GROWTH OF POPULATION.

In presenting a compilation of railroad statistics DUANE DOTY of the Pullman Car company says: "The habitable portion of the earth's surface, comprising only about twofifths of the land masses, even with the present imperfect agriculture, wood of Charing, in Kent, and Lady Temple of Stow. When the former died, present population of the world, or on May 10, 1620, aged 93, she counted 5,500,000,000 human beings, and grandchildren, 228 great-grandchildren this number will be reached 250 and 9 great-great-grandchildren. The years hence."

city to sustain population, but how does he know that the number of this planet's inhabitants will reach many thousands of years, and probably many millions, for the populaadded within 250 years.

Forty years ago or less very plausithe conclusion that it would considerably exceed 100,000,000 in 1900. These estimates were founded on the hypothesis that the rate of increase would continue to be the same that it had been up to 1860. There lay the error. The rate of increase has not been maintained.

Probably Mr. Doty falls into the error of making his estimate upon a similar assumption, though he does not let us into the secret of his processes. The fact in our case seems to demonstrate that even in new countries and during a period exceptionally favorable to an increase in population there is a retardation in the rate of increase.

The pressure of population upon the means of subsistence is extremely effective in checking increase, and its force is felt much sooner than Mr. Doty seems to think. The century just closing has been remarkable for the great development of means of subsistence. We have no assurance that the next century will witness anything like so great a development. There is nothing in the history of the race to warrant the expectation that such a rate of progress will be maintained. On the contrary, there is much which would lead us to expect an arrest of the wonderful material advancement we have recently witnessed. Therefore we cannot safely accept the rate of increase in population which has marked this century as established for all time or for 250 years. In view of what has happened in this country, which as yet is far from being densely populated, we are being densely populated, we are almost warranted in predicting a ingrapidly. Ten years ago there were greatly reduced rate of increase in only 15,000 residents in Jaffa; today there the not very remote future. - Chi- are nearly 60,000. cago Chronicle.

At the purty his epigrama, paradones and fiendish silvery laugh overwhelmed, as he intended, all the girls in sight or hearing, but he got through with his social duties as speedily as might be, then went and sat down on a distant fence.

Soon pencil studies lay all around him on the grass. Suddenly he felt a gentle tug at his back hair. He thought, "That is some fresh Alec trying to guy me," and he did not look up. The gentle tugging ceased, began aguin, became much stronger, and then he felt something wet, soft, slimy, on his neck. With a dreadful oath he lesped from the fence and looked behind him. Back there was a smart trnp, in which sat two girls and a young man laughing. The horses were close to the fence, and it was one of these that had commenced browsing on the actist's professional looks. THE HUMBLE BOY

He Bided His Time and Got Even

With His Tormentors.

One midsummer term an unfledged, weak kneed youngster presented himself at a well known public school and was immediately pounced upon by the boys and hauled off to be broken in. They practiced all the usual tricks upon him, and he bors them meekly—so meekly, in fact, that the boys were contemptuous and made scathing remarks about his effeminacy and lack of spirit.

After this he was taken to the lumber room and sternly commanded to black all the boots for the following day. The boys were supposed to attend to their own footgear, but the task generally fell to the lot of the weakest among them, and it was a favorite plan to order newcomers to do the work unaided. This particular new boy received the order resignedly and said, "Thank you, sir," quite hambly, when one of the monitors kicked him and told him to hurry along. He seemed almost overwhelmed with gratitude for the honor done to him and promised to discharge his duty manfully if he were only given sufficient time.

He was therefore left to himself, and ufficient time.

He was therefore left to himself, and He was therefore left to himself, and the boys went away in high feather, thanking their stars that a happy chance had sent such a willing slave to pander to their needs. An hour passed, and then it occurred to the monitor before mentioned to go and see how the new boy was getting on. He threw open the door of the lumber room, and a sight met his eyes which almost choked him.

The new boy had a white buckskin cricket boot in his hand and was busily covering it with blacking.

"You hig idiot, whatever are you doing?" screamed the monitor. "You're rubbing white boots instead of black ones."

"Yes, sir, I am," answered the new boy with studied innocence. "That's what you wished me to do, isn't lif. The others are black enough, so I thought I'd get through the white ones first, I've polished 15 pairs, but they don't look very nice somehow."

The monitor stormed and raved, but he could not renew the color of the cricket and tennis boots, and their owners had to make the best of a bad job. They've given up trying to score off guileless new boys now.—Chums.

croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have Eskay's Albumonized Food, croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by F 8 Duffy.
