WHERE IS THE PARIS?

Will the Oregon Save Our Commerce.

Flying Squadron Shows Signs of Moving at Midnight.

SPAIN'S FLEET INACTIVE.

Changes in the Cabinet Expected This Week. All World Watching the Conflict. London Excited Over the Fate of the Paris.

Story of "The Paris."

Special to Journal. New York, April 23.—The great interest of the day in Naval matters centered in the possible capture of the magnificent American line "City of Paris," which the United States government chartered to be used as an auxiliary fast cruiser.

The Paris left Southampton on Friday for New York. She was armed with light rapid fire guns. Then followed thrilling reports by cablegrams of the attempt at the capture of the Paris by the Spaniards which were received throughout the day and night.

A subsequent account told that Spanish warships stopped the Paris in the English channel after coming out from behind the Isle of Wight, and the steamer whirled around and returned to a port at Tolland on the South Coast of England.

This account of the safety of the Paris by reaching port has not been confirmed by word from Tolland bay.

According to the dispatch received from Belfast, Ireland, at the moment the Paris was leaving Southampton, England, a Spanish torpedo boat left Queenstown, Ireland, and meeting the steamer on her westward course made a capture of the vessel.

The London account was that the Paris passed the Lizard bound out from Southampton at 2 p. m., and that the vessel was sighted from Isle of Wight, inside the Needles, where the Spanish dispatch boats were in pursuit. The vessels were then lost to sight.

All these reports of the fate of the Paris have caused much anxiety. At the offices of the American line, in this city, President Wright of the company says tonight that he does not believe that the Paris is captured. The vessel is too fast, says President Wright, and he thinks that she has put into Tolland Bay, where she is safe.

In apparent confirmation of the views of President Wright, a cablegram was received in New York from Southampton at 5 p. m., this afternoon saying that the Paris was safe in Tolland bay after an exciting chase by a Spanish cruiser which the steamer out ran.

Yet at 6 p. m. at the American line office in this city no word confirmatory of the safety of the Paris is yet received. The Paris has nearly 200 passengers on board and is valued at over $2,000,000. Inquiry at the office of the company tonight again at 9 o'clock develops the fact that the fate of the Paris is yet unknown, and fears for the safety of the steamer are still entertained.

Oregon Must Have Them.

Seventeen merchantmen belonging to the United States are threatened by the Spanish torpedo destroyer Tommerire last reported lying at Buenos Ayres in the Argentine Republic. These merchant vessels are bound from various South American ports and will be threatened by the Spanish boat unless the battleship Oregon arrives on the scene in time to save them.

The Oregon is somewhere around Cape Horn and unaware of the outbreak of war. She came around the Horn instead of through the Straits of Magellan.

Spain Gets One.

The American vessel "Shenandoah," loaded with a cargo of wheat, is reported from London as captured off the west coast of England. The capture was effected in the Irish Channel by a Spanish cruiser. This was sent out early in day as a report, but later the loss of the vessel is confirmed.

The "Shenandoah" was a large sailing vessel loaded with grain and has four masts.

But We Get Five.

The list of Spanish vessels captured by the Key West fleet numbers five. The first capture was the Buena Ventura, about one hour after the sailing of the squadron. The Nashville took the prize to Key West.

The cruiser New York captured the Spanish steamer "Pedro," at first it was reported to be the Alfonso XII with 1,000 Spanish soldiers on board, but it turned out to be the Pedro.

The captured vessel was brought into port by a United States torpedo boat. Two steamers belonging to the Ward liners were made captive by the Key West fleet. Their arrival is not reported.

Late this afternoon, at about 6 o'clock, the gunboat Nashville was seen coming into Key West with still another prize. This was believed at first to be the much wanted Alfonso XII, or a Porto Rico mail steamer. It was reported later that the capture was the Porto Rico mail steamer.

Not Lost.

The reports of the loss of the American cruiser Topeka is pronounced untrue.

The Topeka is the newly acquired English made cruiser, formerly the Diogenes and renamed by the United States. She sailed from Falmouth last Tuesday, and was said to have foundered after coming in collision with a bark at midnight.

It has finally been learned that the collision of the bark Albatross, reported to have been with the cruiser Topeka, was with a British steamer named the Jesmond.

Avoiding Our Fleet.

Washington dispatches from Galveston contain the statement of Capt. Barnett of the British steamer "Odeon," which has just arrived at Galveston from the Canary Islands, giving a remarkable instance of the cowardice of the Spanish sailors.

The Captain says: "My vessel arrived at the Palmas on March 31st, two days after the Spanish torpedo flotilla left there. I was reliably informed that the machinery of the several of the Spanish torpedo boats had been badly damaged purposely by their own engineers to prevent their being ordered across the Atlantic with the probable result of a naval battle with the American warships.

The boats so disabled could not cross the Atlantic. Repairs that were made on the vessels were done in local shops. The engineers of the Spanish vessels not being allowed to do the work."

The captain adds that the flotilla left Los Palmas March 29, destination unknown. They will not meet the American fleet if it can be avoided, but will capture any stray American vessel that is if possible for them to do.

The steamer Mangrove is laying a cable from Key West to Cuba, and will cut the one now running to Havana.

The torpedo boat Somers, purchased in Germany, and which met with an accident while entering an English dock, has been repaired and is now ready to sail for this country.

The German press condemns the United States for entering upon the war with Spain.

The monitor Puritan joined the blockading fleet off Havana today. The monitor Amphitrite sailed with the fleet yesterday, and the monitor Terror still remains at Key West.

GOVERNMENT PLANS.

