TALK BETTER TIMES.

The fact that the Presidential election is over, and the issues of that contest being settled, is in itself enough to warrant a change for the better all over the country, as it removes an uncertainity which hung like a pall over the business enterprises of the country.

But while there has come an end o the election contest, and all the excitement that prevails in a Pres-Idential year, with its consequent hindrance to trade and new enterprises of all kinds, there is nothing to warrant a boom at present anywhere.

The booms that are visible since the election are of a character that benefit the working classes, in that they have been the opening of factories which have provided work for many thousands.

The community in the South that has sat with folded hands and looked for a boom because it was predicted, has not and will not realize or see it.

Better times are not the product of waiting communities, but they come to communities whose people believe in their town, city and section, and prove their faith by their works, in elevating every local enterprise and dignifying everything connected with their city.

There will not be any improvement in communities whose people do not talk better times, who are not cheerfully and courageously at work, and who will not admit that today is better than yesterday, and that tomorrow still greater things will take place.

A people that talk and act better their midst, while the grunters, the prophets who talk only calamity the saw mill man here. will never have anything but illthe sooner it overtakes this class of he comes along pretty regular. people the better it is for the community in which they live.

Talk better times to your neighlooking about to develop some new good sermons. industry, and never fail to talk up your town, at home and abroad-be a living, active agent for its devel promotion of home enterprise by talking against it.

Good times are started by active every community, but the people they sell for 50c. per hundred. should let it be but a lull, a mere breathing spell, a taking of a firmer progress and advancement of the community's interests.

Get into the sunshine of talking munity which shall so live and act.
