MY LADY'S WARDROBE.

WHAT FASHION AND FANCY SAYS IT SHOULD CONTAIN.

GOWNS AND GEWGAWS SEEN AT THE N. Y. HORSE SHOW.

The Goddess of Fashion asserts her prowess in almost every clime, and under some name or other her votaries consecrate an annual period to the capricious spirit that is constantly endeavoring to improve upon the "human form divine."

Designed by THE NATIONAL CLOAK Co., West 234 Street, New York.

purple in the ascendant, added brightness to this panorama of fashion.

Odd waists were numerous, but the really up-to-date gown had sleeves or a part of the bodice of the same material as the skirt.

One striking costume, an illustration of which appears on this page, was made of blue cloth and trim red with revers of a darker blue velvet adorned with rhinestone buttons.

Why suffer with Coughs, Colds, and Grippe when LAXATIVE BROWN QUININE will cure you in one day. Does not produce the ringing in the head like Sulphate of Quinine.

she has her Cherry Blossom holidays. Here, in New York, she has thrown the glamour of her approval around the Horse Show, and it has become her court and mirror.

Whether or not there is any truth in the statement that the horses are the part of the show which received the least attention, it is very evident that the gorgeous costumes created for this gala week absorbed the greater amount of interest.

The new skirts still have godet plaits in the back, but not in the front, and in many cases where the style is carried to its limit, the wearer's figure is plainly outlined by the tightness of the front of the skirt.

brim was made of lace, and a wealth of white plumes intermixed with some dark blue ones were used as trimming. The back of the brim was turned directly up, displaying a number of dahlias in two shades of blue—dahlias and violets, by the by, are the favorite flowers for winter millinery.

Quite the newest fad is to have the top of the handle finished with a tiny bon bon box, the lid of which is set with a precious stone. Although it always has been considered not good form to wear one's jewels on the street, still the woman of fashion now-a-days has a number of other ways to display her precious stones while shopping.

The jeweled belts of the early autumn have almost entirely disappeared, their place having been filled with a wide swathed belt of satin or silk. If the wearer of one of these belts is tall and slender an edging of chiffon ruche finishes each side of it, and small puffs of the chiffon are arranged among the loops of ribbon that trim the belt where it fastens, either at the side or in the back.
