Committee Report Favorably on Arbitration Treaty.

Speaker Reed Against Public Building Bills. Another Treaty. New Cabinet Officials Considered. An Impossible Bill.

JOURNAL BUREAU, WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.

The Senate having marched up the bill has now started to march down. After frightening President Cleveland and Secretary Olney into the belief that the arbitration treaty was to be hung up if not actually rejected, the Senate committee on Foreign Relations has made a favorable report on the treaty and amended it to meet the objections, and in due time the treaty will be ratified, and there is no reason to suppose that England will raise any objections to the amendments. Although members of the committee have publicly said that they would not be hurried by public clamor there isn't the slightest doubt that they have been hurried by the great pressure of public opinion in favor of prompt unfavorable action on the treaty, which has been brought to bear upon them. It is all very well for Senators to talk about defying public opinion, but as a matter of fact, few of them ever do.

Speaker Reed is still inexorable on the Public Building question, and the men who want the Public Building bills acted upon, although they are numerous enough to override the Speaker in the House, are apparently afraid to openly rebel.

Another treaty with Great Britain has been sent to the Senate. It provides for settlement of the long dispute over a portion of the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions, and already the question is being asked, why the whole Alaskan boundary was not included? Perhaps Secretary Olney will answer this question when the Senate committee on Foreign Relations gets ready to take up the new treaty. It is quite certain that he will be asked to do so.

Openly none of the Republicans in Congress have anything but words of praise for the selection of Mr. Lyman J. Gage to be Secretary of the Treasury in the McKinley cabinet, but among themselves, those who think that no man should be honored who cannot stand the test of party fealty, do not hesitate to say that the selection of Mr. Gage was had politics on the part of Maj. McKinley. They do not deny Mr. Gage's fitness from a strictly business point of view to administer the affairs of the Treasury department, but they think that the same tariff opinions which caused Mr. Gage to vote for Cleveland will influence him when he comes to administer the tariff law which the Republicans expect to put upon the statute books at the coming extra session of Congress, and that the result will not be satisfactory to those who believe in protection before everything else in tariff matters. The men who believe in silver as well as those who hope to see the financial question handled conservatively by the coming administration, regard the selection of Mr. Gage with some suspicion, and some of them do not hesitate to say that although Mr. Gage lives in Chicago, his connection with Wall street is as close as that of any New York banker.

Senator Allen has introduced a bill which would unquestionably make a good and useful law, if properly enforced, but which would have one chance in a thousand, even if there were a year instead of a month remaining of the present session of Congress. The title of the bill is "To Prevent the Over Capitalization of Corporations" and it provides that all interstate railroad, steamboat and telegraph companies shall file a correct schedule of all their assets with the Commissioner of Railroads, together with written evidence to show that their capital stock does not exceed the actual value of their assets.

Representative Watson, of Ohio, has introduced a bill to provide for a new member of the Cabinet, a Secretary of Labor. It is not a new idea, nor will it become a law just yet, although it probably will some day.

The U. S. Supreme court will have a go at the case of the Three Friends, one of the alleged Cuban filibustering vessels, the Attorney General having the assistance of the Secretary of State, applied for a writ of Certiorari—in every day English got the case before the Supreme court—because the latter official isn't satisfied with the ruling of Judge Locke, of the Southern district of Florida, in proceedings brought against the vessel.

The most popular member of McKinley's cabinet yet named, is Gen. Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, who is to be Secretary of War. When Senator Sherman was elected as Secretary of State, it was supposed that Gen. Alger would no longer be considered as a Cabinet possibility, because it was known that the two men had not been on friendly terms since the publication of Sherman's book, but it seems that they have agreed to let bygones be bygones, and to be friends. At any rate they are to serve in the cabinet together. Gen. Alger is personally one of the most genial and approachable men to be found in a day's search, and his experience ought to make him a good executive officer.

Minority Populist Paper, New Bills Enrolled. To Exhibit at Tennessee Exposition. To Control Cotton Prices.

