SANTIAGO CAMPAIGN.

The Landing of Troops Going on Yesterday.

INSURGENTS GIVE AID.

Desperate Resistance Expected From the Spanish Army.

A Battle Likely to Take Place by Saturday. The Fleet Will Continue to Shell All Points. Blanco Afraid to Exchange Men.

Fighting Ahead.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—General Miles says that he expects that there will be hard and bloody fighting in the attack on Santiago. He believes that the Spaniards will put up a desperate resistance to the advance of the American army.

It is now believed in Washington from advices received that the Spanish troops at Santiago are greatly underestimated in numbers and that it may be necessary to hurry reinforcements to General Shafter's aid to secure a successful issue of the campaign.

Fighting is expected to begin in earnest about Friday or Saturday although skirmishing between the troops while landing and the resisting Spaniards is constantly occurring.

Landing in Force.
American troops were landing today at Bainzire which is seventeen miles east of Santiago.

The vanguard of the landing forces consists of three thousand men. They were protected while disembarking from the transports by the fire from Admiral Sampson's fleet. At the same time vessels of the fleet were bombarding Aguadores, Cabanas, Siborney, and Inragua, which are fortified places necessary to be cleared of Spanish soldiers before the advance is made on Santiago.

The reported landing of the American army in Santiago province, is confirmed by a dispatch to General Miles from Lieut. Colonel Allen.

Cubans Are There.

Great assistance is being rendered by the Cuban Insurgents. General Castillo covered the disembarkation. When the disembarkation of the American troops began the Spaniards were made the targets of a heavy fire from the rapid fire guns of the fleet, and a rain of bullets was poured in on them from the Cubans.

Naval officers estimate that fully a day, and perhaps two, will be required to effect the landing of the entire army and the large number of animals accompanying the expedition, the successful landing of the latter being much the more difficult operation.

Blanco Denies.

General Blanco denies that he has decided that there shall be no exchange of prisoners between Spain and the United States.

What he says is that prudence forbids that Lieut. Hobson and his men be given their liberty at the present time.

In the Senate today Senator Davis of Minnesota introduced a resolution directing that the Secretary of War inform the Senate whether Lieut. Hobson and the crew of the Merrimack are confined within the line of fire from the American fleet.

Senator Davis also introduced a resolution inquiring as to whether the American dead were mutilated during the attack on the marines at Guantanamo.

In regard to this point however, the surgeon of Admiral Sampson's fleet reports definitely that the supposed mutilation was caused by the steel clad bullets of the Mauser rifles used by the Spanish forces.

Food and Supplies.

After carrying the reinforcements ordered from Newport News to General Shafter at Santiago, the cruisers Yale and Harvard will remain in Cuban waters and be used to carry food and supplies from the Florida coast to the army in Cuba.

The steamship Campana is sold to the government to be used as a transport and left tonight for Tampa.

It is now announced that the third

Manila expedition will not get under way tomorrow and probably not until Monday. General Merritt will accompany this last and probably final expedition to the Philippines.

What We Will Do.
PARIS, June 21.—Germany's retutation of any intention to intervene in the Philippines is received only half-heartedly here.

England's action in the case may be regarded as friendly to America, but, as to France's and Russia's attitude, the situation is not so clear.

France's action would depend upon what Russia did. Germany might, therefore, again succeed in swinging France into line for the furtherance of her far Eastern policy. It is palpable that the German Emperor has some hidden line of conduct which he is pursuing with regard to the Malay archipelago. Whatever it may be, the mere idea of his interference in the question is regarded here as likely to unite all sections of the United States in favor of annexation pure and simple. A decision of this kind would probably bring about a disposition of the powers, with Germany, France and Russia on one side and the United States and England on the other.

English opinion sees no alternative to annexation. The Daily Graphic's leader yesterday may be taken as typical. It says:

"America must either restore the islands to Spain when the war is over, or she must give political independence to the population. The first would be a sin against the fundamental justification for the war. The other would produce a state of affairs infinitely worse than has existed under the Spaniards."

