SPAIN REPLIES

Lengthy Message With Some Changes Asked For.

ADVANCE ON SAN JUAN.

Cessation of Hostilities Likely At Any Time. Arrival of Santiago Troops. Probable that Commanders Have Orders to Avoid Conflict.

Special to Journal.
WASHINGTON, August 8.—Spain's reply to the conditions of peace made by the United States has been received in Washington.

Several new changes are in the reply. The message is very long and several hours are required in its translation.

The subject of the Cuban debt and the questions arising out of it is left open for future consideration.

It is considered necessary that the action of the Spanish Cortes is necessary to cede territory the houses will be convened for that purpose.

Miles Advances.
General Miles is steadily moving across the island of Porto Rico towards San Juan. In a short time the city will be besieged. The army is advancing in four columns. The fleet will shift from the southern coast to the San Juan side of the island to co-operate with the army.

Home Again.
The Sixth Cavalry has arrived at Montauk Point, where all of General Shafter's army are destined. Four transports sailed for Montauk point with troops from Santiago yesterday.

The First Regular Cavalry and the First Volunteer Cavalry, known as the "Rough Riders," sailed yesterday on the transports Miami and Matewan for Montauk Point, L. I.

About Over.
So far as fighting is concerned, the war is regarded in Washington as over. True, the Spanish government is still dilly-dallying about forwarding its official acceptance of our terms of peace, but it has caused President McKinley to be informed that it is acting for self-preservation, and not from any desire to delay the matter; that it must secure popular support at home in order to avoid a civil war.

That the administration has accepted this information in good faith may be judged from the fact that the transports which carried the army of Gen. Miles to Porto Rico, and which were to have been used to carry re-inforcements to Gen. Miles, have been ordered to Santiago to assist in bringing the men in Shafter's army home.

There is also reason for stating that Gen. Merritt and Admiral Dewey have orders not to do any fighting unless it is forced upon them. Although President McKinley is naturally anxious that Spain should accept the terms of peace at once, he would be perfectly willing to stretch the "immediate" evacuation of Cuba, provided for in the terms, considerably, as he would prefer not having to send an army of occupation to Cuba until well into September, after the sickly season is over.

Cuban Government.
The President of the Cuban Provisional government has written President McKinley a long letter, expressing thanks to and confidence in the United States, but the most important paragraph in the letter is that which outlines the intentions of the insurgents. It says: "Our first step, with the approval of the United States government, will be to call a new assembly which will represent, as far as possible, every section of territory and condition of people. This assembly will elect a new provisional government that will possess more power than the present one, which is, of necessity, a government of the revolution. But the result of the new assembly will be to form a government which will still be limited in power and whose important work will be the establishment of a permanent and complete government, founded on the lines of that of the United States, and one which, we hope, and have every reason to believe, will be satisfactory both to the United States and Cuba."

The prevailing impression in Washington is that Cuba will remain under United States Military government some time before the Cubans are allowed to make any experiment in the governing line.

Bring Bodies Home.
New York, August 8.—Secretary Alger has decided to have the bodies of the men who died or were killed at Santiago brought to this country. He has cabled to Santiago, giving orders to that effect.

This will be done as soon as the heat-temper is passed. It may be that, in order to avoid risks, the bodies of the men who died of yellow fever will not be taken up for some months, but as to the others there will be no delay. In the meantime Secretary Alger has given orders that the temporary headboards now marking the graves be replaced by more permanent ones, so that the identification may be complete.

When the bodies of the soldiers arrive here they will be turned over to relatives or buried in the national cemetery. Secretary Alger is determined that this work shall be prosecuted with all reasonable promptness.

ANOTHER CONVICT LEAVES.

Bankruptcy Referees. Big Mail Brewery to be Established. Army Notes.

JOURNAL BUREAU.
RALEIGH, N. C., August 7.
Judge Parnell will appoint one bankruptcy referee to each of the five districts into which he has divided the Eastern District. Young lawyers will be chosen as a rule. They will receive $10 a case with one per cent commission. The bankruptcy law will hardly go into effect really until after meeting of the U. S. Supreme Court as that can provide rules and regulations for its work.

In spite of the proposal of Senator Butler to combine the rates in this Congressional district on the present incumbent Stroud, the Republicans are not likely to cast a vote for him.

Mr. H. C. Brown, Railroad Commission clerk, mailed last month 1,188 letters. He has probably the biggest correspondence in the State.

There seems but little chance now for the North Carolina soldiers to see any more of war than they have seen. They will probably be kept at their present posts until they return home.

There are only 18 soldiers in the camp hospital now. Six were discharged Saturday.

There were many who went to Johnston street station yesterday to see the 9th Cavalry pass through over the Seaboard that secured the contract for transportation for 5 regiments from Tampa to New York.

Jim Young, the commander of the negro regiment at Fort Macon is here to try and prevent the issuance of an order for the negro troops to go to Santiago to help the immunes garrison the city. That will take too many Republican votes out of the State for Jim Young. The soldier (?) does not forget the duties of Jim Young the politician.

Another convict has gone off from the penitentiary. The guard went to mending while the convict ploughed in the outside garden and got near the woods leaving the horse and plough while he went into the shady woods. He had about 18 more months to serve.

A syndicate from Scranton, Penn., has a representative here to establish a brewery. About $100,000 will be put in it. Mr. Baumann, the representative, is well pleased with the work.

Again the opening of the Baptist Female University is postponed. It was hoped it would be ready for September, but it will be September year before completed. The Baptist Convention subscribed $15,000 and this will be due September 1st.

Private James Mace from the Nantahala Company of the 2nd Regiment is at the point of death here with typhoid fever at the camp hospital.
