Official Paper of New Bern and Craven County.

New Bern, N. C., Nov. 24, 1898.

The County Editor today will enjoy his turkey and "trimmings," taken on subscription, and feel that the world is a pretty good place after all.

The Oyster Editor of the JOURNAL sends greeting to the Raleigh Post, and extends an invitation to join in two dozen of the Native North Carolina oysters.

The esteemed Doctor Kingsbury of the Wilmington Messenger, has renewed his youth, and is gaily and joyously telling how the negro riot was suppressed.

The Progressive Farmer still believes in D. L. Russell as the State's "best Governor." The P. F. Editor must be using the products of the Russell Dairy Farm.

The Fayetteville Observer which has been very quiet for several months, has resumed business at the old stand and is again muttering against the Clevelandites, the Russellites, the McKintylites, the Goldites and the anti-Observites.

LEST WE FORGET.

There are sordid persons in this world who seem to forget that this life has anything in it except the living of today, and the oblivion of yesterday.

At this season of the year it is hard for the spirits of such persons to arise to a day of thanksgiving, to believe in, much less celebrate the occasion.

The person who cannot find something to rejoice over today, must indeed have a hard lot.

And the person who is blessed in health and friends, even if the worldly possessions be not of large proportions, has much to be thankful for.

Thanksgiving Day comes at a season of the year when nature tests the human side most thoroughly, and reveals the philanthropist at his best.

Communities as well as the individual have reasons for thankfulness, and surely New Bern, with even existing troubles cannot but rejoice this year for many blessings, having been so free from calamities, fires and disasters of all kinds during the past year.

And on this Thanksgiving Day, let every one feel that there is enough of joy to go around, and those who have an abundant share, let them divide with their less fortunate brethren.

The JOURNAL rejoices on this day with its patrons, friends and all the people of New Bern, and offers glad thanks for the many blessings received, as well as for the many dangers which this city and its people may have escaped during the past year.

Let all be the better for this day of Thanksgiving, and let worthy deeds be the proof of this thankfulness.

Present Interest Law is Dead.

The 6 per cent. law is a dead letter in North Carolina, except as it has power to frighten away any capital that, if a higher legal rate prevailed, or the field was open to competition with no legal instruction as to an interest rate, would seek this field for investment. Much higher rates are gladly paid by borrowers, but the big loan agencies and capitalists are loath to take the risks of an evasion of the law. Building and loan companies are debarred from the state by it, and local building and loan associations cannot legally carry on their business. The money market in this state is as narrow as a knife's edge and as close as a fresh clam. All lines of legitimate trade are choked and retarded, the credit system has spread until all business in the state is suffering from it. The splendid natural advantages of the state, for the manufacturer and the farmer and for all business that would go on in the

with their advances, are becoming widely known and the prospects of the state are opening gloriously. It is an evil of the greatest magnitude that now any law should stand in the way of the generous influx of capital to North Carolina. The 6 per cent interest restriction should be removed. This should be one of the first acts of the Democratic legislature.—Asheville Gazette.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address, F. J. Small Cap. Shafter.

"Pecora Bill is not the only nickname that General Shafter ever enjoyed," said an old newspaper man the other day. "Out in Denver he was known for years as 'Small Cap. Shafter,' and as he is anything but small the title calls for an explanation. It seems that a banquet some sort had been given to a lot of army officers, and among the guests was General, then Colonel, Shafter. The old Denver Tribune printed an account of the affair, and a list of those present was included in the article.

"When the proofs were examined before the paper was made up, it was observed that Shafter's initials were in lower case type, and the proofreader promptly marked them 'small cap.' meaning that they should be reset in capitals of a small size. The intelligent compositor supposed that the intelligent indicated some military title with which he was unfamiliar, and instead of making the proper correction substituted 'Small Cap. Shafter,' and thus it appeared on the following morning.

"Pecora Bill was used enough to bite nails when he saw the paper, but everybody else roared, and the title stuck to him until the yarn was gradually forgotten. It is still remembered, however, by plenty of old timers."

July in North Greenland.

The fierce July sun, though but a little past the northern meridian, beat down upon me with oppressive warmth. Before me the warm, red brown landscape wavered and trembled in the yellow light. Behind me towered the blinding white slope of the ice. Beneath my feet the stones were hot as if they had a dry, gray look, as if they were the bones of a dead world. And yet I felt that with so much of warmth and richness of coloring there must be life, and, sure enough, hardly had I gone 100 yards from the edge of the ice when a beautiful little black and white songster flattered up from behind a rock, hovered singing almost within reach above my head, and then settled upon a black stone but a few feet distant to finish his merry song.

Some Quaint Answers.

Irish domestics are widely noted for their simplicity and their quaint remarks. A lady, desiring to know the merit of her choice of table beer, the merits of which her servants had discovered, for it disappeared rapidly, thus addressed her Irish butler: "Daly, what do you think would be the best thing to do in order to save this beer as much as possible?" "Well, ma'am," replied the butler, "I don't think you could do better than to place a barrel of good strong ale close by the side of it."

