One of the human listeners was a boy who had some little skill as a harmon icon player, and he went frequently to the woods, where, with the aid of the instrument, he succeeded in calling chipmunks, red squirrels, and on one occasion a woodchuck, besides wood mice, including the deer mouse, and the smaller birds. The mice chiefly ran squirrels were less demonstrative.

He Walked Far Too Far.

In a hotel in Berlin there is a night watchman who did not take kindly to the system adopted a few years ago requiring him to go through the hotel at certain hours and touch an electric button fixed up in various places.

After much thought be fixed up an automatic arrangement on several of the buttons so that they would report at certain hours. Soon the button system got so out of order that the management abolished it.

It had been traveling all right, and when taken off it registered 212 miles. - Berlin Gazette.

Du Maurier Liked the Fashions. It was inevitable, as the principle exponent of topical art by pictorial satire, that Du Maurier should hold pretty Special strong opinions about women's and fashious generally, and it is a fact that he was by no means a decrier of the productions of the modern modiste. On the contrary, be admitted a very warm admiration for his feminina developed, without the creating of raries-small waists, pointed shoes, big hats and all-and felt a constant pleas ure in delineating them. And as for the children of this fortunate country, he would say he could think of no painted or sculptured children of the past who were more charming-at least, to him. And this, from an artist who never forgot that he was French by birth, was praise indeed. -Lady's Pintorial.

To See Plainly. The more I think of it I find this conclusion more impressed upon me, that the greatest thing a human soul ever does in this world is to see something and tell what, it saw in a plain way. Hundreds of people can talk for one who can think, but thousands can think for one who can see. To see clearly is poetry, prophecy and religion-all in one. - Ruskin
