful refreshments were served, which were doubly enjoyed on account of the warm weather, and at midnight the happy party separated and took their way homeward.

No wife was more devoted to her husband, and no mother to her children, than was Mrs. Jordan to her husband and her children.

She was a woman, too, of the largest and kindest heart, charitable and kind to the orphaned, the poor and distressed, true to her friends and loved by them; for many years a consistent member of the Church she loved, the Presbyterian Church of New Berne, it is enough to say of her, that she was a representative of the noblest type of Christian womanhood, and that her influence for good, will long be felt not only by her immediate friends and family, but by the community in which she lived and died, in the home of her childhood and young girlhood, her school days, and her mature married life. Mrs. Jordan leaves one daughter surviving her, Emilie, wife of Mr. W. B. Swindell.

The funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian Church this Thursday afternoon, at 5 o'clock P. M.

the late Colonel John V. Jordan, died at his home in New Berne, N. C., on July 28th, 1896. At the residence of Mr. W. B. Swindell, his funeral services were held on Monday, July 29th, at 10 o'clock A. M.

Mrs. Jordan has caused her family to apprehend a serious result, but they had continued to hope for her restoration to health.

Some weeks ago she had been persuaded to visit the mountains, in the expectation that the bracing air of the ocean, and the change of scene might benefit her in some degree.

It had also been planned during the summer she should seek renewed strength and recuperation in a trip to Philadelphia to visit relatives.

Colonel Jordan's first return from Morehead some three weeks ago it became evident that a fatal disease, one of the most fatal in the history of medicine, had insidiously, and slowly, but none the less surely, undermined a constitution broken by griefs almost beyond endurance to her, caused by the death of a beloved and promising son some years ago under peculiarly distressing circumstances, and by the recent death of Colonel Jordan, her late husband.

All that the forethought and the care of a loving family, a host of friends and relatives, and medical skill could do, proved unavailing to arrest the progress of that dread disease; and so, surrounded by her loved ones Julia Lane Jordan passed from the griefs, and the suffering of this transitory life into the peaceful rest and happiness of the life eternal.

Mrs. Jordan was the daughter of Hardy B. Lane, and Harriet Benson Lane, and therefore a member of one of the most prominent, and best and most favorably known families of Craven County; a family whose members are recognized in Craven County and the city of New Berne as among its most substantial and highly esteemed citizens. Among the members of that family still surviving are Mrs. Jordan's sister Miss Harriet Lane, and her brothers John B. Lane, Esq., and Deputy Sheriff Hardy B. Lane of New Berne, and B. B. Lane, now of Chapel Hill.

Julia Lane Jordan was born in New Berne on the 25th, of January, 1839, and was 57 years old therefore upon her last birthday.

She was married on the 3rd, day of June 1857 to John V. Jordan.

The early years of her married life were spent amid the stirring, the exciting, and the dangerous scenes of the Civil War, in which from the first to the last her husband played a prominent part, among the "bravest of the brave," and gallant soldiers of the South.

Many of the comrades and the old soldiers of Colonel Jordan, who were pained to hear of his death less than a year ago, in August 1895, will be saddened now to receive the news, that the wife he loved above all else upon earth has too passed into the great beyond to join her husband and a loved son.

If the inevitable was to come it seems meet and appropriate to those, who recognized the affection existing during nearly forty years of married life between Colonel Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, that they should not long be separated by death.

No wife was more devoted to her husband, and no mother to her children, than was Mrs. Jordan to her husband and her children.

She was a woman, too, of the largest and kindest heart, charitable and kind to the orphaned, the poor and distressed, true to her friends and loved by them; for many years a consistent member of the Church she loved, the Presbyterian Church of New Berne, it is enough to say of her, that she was a representative of the noblest type of Christian womanhood, and that her influence for good, will long be felt not only by her immediate friends and family, but by the community in which she lived and died, in the home of her childhood and young girlhood, her school days, and her mature married life.
