Two Robbed By Four

Last Monday night two white men from Pollocksville were waylaid just outside this city, beyond the water works by four negroes and robbed. The names of the men were William Meadows and Henry Adams. They left here about 8 o'clock to walk home, going by the railroad and were come upon from behind and seized before resistance could be

They were relieved of their money and other effects, as well as pistols with which they appear to have Meadows was considerably beaten in the struggle. The above was reported by a visitor returning from Pollocksville.

Hin Lamarkable Escape.

Herbert Lupton, the son of Captain Lupton, who fell from the cross trees of the Schooner Henrietta Hill to the deck a distance of 65 feet, is reported as doing well and on the road to recovery with no serious internal injuries.

The reason that the fall from such a great height was not immediately fstal is that in the decent Herbert struck a rope which served to break the force of the fall, but even with this explanation the escape is sufficiently remarkable.

OUR NATIVE BIVALVE.

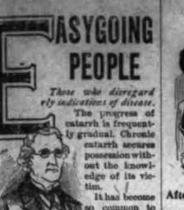

Shat the Raletyn Post's Orster Editor

Thinks of the Ovster. The most distinguished consideration of the gastronomic editor of the Post is due to the bivalve editor of its greatly esteemed contemporary, the New Berne Jounnal, for a substantial recognition of the Post's interest in the welfare of that large and eminently worthy class of our fellow citizens of Eastern North Carolina, who are assiduously engaged in the highly creditable occupation of propagating and disseminating that deliciously palatable product of our east-ern waters—the oyster. The substan tial recognition aforesaid is in the form of a bucket of regulation shape and respectable dimensions, crammed full of some of the largest and most delicately flavored specimens of the North Carolina bivalve that has ever tickled the slate of the gastronomic editor aforsaid. This sample | ackage, as the Post ing from how the tickets are going the is reliably informed by the eminently trustworthy bivalve editor of the Jour. NAL, was furnished by the large and well known fish and oyster house of the merits of this attraction, and ladies | Geo. N.
