UNIT OF ACTION, WINE.

The old adage of in Union there's strength, can be applied to the success of communities in times of peace, as well as in times of war.

It is the unity of purpose and action on the part of the citizens that develops a town, builds it up, and makes it prosperous.

For the commercial success and development of a city a unity on a co-operative plan in all enterprises is not necessary, but the unity of saying a good word for every man and enterprise in your city, is most essential, and it is this that makes great cities.

It is the small souled, faint hearted men that dwarf places, men who cannot rise above self, who will not speak a good word of another because it reduces their own already small stock of liberality and Christianity.

It is not places that make men, it is men who create places.

Give encouragement to home enterprises, talk up your town, show your confidence in its future in every possible way, and never let outsiders think it a poor place from anything you may do or say.

Unity of action, wins every time, and even if you may not be able to assist, pecuniarily, you can speak a good word and show a live interest in what others may be doing.

The War Against Disease.

The apparently successful application of lockjaw antitoxine to a patient in the Frohman Hospital was reported in our columns yesterday.

This antitoxine is produced by the method used in the manufacture of antitoxine for diphtheria. Lockjaw is an infectious disease and has its characteristic bacillus, the introduction of which into an open wound causes the malady. The record of cases here and abroad in which this serum has been used indicates that it is effective when applied before the disease has become firmly seated.

We also referred a few days ago to what is reported to have been a successful use in Amoy of an antitoxine serum, produced in the same way, for the relief of persons attacked by "plague," the remedy having been manufactured by a French physician in Tonquin. It may be recalled that the characteristic bacillus or germ of "plague" was first discovered by the eminent Japanese bacteriologist, Dr. Kitasato. For several months we have heard nothing about the work which Kitasato has been doing in the hospital laboratory supported for him by the Japanese Government. As it was asserted last year that he had perfected and used with success antitoxine serums for leprosy and cholera, European and American health authorities should inquire as to what he has accomplished.

Additional statistics are published concerning the experiments of Dr. Hoffman in India with injections of poison designed to protect persons exposed to cholera infection. The reports accessible some months ago were by no means convincing as to the value of these injections, but as the number of persons treated increases—it is now said to be nearly 40,000—the evidence of the efficacy of the method becomes more satisfactory. Inoculated persons do take the disease and die of it, but the percentage of those unfortunate is very small as compared with the percentage of associated and un inoculated persons who become infected.

An investigation is to be made in Paris by a competent committee concerning the effect of Dr. Crotte's treatment for the cure of consumption. This treatment does not involve the use of an antitoxine serum. The patient inhales a powerful antiseptic in gaseous form and electricity is applied. The reported beneficial effect in about 600 cases has attracted the attention of eminent authorities, and the merits of the treatment will soon be ascertained. —N. Y. Times.

Suicide Insanity.

Either as a charitable fiction, or because in reality there was a sudden swell of dementia, coroner's juries in passing upon cases of suicide generally bring in a verdict to the effect that the deed was done in a fit of temporary mental aberration. There is a natural repugnance against believing that a person would attempt his own life with calm intent and deliberation, although, of course, such cases are on record. Yet it is questionable if not these very cases furnish stronger evidence of mental derangement than those others which are precipitated by what would seem to be an uncontrollable impulse to end life's troubles with one sudden stroke. Instances are recorded of persons choosing barbaric methods for shuffling off their mortal coil and writing a detailed account while undergoing incredible tortures until a consciousness set in. While such acts are apparently done with calm deliberation, there can hardly be a question that they indicate diseased condition of the mind.

It will be objected, of course, that the various causes impelling people to do away with themselves cannot all be predicated upon mental aberration. If a man sends a bullet through his brain because he has been ruined in business, or hangs himself because afraid of arrest, or seeks death in the river because he has been jilted, the fact does not furnish evidence, it is said, that his mental equilibrium was upset. Yet, it is doubtful if anybody would take his own life except under extreme mental excitement, or depression, a sudden derangement of his mental faculties. The theory is quite reasonable that his judgment is obscured by an overpowering mental upheaval, and that he is no longer master of himself when he becomes self-odeo.

Because of this the wisdom of the enactment of statutes which actually make a felon of a would-be suicide is subject to grave doubt. It would seem to be much more reasonable and much more humane to treat an individual attempting to put an end to his life as an irresponsible being than as one who has committed a crime against society. In some countries a suicide is not permitted to have a Christian burial; his remains must be laid away at night, and without any ceremony whatever, and his grave remain unmarked. This custom is hardly less barbarous than that which makes a criminal of a poor wretch, who, in a moment of despair, seeks oblivion in the embrace of death. —Washington Times.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up his constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. Italian Jingoism.

King Humbert's decree ordering the formation of a squadron of the Italian navy for service in the South Atlantic is consequent upon the recent sanguinary anti-Italian riots in Brazil. The great influx of Italian immigrants into South America, and particularly Argentina and Brazil, has apparently produced a situation in those parts of the world similar to that in Southern France, where hostile demonstrations against the unwelcome newcomers have not been of infrequent occurrence. The well remembered outbreak at Aignes-Mortes, France, was far more serious than the recent Italophobic riots in Brazil; yet Italy did not feel called upon to send a war fleet to Marseilles. Of course, it would have been unwise to provoke France by a naval demonstration; but a show of force against weaker Brazil may be indulged in with impunity. In fact, the formation of the Italian South Atlantic squadron may be considered a bit of cheap Jingoism intended strictly for home effect. The presence of the squadron on the South American coast will not hurt Brazil, but it will permit the Italian Jingo to proudly throw out his chest. The squadron, however, will not be sent out for war, but for buncombe only. —Phila. Record.

For the Farmer.

Intensive farming is high farming. Instead of indifferently cultivating 300 acres, concentrate your efforts on half the number, and get the same or better results. Instead of 1,000 bushels of potatoes on ten acres, fertilize higher, and grow 1,000 bushels on five acres. Instead of thirty cows, giving 200 pounds of butter each per year, keep twenty 300 pounders. Concentration is the essence of good farming.

Let neither yourself nor your boys think that the winter is but a season for idle waiting until the time for sowing crops comes around again. This would make the season a time for loafing, which profits no man. Read, study, plan, prepare. If possible have some regular occupation which will employ your hands a portion of each day, even if it be but to keep you from getting rusty and lazy.

The actual value of stable manure as a whole is greater than the value of its constituents. The same, in a commercial form, would not have the beneficial mechanical action that the manure has in loosening the tough clay soils, and for compacting lighter sandy ones. Either green manuring or stable deposits should supplement the use of commercial fertilizers always.

Diversify and rotate. It is hard to tell which is the most important of the two. To diversify means that you will have something to live upon; that some one or more of the crops will sell pretty well—will not be a clear miser; to rotate means that you are building up the fertility of your soil instead of tearing it down.

Through cultivation before your plant is more than half of the battle in farming. If that is done, the land plowed deep, clods pulverized, hilly land terraced, your land will improve rather than run down, crops will be better, and the cultivation of the crops will be easier.

Hay is an important item on the farm. A good quality as well as quantity is essential on every farm. No storage can be made cheaper than hay. Our southern farmers can improve their method along this line.

Hog and harmony is a time-worn expression but the southern farmer who pulls through the hard times easier than his neighbor will be the one who does not neglect his hog and hominy crop.

Give attention to plans to prevent your land from washing into gullies. Terraces or ditches made right will greatly aid you: Don't plant a crop without them if your land is hilly.

There was always a demand for the best fruits, the best products of the dairy, the truck patch, the garden or the field. There is always room at the top. —N. C. Bulletin

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. G. Gardner of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at F. S. Duffey Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.