JOURNAL BUREAU, RALEIGH, N. C., February 1.

Chairman A. E. Holton was here on Friday and Saturday to look after a "piece of pie." The piece he wanted should be properly marked, U. S. Attorney of Western District, Marshall Mott who had felt sure he had the slice, has looked very much like a thunder cloud. The lovers of a good performance will on the 17th, have the pleasure of seeing Nat Goodwin here. Many hope he will play "The Gilded Fool."

Tomorrow night Prof. Latham of Wake Forest College, will give an exhibition here of the X rays. It is the first time anything of the kind has been shown here.

There will probably be another paper started here—the organ of the minority Populists.

In the Senate on Saturday a bill was passed, to require the enrolling and engraving clerks to keep up with their work and present it for signature on Mondays. This will prevent any error or fraud.

That all salaries be changed to conform to the price of farm products also passed 3rd reading. Most of the work done in the legislature Saturday was of a local character.

In the House a resolution was introduced to appropriate $1,000 for a statue to George Peabody to be placed in the Statuary Hall, Washington, D. C.

Permission was given to Miss Helen Font Lewis to address the legislature on the 13th on woman's rights.

A bill was introduced to provide for this State to be represented at the Tennessee Exposition. This bill provides that for the purpose of making an exhibit there a board of managers is created, composed of the Governor, the Board of Agriculture, and nine other citizens selected by the Governor; the Board of Agriculture is authorized to make an exhibit, and to use for this purpose any funds it may have on hand or to its credit in the Treasury; and to further carry out the provisions of this act the sum of $10,000 be appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The Progressive Farmer will have a long article tomorrow about a big combine to control the price of cotton. It is proposed to get charter for gins with compress attachments. The taxes will be made by the Bessemer process, this rolls the cotton in layers in a cylinder. The editorial says the buyers will pay more for cotton thus put up, and the railroads will load it cheaper. This will drive the present gin owners out of business.

Congressman Skinner is here to direct the minority Populists.

Out at the A. & M. college in the new hot-houses, strawberries and tomatoes are ripening. It is said the steam in the radiators freeze in some of the wings of the building last week. The heating apparatus has not given satisfaction.

Mr. L. L. Brown did give up the lease of the Yarboro tower; and it was transferred to R. P. Raney. Mr. Scoville will take charge as manager for Mr. Raney. The bill to provide for a four months term of the public schools will be heard by the committee on education tomorrow. The discussions will be interesting.

Election of Officers.

RALEIGH, N. C.—The annual meeting of the Mechanics and Investors' Union was held by the company in this city.

The annual reports of the officers were made, showing a very satisfactory and prosperous condition, having loans in force to the amount of $16,500. The following officers were elected for the year: Jan. C. Drenry, president; J. S. Wayne, vice president; H. B. Jarman, treasurer; George Allen, Secretary; J. N. Holding, attorney. Other directors, W. S. Primrose, C. G. Latta and Wm. Woolcott.

This is probably one of the most conservative and best managed companies of the kind to be found in the State. They loan chiefly to build dwellings, on eight years' time.

HILLED BY A TREE.

A. J. Aman, A Prominent Farmer Meets With A Sad Death Near Maysville.

MAYSVILLE, N. C., February 1.—A sad accident occurred about 3 miles South of here, about nine o'clock, today, which terminated in the death of Mr. A. J. Aman, (a farmer) who was about 70 years old. The old gentleman had a colored man cutting wood for him, and upon going down to look after the work, he got in the way of a tree which had lodged on another tree. When the tree broke loose, it struck Mr. Aman on the head, killing him almost instantly, he dying in about 30 minutes. The Doctor was telegraphed for but Mr. Aman died before he reached him.

Mr. Aman leaves a widow and five grown children, 2 girls and 3 boys, the eldest boy being married and now living in South Carolina. The remainder of the children are at home.

Mr. Aman was highly esteemed by all who knew him.