Like Earthquakes.

Guantanamo, June 21.—Two Spanish soldiers who were captured between Santiago and Guantanamo reported to General Castillo that food is scarce in the former city. The supply of flour has been exhausted and bread is made of rice and cornmeal.

The prisoners state that shells from the Vesuvius caused absolute horror in Santiago, where the people say that the Americans throw earthquakes into the harbor at night. None of these shells struck the city. One hit the battery on Cayo Smith, demolishing it, blowing the guns over the front of the works and killing the whole garrison. The shock was felt in Santiago itself.

Notice has been posted in the woods by Cuban scouts, saying that Spanish soldiers who surrender will be well treated.

The marine camp is now well entrenched and able to resist any attack. The health of the troops and of the men in the fleet is excellent. It is reported that there are many sick and wounded in the Spanish forces.

Difficult to Land.

Washington, June 21.—The disembarkation of troops will be a task far greater in the work involved and time required than was the embarkation at Tampa, where the thirty-five transports lay alongside docks and the men, horses and mules could be marched right aboard.

Off the south Cuba coast the surf runs high and in shore there are breakers, which will make the landing of men and animals dangerous and troublesome, although with care there is not expected to be loss of either.

The troop ships must necessarily remain at a considerable distance from the shore, owing to their draught and to escape the effect of the breakers, and also where ample sea room may be afforded in event of a sudden change of weather. Possibly, therefore, every landing party will have a cruise of at least one mile before the shore is reached and the boats hauled up.

Twenty-five thousand American troops will be on Cuban soil by the first week in July. If by that time Santiago is taken practically the entire army will then be transported to Porto Rico, where the investment is to begin. Five thousand left at Santiago, it is believed, will be sufficient, with the insurgents, to hold the prisoners, until they can be sent home on parole.

IN THE CAMP.

Many of the Soldiers in Hospital The Mobilization of Colored Troops, University Hall Large.

JOURNAL BUREAU, Raleigh, N. C., June 22. There is very just complaint from the 2nd Regiment here that the negroes at Fort Macon should have been paid off, and they not to have received a cent. It seems more than strange and surely needs explanation.

It was noted yesterday that one of the captains of the Second Regiment would probably be court martialed. He was drunk and cursed one of the officers.

The Hospital is crowded with patients. Most of them are sick from vaccination. There is some malarial fever in camp and one severe attack of brain fever. In spite of the efforts of the ladies of Raleigh there is but little comfort in the Hospital. It is not kept neatly at all and some of the cots have not even sheets. Raleigh is abused badly all over the State about things generally, but they but few realize all that Raleigh people are called upon to do. In this instance they have furnished all the delicacies for the sick, many sheets for the cots and innumerable garments for the soldiers in camp. Is there to be no credit given to the Soldiers Relief Association for their work?

The Second Regiment is not yet fully equipped.

The Y. M. C. A. is doing a fine work out at Camp Russell.

Postmaster Bailey in addition to needing another letter carrier, also needs a night clerk. With four through mails leaving here after midnight, no letter, as it is, can be posted after 9 o'clock, and got off during the night.

The enrollment of 508 students at the University this year is the largest in its history.

A hitch seems to have come in the naming of the Brigadier General. Anyhow his name has not as yet been sent to the Senate.

The place for the mobilization of the negro troops will be decided in a few days. There is only about room for 2 more companies at Fort Macon, so that they cannot be sent there. Charlotte wishes them there, while Wilmington is indifferent. The officers to command these new volunteers have been selected, but Governor Russell will not give but the names for several weeks.

Rev. Mr. Osborne, Chaplain of the 2nd Regiment was on Sunday presented by the regiments with full vestments. Captain McRae of Wilmington made the presentation speech. Col. Burgwynne also made a short speech. Mr. Osborne very gratefully replied to the kindness, and fully appreciates the gift.
