IANY SECRET MINES.

but even the tradesman himself is not aware that the government rents his cellar, nor does he ever surmise the true nature of the operations carried on therein. The mines are equipped with explosives of the most potent kind and admirshly connected with the secret chambers on shore by means of electric

Each mine is controlled by a button, over which are printed particulars relating to the location and character of the mine. This button is placed in the wall of the secret chamber and covered by a double door, securely locked, the onier door so closely resembling the wall of the chamber that no one but those in the secret could dotect its presence. The chambers are double locked and approached by passages protected in a similar manner.

Every lock and key is specially made ons route to the secret chamber, where he is permitted to use his eyes, but not his tongue, no questions being answer-ed by the attending officials. Strange stories have been told of attracting a selemn wow of secrecy from his ladyleve and getting her to don the dress of a naval officer for the occasion, he was about to set out on his secret mission when, to his surprise and alarm, he and his companion were arrested by detectives. In some mysterious manner the natherities had been onlightened as to the proceedings on foot and were in time to stop them.

For "breach of regulations" the young lieutenant was subsequently court martialed and reduced, while his charming companion, who proved to be a spy in the employ of the French government, was conveyed back to her own country, with a caustic caution.

On another occasion a German gentleman contrived to locate the entrance to one of the secret chambers and actually hired a member of the Bill Sikes fraternity to sid him in negotiating the double locks one dark November night. But so splendidly fitted and fortified were these appliances both the visitors were decimed to disappointment. Returning from the rendesvous, both the plotter and his accomplice were arrested and imprisoned.

In 1866 the great five in London burned over 406 acres, distroying at least 855,000,000 murtin of property. In 1879 the Boston fire borned over 60 acres, at a less of $1,000,000 an acres. If the main fire occurred today, it reguld cost, at the very lowest estimate, $100,000,000. In 1806 the less on the 11s acres burned over was over $850, 200,000.

It was with a certain sense of injury that he saked, "Why, if Black wrote the book did he not put his name to it?"
"Oh don't you know?" was the instant response. "That is the best part of the joks. Dickens Was "Loud,"

In the momoir of the late J. H. Friswell there is a glimpse of Dickens which will seem familiar to those Americans who remember the somewhat flamboyant dress of the novellat. "On one occasion," wrote the author of the "Guntle Life," "we were walking down Wellington street and just passing the office of Household Words when a hansom cab stopped and out stepped a gayly dressed gentleman. His bright green waistcoat and vivid scarlet tie any one would have noticed, but the size of the nosegny in his buttonhols riveted my attention. My father fatroduced me, and I, who had only seen engravings of the Maclise portrait and photographs, was astonished to find myself face to face with Charles Dicka. m. to 6 p. m. Every lock and key is specially made for the government and is unlike any other. Only a few of the very highest officials are allowed to use these keys, and they are solemnly sworn to preserve their secret rigidly. No persons apart from those especially empowered may inspect or visit any of the secret chambers at any time except by express written permit personally procured from a certain high official. This is exceedingly difficult to obtain, and in fact is rarely ever granted.

Prior to such a permit being issued the officials assure themselves that the possessor of the document bears a biameless character, is British born and has no utterior reasons for preferring his request. This settled, he is sworn to secrecy in the most solemn manner, blindfolded and conducted by a circuitous route to the secret chamber, where

A young lieutenant in the navy, whose honorable character won the confidence of his superior officers some years since, was accorded the privilege of guarding one of these secret mines and intrusted with certain information concerning its character.

Soon after his appointment he became engaged to a charming young French lady of whom he was desparately enamored. By some inexpitcable means his finance got to hear of his appointment, and by alternate threats and persuasion induced him to take her to see the secret mine under his care.

On the evening arranged, after extracting a selemn vow of secrecy from his ladyleve and getting her to don the dress of a naval officer for the occasion.