Complete Break up in Cabinet Probable. The Volunteers. What General Miles Says.

Cabinet Changes.

Special to Journal. WASHINGTON, April 23.—Secretary Sherman will resign Monday and Assistant Secretary Day will be appointed to succeed him as Secretary of State. Day is regarded as a very capable man.

It is however stated in Washington tonight that in the event of the resignation of Secretary Sherman, that the entire cabinet of President McKinley will be reformed.

Doubts of Judge Day accepting the office are expressed as it is known that he recently informed the President that he would resign his present position as assistant Secretary if the status of the Cuban situation would allow.

Charles Emory Smith is said to be slated to the post of premier in such a case. Smith had just been appointed to the place vacated by Postmaster General Oary, and several other changes would necessarily follow that appointment. He has been former Minister to Russia, and is editor of the Philadelphia Press.

The Volunteers.

The call for a hundred thousand volunteers will not be made until Monday, the President announces. The President has signed the volunteer bill.

General Miles says that the volunteers must not be sent to Cuba until after a month's drill. This is for the purpose of hardening the men to camp life.

The call may be for 135,000 volunteers instead of 100,000 on Monday. General

Griggs says that the call will be for two years service unless sooner discharged. The quota to each State will be as previously announced.

British Protest.

It is stated tonight that the protest of the British government against the seizure of the Buena Ventura yesterday by the Key West fleet will be based upon the ground that the vessel carried neutral goods.

Congress passed the bill to raise a revenue of five hundred million dollars.

LATEST!

Paris Believed to be Safe. Spanish Fleet Still Quiet. Flying Squadron Probably Blocked.

(I. A. M.)

More of the Paris.

Special to Journal. New York, April 24.—The latest dispatches from London say that the interest there in the safety of the steamer Paris is as great as in America, but there is no confirmation of her alleged safety in Tolland bay.

Nothing new or definite was heard from concerning the ship at ten o'clock tonight in this city. It was feared that she had been captured or there would have been a report received at the New York office.

On the other hand, a cablegram from London at midnight says that it is evident that the report of the capture of the Paris is untrue. It is believed that Captain Watkins would land her safely at New York a week hence. It is believed that the Paris is now rapidly pursuing an unusual course to New York, and nothing can be told of her until her arrival or non-arrival there on time.

No Fight at Havana.

Up to a late hour tonight the government makes no mention of any firing by forts or warships at Havana last night or today.

No naval battle is believed to have been fought off the Florida coast as told in the dispatches of the Associated Press from Jacksonville.

Now Contradicted.

The alleged capture of the sailing vessel "Shenandoah" in the Irish Channel by a Spanish cruiser is now doubted.

The Spanish Fleet.

Although advices from London asserted the sailing of the Spanish fleet from the Cape Verde Islands, a cablegram at midnight from St. Vincent states that the Spanish torpedo flotilla and warships are still there with no signs of immediate sailing.

Flying Squadron.

At Fort Monroe, at midnight the guns on the warships are being fired to warn all to be on board the Flying Squadron. It is believed that the squadron is about to sail under sealed orders.

The States of New York, Massachusetts, Maryland and Michigan were called on to furnish Naval Reserves for the Morgan liners to be immediately sent to join the San Francisco which is now patrolling the Atlantic sea coast.

It is thought that some vessels of the Key West fleet of Captain Sampson will blockade Porto Rico without waiting for assistance from the flying squadron.

The Volunteers.

A late dispatch from Atlanta says that the officers of the department of the gulf have received orders from Gen'l Miles that the entire army volunteers are to be called out Monday and will be mobilized at Atlanta.

TROOPS AT RALEIGH.

To Be Mobilized Tomorrow. State Guards First.

Special to Journal.

RALEIGH, April 23.—Arrangements were completed today for the mobilization of the State troops on the Grimes place near Raleigh.

Russell will issue the call for the mobilization of the troops Monday.

Major Hayes telegraphs Governor Russell today that the call of the President for 125,000 troops, to be issued Monday means that the State troops will be called on first.

The call on the States for troops which they will be required to furnish will be held back until Monday. The proclamation of the President calls upon men for two years service, to be proportioned among the States and territories according to their population.

THE RUSSELL GUARDS.

Negro Company Organizing. Jim Young Wants to Command a Regiment.

Special to Journal.

RALEIGH, April 23.—The negroes of Raleigh have revived their military company and have named it the Russell Guards. A negro saloon keeper named James Hamlin is elected captain.

The company has nightly drills, and want to participate in the Spanish war and help free the negroes on the island.

Jim Young today asked Russell to appoint him co-captain of a negro regiment which he expects will be formed in this State.

Young stated to your correspondent tonight that he could raise a negro regiment here in Raleigh, but his opinion doesn't coincide with the views expressed by the negroes generally, who say that the Cuban negroes must fight for their own freedom. As a rule the negroes seem to have no love for the smell of gunpowder.

STATE GUARDS.

May go to Atlanta at Once. State to Furnish 2,480 Men.

Special to Journal.

RALEIGH, April 23.—A special to the Post from Washington tonight from Major Hayes of this city, says that he had a long interview today with Adjutant General Corbin relative to the calling out, equipping and moving of the North Carolina troops. Under the 125,000 call of the President, the quota for this State is 2,480. This number will be called for next week.

Corbin stated the troops would be sent to Atlanta immediately. This would seem to interfere with Governor Russell's plan to mobilize and drill the troops at Raleigh.

The sending of the troops to Atlanta is believed to be a part of the new plan, announced from Washington today under the orders of General Miles.
