WASHINGTON NEWS.

No Fight for Control of Senate Committee.

Certainty of Speaker Reed Succeeding Himself as Speaker, McKinley and Queen Lil. Olmsted Seekers Must Secure Proper Endorsements.

JOURNAL BUREAU, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 12. The excitement which was prevalent among Senators early this week over the prospect of a fight between the Republicans and silver men for the control of the Senate committee died out as suddenly as it began. The Populists and silver Republicans were very anxious that the Democrats should combine with them for the fight, and for a time it looked as though they might do so, but after the Democratic caucus there was a change in the situation. It has been asserted that the change was brought about by an agreement between the Democrats and Republicans to allow things to remain just as they are in the committee by filling vacancies caused by the retirement of silver men with silver men and those made by the retirement of gold men with gold men, and to send the credentials of the Senators appointed by the Governors of Kentucky, Florida, and Oregon to the Election committee and let them stay there. This assertion has been vehemently denied on all the same when the credentials of Dr. A. T. Wood, appointed to succeed Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, were presented, Senator Hoar withdrew his motion that he be sworn in, in favor of Senator Gorman's motion to refer to the Election committee, remarking that "under the circumstances" he would not antagonize Mr. Gorman's motion. Mr. Gorman is chairman of the Democratic caucus.

So assured is it that Mr. Reed is to be elected Speaker of the House that there is next to no interest exhibited by the Republican members who are already in Washington in the caucus that is to be held Saturday night to nominate officers. It is also understood that all the other officers are to be nominated. The Democrats, who can elect nobody, are having a red-hot fight over their nomination for Speaker, which is to be made Monday morning, because the man who receives the nomination will be regarded as the party leader in the House. The Populists will also nominate a candidate for Speaker.

President McKinley is proving himself more of a diplomat than he has ever been credited with being. A case in point is the manner in which he handled the application of ex-Queen Liliuokalani, of Hawaii, whose recent admission to the Diplomatic gallery of the Senate upon her personal request of Secretary Sherman made quite a stir in diplomatic circles, for a private interview. The application was in writing, but the answer was given verbally to the ex-Queen's secretary and was to the effect that she could take her place in the line which lily gathers in the East Room and be certain of seeing the President at almost any time, but that no private interview would be granted her now.

Some 10,000 applications for office which were received at Canton in two weeks and the inauguration, were this week sent to the several departments under which the offices applied for are. It required a big two-horse wagon to carry the boxes in which these applications were packed.

Senator Hanna's private secretary, Mr. A. Perkins, gets just $1,200 more salary than either a Senator or Representative does, and is consequently envied by the secretaries of all the other public men in Washington. Mr. Perkins gets $1,200 on the regular pay roll of the Senate, and Senator Hanna gives him the $5,000 a year he will get as Senator.

Secretary Wilson is running the Department of Agriculture like he had been here a year, instead of a week. One of the things he has done which seem to be excellent was to contract for 6,000 tons of sugar beet seed, which he intends to distribute in fourteen States, which have suitable soil and climate to raise sugar beets. Five farmers in every county in those States will be asked to plant these seeds and report results. Secretary Wilson sees no good reason for our importing beet sugar from Germany, when we can just as well grow the beets and make the sugar ourselves.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands.

Hileman Wants Pay for Speaker and Representative. Asylum Away from Politics, Failed to Appoint Directors.

JOURNAL BUREAU, RALEIGH, N. C., March 12, 1897. Notice was made yesterday of the fact that the pension act had been overlooked and not signed by the president of the senate before the adjournment of the legislature, and that the Supreme Court could have to decide whether he could sign it. Chief Justice Faircloth and Judge Douglas of the Court say they do not think he can sign it now. The bill is for 131 old soldiers, and 16 widows or he pension roll and appropriate $500 for the support of the Soldier's Home. Mr. Cunningham said last night that he could not sign the bill because he could not give the bond for the payment of the money, for he felt sure the next legislature would endorse the Treasurer for assisting the appropriation. Col. Cunningham was the democratic leader in the House of Representatives.

Speaker Hileman has most suddenly recovered from his attack of melancholy and is on the streets. He is looking to collecting $4 per diem as a representative and $6 per diem for being Speaker.

There is an outspoken sentiment on all sides that the Asylum should be made non-political patronage. There being a man at the head of the institutions for these poor unfortunate, that proves him of the right man in the right place. He should be left there.

The legislature failed to appoint any new directors for the colored A. & M. college at Greensboro and for the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Morganton, so the old directors hold on.

The question of a successor to Judge Leavelle is still being discussed. Senator Pritchard says it must be a resident of the district, and a good Republican. Many think it will be Judge Faircloth.

It is said that the case to the State to be represented at the inauguration of President McKinley was just $20,000.

The bill allowing convicts to be employed on the county roads is a good one and now if the counties will only realize and profit by this we will have fine roads all over the State.

A handsome oil painting of the late Governor Worth has been presented by the State to the family. The work was done by one artist, Mr. W. G. Randall, and is fine.

buggy, paced her husband into town. Bob swung in after the rig and never lost a step during the journey, winding up fresh at the end of the three miles. He took the same gait home.

Corbett jogged down the hill to Empire as a starter, turning the angle there and coming home by way of Carson, a trip of eight miles. He left his trainers and companions behind on a homestead, and sprinted for nearly a quarter of a mile into Shaws Springs. The usual pot-pouri of lamplight, bag-punching and a sparring was disposed of without a change.

When Corbett was asked who he refused to take Fitzsimmons' extended hand when the two met on the "peep" road he bristled up and said: "For this reason: That man has left me guarded in public and through the press time and again. He has called me a cur, a dab, an invalid, and a buffer. When he proves a portion of his statements, at least, by putting me out on March 17th I will shake with him. Not till then. What is the use of appearing friendly to a man when you are not?"

The Cornishman did not seem to be the snub he had received. All that caught him was Corbett's display of temper. "I always thought he was nutty," declared Bob. "The first punch I give him St. Patrick's Day will joggle his brain and he will go to pieces. Don't be too clever as Mitchell. This is a good thing. I'm glad I didn't turn back yesterday when they told me I was likely to run into the pompous. He looks like a mummy, and I'll enlighten him when we get together next week."

Tickets sell like hot tamales, and the total sales amount to a trifle over seven thousand.

A few boxes were thrown together, a heave-ho and a force of painters went out to work numbering the seats. The weather is mild and bright.
