IS ANY CHANGE WANTED?

From the way the mugwump press keeps attacking the new tariff bill, and its persistent efforts in endeavoring to prove that the tariff was all right and needed no altering, the uninformed person in National Affairs would judge that the government was prosperous under the Wilson tariff bill, and something else was wrong in the administration of the Government, when statements show that the receipts have been constantly exceeded by expenditures, necessitating bond issues, which this same press has upheld as being constitutional and the thing for the Cleveland administration to have done under the circumstances.

It is not seen, nor need it be expected that the Republican party will pay any attention to this Mugwump press, any more than it will be the free traders, but it will go right along administering government affairs as it thinks best.

The question might be asked, is the country at large satisfied to continue as it was under the Cleveland Administration, or does it want to take the chance, say hands off to every one, and give the McKinley crowd an opportunity to prove that it can bring the prosperity to the country, which it promised to do before November 4th, if given control of the Government?

It cannot be disputed that if the National Government has more than enough revenue to meet its obligations, that the entire business of the country is the better for it. Insufficient revenue means borrowing, but Government or individual, while a revenue above expenditures means prosperity to Government and individual.

The country has endured this condition of insufficient revenue, and the result has been apparent in every trade, profession and business throughout the country.

It was asked, was any change from that state of affairs wanted by the people, and a majority answered it by making the change of Administrations, and this change ought to indicate that the voters of the country wanted a change, and it can be safely said that they are still in favor of it. They want an administration that is going to raise a revenue and not one that will create a deficit.

The present course of the Republican party is open to a good deal of criticism. The Dingley tariff measure is full of objections. It will cause many articles to sell higher. It may cause some slight increase in the cost of living, but if it is in the end causes a turn for the better in the trade and business of this country, if it restores confidence, and if in this restoration of confidence comes increased consumption of our products and a greater development of our resources, any increase of tax will not be felt, and the people will Trashy Medicines.

Many such flood the market. Botanic Blood Balm is a conscientiously compounded medicine, the result of forty years' practice by an eminent physician. It is the best blood purifier ever offered to the public, and is guaranteed to cure if given a fair trial. Try it for all skin and blood diseases, including catarrh and rheumatism in its worst form. One bottle of it contains more curative and building-up virtue than a dozen any other kind. Price $1.00 per large bottle.

HOW IT STANDS AT HOME.

Our retail demand is such that we buy Botanic Blood Balm (R. B. B.) in gross lots. It sells well and gives our customers entire satisfaction. Our sales have increased 500 per cent. within a few months. We attribute its rapid sale to its size, price and merit. We are selling four or five bottles of it to one of any other preparation of the kind. It has failed in no instance to give entire satisfaction.

not figure on the increased cost of living if that living comes easily. The country wants a revenue. The administration in power says the Dingley tariff will give it. The people of the country want prosperous times, why then, when a change may be possible should there be any opposition to it?

The mugwump press may be satisfied with the conditions of the past few years, but the people are not, and a change will be welcomed, even if the means of bringing it may seem doubtful.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address: F. J. Farm Strown With Gold Coin.

Only the constant presence of a big bull dog, a watchman and a double barreled shotgun serves to keep prospectors off the Narcelle farm, fifty miles North of Fort Pierre, S. D. The farm is rich in gold deposits and while these deposits were undoubtedly salted they were salted to the tune of from $250,000 to $500,000 in gold coin of the United States. This money the present owners of the farm think they are better entitled to than the wandering adventurers who have manifested so strong a disposition to turn the premises bottom upward in search of wealth.

Paul Narcelle, late owner of the tract, was a Canadian Frenchman. Like many of his countrymen his opinion of banks was of the poorest and rather than risk his money in such institutions it was his custom to plant it in small caches about the farm. During his residence of fifty years or more in the Dakotas his savings amounted to a large sum. Shortly before his last illness his sons urged him to either dig up the money and bank it or to furnish them with the key to his hiding places. The old gentleman refused to consider any proposition of this character, however, and finally died without giving the slightest clue to his various places of concealment. His heirs have been systematically digging over every inch of the farm ever since, and although they have realized a considerable sum—the exact amount has not been made public—the total falls far short of the treasure the old man was known to have accumulated.

Residents all over the adjoining country expressed much interest in the investigations and eagerly volunteered their services in prosecuting them. Such offers have been uniformly declined and in not a few cases parties have been caught in the act of mining on their own account. Narcelle's custom was to inclose the money in old vegetable, fruit or ryster cans. His deposits amounted in most cases to $600 or $700 each.

PROOF OF SINCERITY.

How An Army Officer Stood the Supreme Test of Belief in Fatalism. In the days of the "old army" on the frontier, when military posts were sometimes hundreds of miles from any civilized place, there was little to do in the way of amusement in the winter time when the post was snowbound, and it was then that the reputation of the army was for card playing and drinking was gained. And it is true that a great deal of both was done at that time.

It was in these days that an event transpired that showed that the principal actor had the courage of his convictions, and that he was most certainly born under a lucky star. It was after a very "wet" stag dinner party, and all had partaken most freely of the wine, and, strange as it may seem, the subject that came up for discussion was the Mohammedan religion. The Mussulmans believe in fate. To them a man's fate is written above, and the time of his death is set, and nothing can advance it. Well, this belief had been discussed long and earnestly. The pros and cons had been gone over at length, till one officer wanted to know of what was reason if every one was born with a tag of destiny attached. One officer finally arose and said there was no use of discussing the matter any further. The only way was to make a practical test of the question, and he would give himself as a subject. Could a man willfully dispose of his life when the fatal moment had been chosen at his birth from above?

He could get no one to try the experiment on him. Finally a wager was made. "Who will pay you if I lose?" said the subject as he drew his pistol and showed that it was loaded. He placed the pistol against his temple and pulled the trigger. The pistol missed fire. "A joke," yelled the crowd. The fatalist smiled, and, recocking the pistol, aimed it with a steady hand at the clock on the wall. He fired, and the bullet crashed through the center of the dial.

"Apologize to me now," he said. "I have won the bet. I always believed in fate."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

At one time during the life of John Bright there were no fewer than seven members of his family with seats in the House of Commons.

Cures Talk

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, catarrh and malaria.

Such Cures as This Prove Merit.

"My little nephew was a plump and healthy baby until a year and a half old then some broke out behind his ears and spread rapidly over his head, hands and body. A physician said the trouble was scrofula humor in the blood. We had to restrain his hands to keep him from scratching the sores. We were induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time he had more life. He improved rapidly, his skin became entirely clear of sores and he is now a healthy child." MRS.