An Able Defense.

"Why did Josephine dismiss her suit for damages?" "The man proved that he ran into her bicycle because he was looking at her."

How to Look Good.

Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver is inactive, you have a bilious look; if your stomach is disordered, you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys are affected, you have a pained look; if your blood is impure, you have a sallow look; if your system is generally unwell, you have a faded look. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alternative and Tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils, and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at F. S. Duff's drug store, 50 cents per bottle.

Red Headed Genius.

Intellectual people are those who understand what we mean when we don't say anything.

Scientific Flowers.

An Austrian chemist who has been making researches into the subject declares that out of the 4110 varieties of flowers known and cultivated in Europe scarcely 400 have any odor, and of these nearly fifty have an odor which is if any thing, disagreeable.

From New Zealand.

HURFORD, New Zealand, Nov. 23, '98. I am very pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicine the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children.

In the Season.

Football games are rampant now. The spirit's everywhere, and you feel it in your marrow bones and see it in your hair.

Man's household is saddened by death because of the failure to keep on hand a safe and absolute certain cure for croup such as One Minute Cough Cure. See that your little ones are protected against emergency. F. S. Duff.

Paris Eclair says: There is one fashionable word in France today, and it is an English word. Our up-to-date dandies and their female friend say of everything that is elegant: "C'est smart." One is no longer "chic," but "smart."

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with a pain in the chest or side, or a lame back, give it a trial. You are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. For sale by F. S. Duff.

Backed With Pure Silver Now Instead of With Mercury.

"How is a looking glass made?" was the question recently put by a writer to a large manufacturer of mirrors in New York. "Well," replied the manufacturer, "most of the glass used in this trade is prepared for us at a molding factory, and we merely cut, bevel and silver it in our works. All the bevels are cut in the same way—first with sand and water, then on an emery wheel and afterward put through several processes to render the surface only three riders and a horse's head. He has lost his reward." They rode up to the glass and demanded admission. The massive door behind was raised, and they passed through. But as they went in they were met by a man in a white coat, who said to them: "You are not the three riders and a horse's head. You are the Jew who has stolen my reward." They were taken to a room, and the man in the white coat said to them: "You are not the three riders and a horse's head. You are the Jew who has stolen my reward." They were taken to a room, and the man in the white coat said to them: "You are not the three riders and a horse's head. You are the Jew who has stolen my reward."

Not Legal Tender.

"I must request the congregation to contribute generously this morning," said Rev. Mr. Silsby, sadly. "My salary is eight months in arrears, and my creditors are passing. I, of course, work largely for love, and love equally, of course, is tender, but it isn't legal tender."

A LEGEND OF WORMS.

How the Prophecy of the Jewish Sage was Fulfilled.

Rabbi lived during the time of the first crusade, and one of the legends of Worms connects him with this event. He was one day seated with his pupils when a knight, full panoplied, made his way into the schoolhouse and with threatening mien thus addressed him: "Rabbi, thy name for wisdom has reached me and I have come to thee, my teacher, to learn. I have assembled a host wherever I purposed to drive the infidel Turk from the Holy City, but before I set out I demand to know whether any undertaking will succeed. Answer me at once. I have no time for delay."

The rabbi replied: "Thou wouldst learn the future from me! Alas, I am unable to foretell it. God alone can say what the future will bring forth. I have no power of divination, and my faith forbids the assumption of them. Pray, therefore, forgive me if I am unable to accede to thy request."

"Hah!" exclaimed the knight, in tones of passion, "I will listen to no refusal. Well I know that thou canst foretell the future if thou wilt. As truly as I am Godfrey of Bouillon, so truly do I promise to protect thee. Unless I would deceive thee, which I dare not do, at most I can but venture an opinion of what will happen to thee. Thy undertaking will only succeed in part. Of thy immense host but few will return. Only three riders and a horse's head will return in safety." With blanched countenance Godfrey of Bouillon turned to depart, exclaiming as he went, "Take care, Jew, if I return to find thou hast deceived me!" Godfrey of Bouillon went to Jerusalem, captured it and became its first king.

But his success was short lived, and the tide of war turned against him. Defeat and disease decimated his host until there remained but four riders of them all who made their way to Worms. "The Jew has not spoken the truth," he remarked, as the gates of the city came in sight. "He said we should return with only three riders and a horse's head. He has lost his reward." They rode up to the glass and demanded admission. The massive door behind was raised, and they passed through. But as they went in they were met by a man in a white coat, who said to them: "You are not the three riders and a horse's head. You are the Jew who has stolen my reward." They were taken to a room, and the man in the white coat said to them: "You are not the three riders and a horse's head. You are the Jew who has stolen my reward."

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR.

gives nature the mild assistance needed for the regulation of the menses. It is of wonderful aid to the girl just entering womanhood, to the wife, and to the woman approaching or going through the turn of life. Women who suffer from any unnatural drain, any bearing-down pains in the lower abdomen, any falling or displacement of the womb, can quickly cure their troubles at home, completely away from the eyes of a physician. A few doses taken each month will regulate the menses perfectly.
