THE RIDDLE OF THINGS THAT ARE.

We walk in a world where no man needs The riddle of things that are,
From a tiny fern in the valley's heart To the light of the largest star,
Yet we know that the pressure of life is hard
And the silence of death is deep
As we find and see the riddle of things that are
That leads to the gates of Sleep.

We know that the problems of sin and pain
And the passions that lead to crime
Are the mysteries locked from age to age
In the awful vault of Time,
Yet we lift our weary feet and strive
Through the mire and dust to grope
And find a ledge on the mountain of Faith
In the morning land of Hope.

RICHES IN TRIFLES.

Some Big Fortunes That Have Come From Little Inventions.

It has become almost an axiom with the majority that larger fortunes are to be raised from some simple invention than from difficult and expensive inventions that involve a great outlay of money to manufacture. This is to a certain extent true. A certain American patent for fastening kid gloves has yielded a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars for its fortunate owner, and the inventor of a collar class enjoys $20,000 royalty a year as the reward for his endeavor. A new kind of sleeve button has made $50,000 in five years for its inventor, and the simple twisting of safety pins in such a way that there is no possible danger of the point sticking in the child promises to enrich its inventor beyond any of his early dreams of wealth. A man one day turned a piece of wire so as to hold a cork more securely in a bottle and forthwith somebody saw a brilliant idea and patented the modern wire stopper holder, which is now used annually on several million bottles. The accidental bending of a hairpin by a woman to prevent it from sliding out of her hair so easily produced a fortune for her husband, who immediately saw the possibilities of a crinkled hairpin for women.

Instances could be multiplied indefinitely of large fortunes being made from small inventions, but fortunately for those inventors who make a life study of intricate problems of mechanics and disdain to waste their talents upon trivial, popular articles of the day there is often also ample reward held in store for the products that take years to produce and which revolutionize existing methods of industry and mechanics.

Edison has reaped honors and riches of a princely character for his discovery of the incandescent lamp. McCormick has realized in his reaper the fortunes of a millionaire; the Corliss engine brought honors and decorations to its inventor and enabled him to amass a great fortune in a few years; Professor Bell found in his telephone not only the consummation of his early hopes and ambitions, but a substantial pecuniary reward; harveized steel armor has become synonymous with the inventor's name, and it brings an annual income of huge proportions to its discoverer; Elias Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, realized over $2,000,000 from his inventions, and Nikola Tesla, though still young and rich in promises, finds an abundance of money in his work.—George Ethelbert Walsh in Cassier's Magazine.

Whooping Cough.

I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses of that remedy I noticed an improvement and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house.—J. L. Moore, South Burgetstown, Pa. For sale by F. S. Duffy.

Economy.

Claude—I thought you were not going to pay more than $50 for a wheel.

Discouraging.

Bob—"What's the matter? Has the hellus refused you?"
Dick—"Well, I don't know as you could call it a refusal exactly, but we had hardly got seated in the parlor before she said it was a pity that all our best men had gone to war."

Many soldiers now feel the effects of the hard service they endured during the war. Mr. Geo. S. Anderson, of Rossville, York county, Penn., who saw the hardest kind of service at the front, is now frequently troubled with rheumatism. "I had a severe attack lately," he says, "and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It did so much good that I would like to know what you would charge me for one dozen bottles." Mr. Anderson wanted it both for his own use and to supply it to his friends and neighbors, as every family should have a bottle of it in their home, not only for rheumatism, but for lame back, sprains, swellings, cuts, bruises and burns, for which it is unequalled. For sale by F. S. Duffy.

Didn't Fool the Old Man.

A somewhat reckless youth who had enlisted for the war and had spent his time in camp in writing home for money finally sent this telegram as a clincher: "Father: Leg shot off in sham battle. Send all funds you can." To this the old man replied: "Son: Don't know your number, but wooden leg goes to you by express. If doesn't fit, get camp carpenter to plane it. Love. All here well."

A Bad Balance.

He was making a hollow pretense of being hungry at breakfast.
"Had to stay at the office to balance the books last night, my dear," he remarked.
She was gazing gloomily out of the window, and through the lawn there were divers tracks.
"I hope the books were better balanced than yourself, when you got through," she answered, not without bitterness.

Know It All.

"By the way, Tom," said Mr. Manning to his son, fresh from academic groves, "I have been thinking the matter over, and I have come to the conclusion that I had better go to school somewhere and run it. It cannot help improving under the eye of one so gifted as yourself."—Boston Transcript.

Small Tommy's Wish.

Small Tommy was very fond of candy and asked, "Mamma, can God make anything he wants to?"
"Of course he can," was the reply.
"Well," exclaimed the little fellow, "I'd just like to see him make a stick of candy with only one end to it."—Memphis Scimitar.

General Wheeler.

In response to the query of a newspaper man who asked him how he felt to be again wearing the blue uniform, General "Joe" Wheeler, the ex-Confederate officer, who has taken a command in the United States army, replied: "I feel as if I had been on a furlough and had just got back."

Another Case of Rheumatism Cured by Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

My son was afflicted with rheumatism which contracted his right limb until he was unable to walk. After using one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm he was able to be about again. I can heartily recommend it to persons suffering from rheumatism.—John Barstow, Freed, Calhoun Co., W. Va. For sale by F. S. Duffy.
