Even the most indifferent perusal of North Carolina exchanges will convince the reader that the circus is the leading topic of local interest.

While the Charlotte Observer as it claims is not "controversial," yet it keeps carrying a chip around on its shoulder and invites someone to knock it off.

If the Raleigh News-Observer's "specials" from other counties of the State have as little basis as those it credits from Craven county, its "outrage" news editor ought to be put on the retired list.

CHARLES A. DANA, DEAD.

"Charles Anderson Dana, Editor of the Sun, died yesterday afternoon."

Nothing could be more characteristic of the late great editor of the New York Sun, than the above brief notice which appeared at the head of the editorial columns of the Monday issue of the Sun.

As in life, so in death, Charles A. Dana did think differently from other men, and instead of turned rules in his paper, with extended comments of the press, and hundreds of letters and telegrams from mourning friends, a sentence of ten words said it all.

Mr. Dana was a great editor in the way that he made his paper reflect his own individuality, for in every column of the Sun is exhibited the unmistakable finger and thought of Dana.

There was always too much Dana in the Sun for that paper to be considered a political power, in fact to have the Sun on the side of a candidate was regarded as a certain hoodoo.

Nothing could be more erratic than Mr. Dana's political course; against Grant, favoring Greeley; against Hancock, favoring Butler, and championing Tammany Hall and Tweedism.

Throughout the war, Mr. Dana was held in very high esteem and favor by President Lincoln, and yet probably every succeeding President has received a scolding from his keen pen.

In the newspaper work of the Sun, Mr. Dana was ever resourceful, and made its columns readable to a large class of readers who took to his paper for its news matter, while the had no sympathy for its position on political and national questions.

There can be no question that Mr. Dana made a distinct impression on the journalism of his time, elevating it and showing by his grand command of the English language, that simple plain words had more strength in them, than the vulgarisms and slang too current in the editorial columns of the press today.

In his moral courage Mr. Dana stood unquestioned, and his thorough Americanism was sincere and hearty, no matter what political party he might advocate.

In his death, as during his 78 years of life, Mr. Dana continued to simply represent himself, and with him passed a rugged journalism of individuality and character, which will not again be seen in journalistic fields.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Stands at the Head. Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Mr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Mr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at F. S. Duff's Drug Store.

Railroad Ticket Slot Machine.

There is a novel little convenience in most of the German railway stations which might be adopted by the railways of the United States. Passengers for suburban stations, instead of going to the regular ticket office and standing in line for several minutes, sometimes so long that they miss their train, can go to an automatic box, and by dropping a nickel in the slot or a coin equivalent to the amount of the fare, can supply themselves with a ticket in an instant. There are rows of these boxes erected against the wall in convenient locations. The name of the town is painted in large letters, and underneath the price of the ticket. If it happens to be a mark, you slip the coin into the slot and press the button, and a cardboard ticket falls into the receiver, which the passenger picks up, passing on without the slightest delay. The whole transaction does not occupy half a minute, and the automatic machine never makes a mistake in the ticket or the change.—Chicago Record.

The Lost Queue

The story is told that there has recently died in the East End of London an old gentleman (a centenarian) who is locally reported to be the last person in England to wear that curious fashion of headdress common in George III's time, a "pigtail."

With his queer little queue of white hair, natty tied behind with a knot of blue ribbon, his corded knee breeches and low buckle shoes, a large flowered waistcoat down to his hips, and plum-colored open coat that showed the big frilled shirt and tight stock, the old man was a picturesque feature amid squalid surroundings.

He had been considered quite a dandy in his youth. He was very vain of his tail, and often prided himself, in his weak, quavering voice, of being "the only gentleman left that was dressed as a real gentleman should be."

His sole regret was that he was obliged to have his hair braided by others, when his own hands grew too feeble to perform the duty; but to the very last he always chose his own particular tint of hair ribbon, a certain "correct" shade of dark indigo blue.—Pearson's Weekly.

How to be Beautiful.

To be beautiful, you must have pure blood and good health. To do so, purify the blood and build up the health with the best Tonic and Blood Purifier of the age, Botanic Blood Balm ("B. B. B."). It is the old standard and reliable remedy. It never fails to cure all manner of Blood and Skin diseases, where eminent physicians, and all other known remedies have failed. Send stamps for box of particulars, to the Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Price $1.00 per large bottle.

A lady friend of mine has for several years been troubled with bumps and pimples on her face and neck, for which she used various cosmetics in order to remove them and to beautify and improve her complexion, but these local applications were only temporary, and left her skin in worse condition.

I recommend an internal preparation—known as Botanic Blood Balm, (B. B. B.) which I have been using and selling about two years, she uses three hot baths and all pimples have disappeared; her skin is soft and smooth and her general health is much improved. She expresses herself much gratified, and can recommend it to all who are thus afflicted. Mrs. S. M. WILSON, Iron Mountain, Texas.

Dear Druggist. "These druggists are robbers. I just had a prescription filled, and they charged me two dollars for it." Robbins—"Oh! That is easy. Why, I had a doctor's prescription filled the other day that cost me seventy five dollars!" Dobbins—"Heavens." Robbins—"Yes; the doctor prescribed a bicycle for my wife, and I had to get it for her"—Pack.

The Mannish Woman.

A masculine woman has always been the abhorrence of men and women alike. She is as repellent to nature as an effeminate man. The woman who dresses in mannish garb, who walks with a stride, who talks in a loud, harsh voice, who assumes an air of business importance, who is always threatening to do things that are unrefined or difficult because they have been men's privilege, is a subject of amusement to some and of aversion to others.—Brooklyn Eagle.

We will not without charge in a plain sealed envelope a pamphlet that tells it all. Nothing sent unasked. No expense, no deception. Address: ERIE MEDICAL CO., 64 NIAGARA STREET, BUFFALO, N. Y.
