THE STATE FAIR.

A visit to and examination of the various exhibits made at the annual State Fair, which was held last week at Raleigh, was a good opportunity for every North Carolinian to see what his State could produce.

In point of real merit and extent, the State Fair exhibition of 1897 has probably never been equalled.

The weather was against all out of door shows, especially horse and other races.

The exhibits were of every kind, and those from the farms of Biltmore, Alamance and Occaneechee, were of an extent and variety to make a fair of themselves.

A criticism might be made that the exhibits on account of lack of space were not as attractively displayed as they might otherwise have been.

There is one thing in regard to the State Fair this year, which demands attention and deserves a criticism which shall lead to its being done away with in all future State Fairs, and that was the conspicuous and public offering for sale during the Fair, of the poultry raised at the State Agricultural Experiment Station.

It was with satisfaction that the JOURNAL learned that this was done against the protests of the Fair Management, and that the present State Administration was the author of this innovation.

A moment's thought and reflection will show the injustice of thus having the State competing against the poultry breeders of the State.

The Agricultural Station is kept up at the expense of the tax-payers.

The various experiments which are made there are for the benefit of the people of the State, for them to see and learn the way of improving their crops, cattle, hogs and poultry and many other matters on their farms.

The Agricultural Station is not sustained at State expense to raise anything in order to compete in the markets with the producers of the State, but instead its object is to encourage and educate the producer, and assist him in raising larger and better products than he did before.

At the State Fair this year, every coop of fowls from the Agricultural Station was labelled "for sale," and poultry raisers, and every thinking person, could not help seeing the injustice which was done poultry raisers, the State coming into the open market as a competitor against those who made poultry raising a regular business.

Unless this abuse, and it is little else, be repealed, poultry breeders in the State will not likely send their fowls to future State Fairs.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Out His Corn at Night.

Washington Sands of Robeson, Berks county, Pa., was the most surprised farmer in this section of Pennsylvania recently. Mr. Sands has been in ill health for some time, and in consequence his farm work has not been attended to as it should have been. His corn, in an immenso field, being over ripe, required speedy shocking, but farm labor is scarce in this section, and this work was neglected.

All day Friday Mr. Sands worked as hard as his poor health permitted, and quit very tired that night. After the moon had risen about thirty neighbors gathered in his corn field and industriously worked until after midnight, when the corn was all in shocks next morning, when Mr. Sands went to the field, he was astonished to find his task completed.—New York Times.

Cut this out and take to your druggist and get a sample bottle free of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, Coughs and Colic. This is no experiment, and would be disastrous to the proprietors, did they not know it would invariably cure. Many of the best physicians are now using it in their practice with great results, and are relying on it in most severe cases. It is guaranteed. Trial bottles free at F. S. Duffy's Drug Store. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00.

A Self-Supporting Farmer.

Greenville county has one farmer (and doubtless many more) who has never bought western wheat and western flour. There is little that this farmer and his family consume that is not raised at home. Not even does his table rice come from Georgia or Beaufort. It is a Greenville county product and it is said the low country rice is not superior to it. This gentleman makes his own syrup. He makes his own oats and barley and he produces a large number of bales of cotton. The horses and mules that he works are native to his farm. He has been known to saw timber from his own forest and send it to a factory, getting a part of it back in the form of furniture. This farmer is not a great politician. He is not even a free silver man. He reads the newspaper carefully. He is not poor. He is not dependent. But he is a very busy man. He is so poor that he rarely has a day to spend away from his own large plantation or plantations. He is on his farm with the regularity that a cashier is at his desk in a bank and as many days in the year and as many hours in the day. There are farmers who are able to indulge in more leisure than is this Greenville farmer, but in other respects they are poorer than he is.—Greenville (S. C.) News.

POSITIVE PROOF

A lady friend of mine has for several years been troubled with bumps and pimples on her face and neck, for which she used various cosmetics in order to remove them and beautify and improve her complexion; but these local applications were only temporary, and left her skin in worse condition.

I recommend an internal preparation—known as Botanic Blood Balm, (B. B. B.) which I have been using and selling about two years; she used three bottles and all her pimples have disappeared; her skin is soft and smooth and her general health is much improved. She expresses herself much gratified, and can recommend it to all who are thus afflicted. Mrs. S. M. Wilson, Iron Mountain, Texas.

"Why not?" "Ye've heard about how ye orter beware of a two faced man?"

"Yes." "Well, after seeing all the different pictures of him in the newspapers, I've come to the conclusion that he's a 17 faced man at the lowest calculation."—Washington Star.

LITTLE MONEY IN MEAT.

How Restaurant Proprietors Suffer From the Make Up of Meats Cards.

"If all restaurant proprietors," said one of them, who has been well known as the owner of a Broadway eating place for the last ten years, "could only induce their customers to eat less meat they not only would make more money, but they would give better satisfaction all around. In the first place, there is little or no money for the restaurant keeper in selling boiled or roast meats. It costs too much to handle them and requires too much time to prepare them and serve them as they should be to leave any profit for the man who does it."

"And in the second place the patrons order meats when they would much prefer something else. That is the fault of the proprietor. He arranges his menu wrong. The small steaks, the chops and the cutlets and all the other meats 'to order' are placed too conspicuously on the bill of fare. A man's eye is bound to catch that list first, whether the man wants meat or not. Being in a hurry, as 99 men out of 100 are in the country, he orders the first attractive dish he finds, and the result is he gets something he does not care particularly about and something which the restaurant man does not care particularly about selling to him."

"Last winter the man who runs the restaurant in the national house of representatives tried an experiment which turned out remarkably well. He deliberately set to work to lure his patrons away from the 'steaks and chops to order' column, and so instead of printing it in bold black letters in the middle of the bill of fare he tucked it away down in the lower right hand corner and placed at the top of the card a list of the dishes that were most profitable to him. They proved not only to be most profitable to him, but most satisfactory to his customers, and instead of using six loins of meat a day, as he had done before, he used only one and a half and supplied the same number of guests."

HOPE!

Victims of malignant Blood Poison and Scrofula were formerly looked upon as lost. Fearful of contagion, their friends denied them companionship and medical ignorance denied them hope. Their life was worse than death and their only relief the grave. Many such cases were especially sad from the fact that the sufferers contracted disease by accident or heredity and through no fault of their own.

Modern civilization looks with sympathetic consideration upon all cases of blood poisoning, and medical science, after groping for centuries in darkness, has finally evolved a cure. Despair vanishes like an evil spirit. Hope shines forth like a glorious sunrise.
